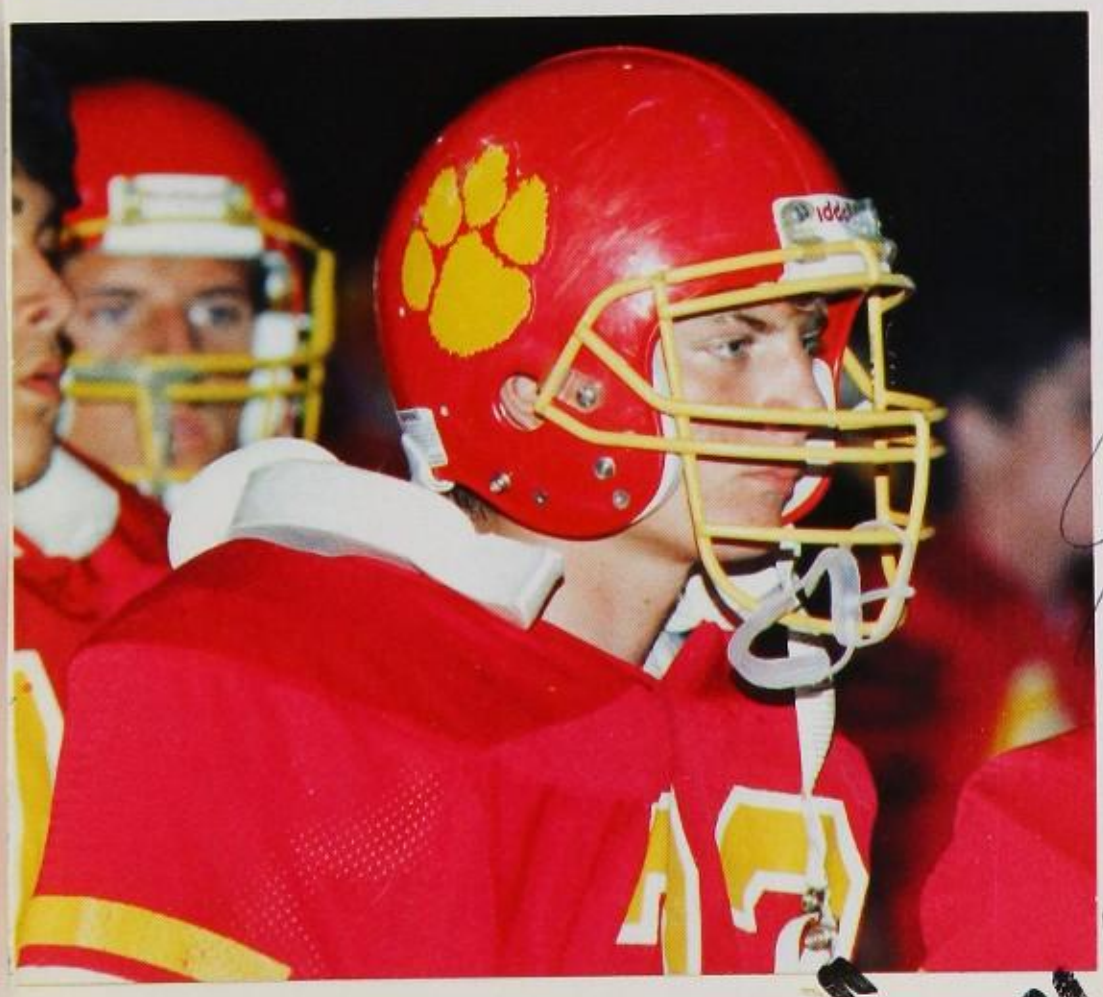
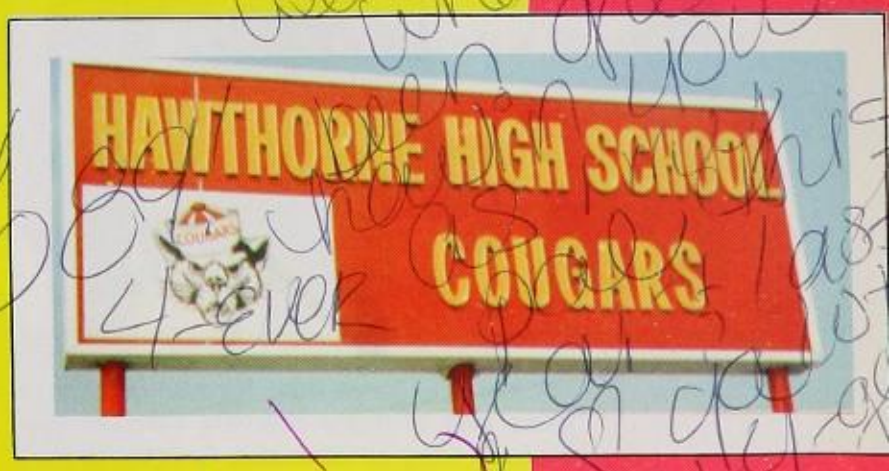
Dedicated Devoted Determined

El Molino
Hawthorne High
4859 El Segundo Blvd.
Hawthorne, CA 90250
Volume #36



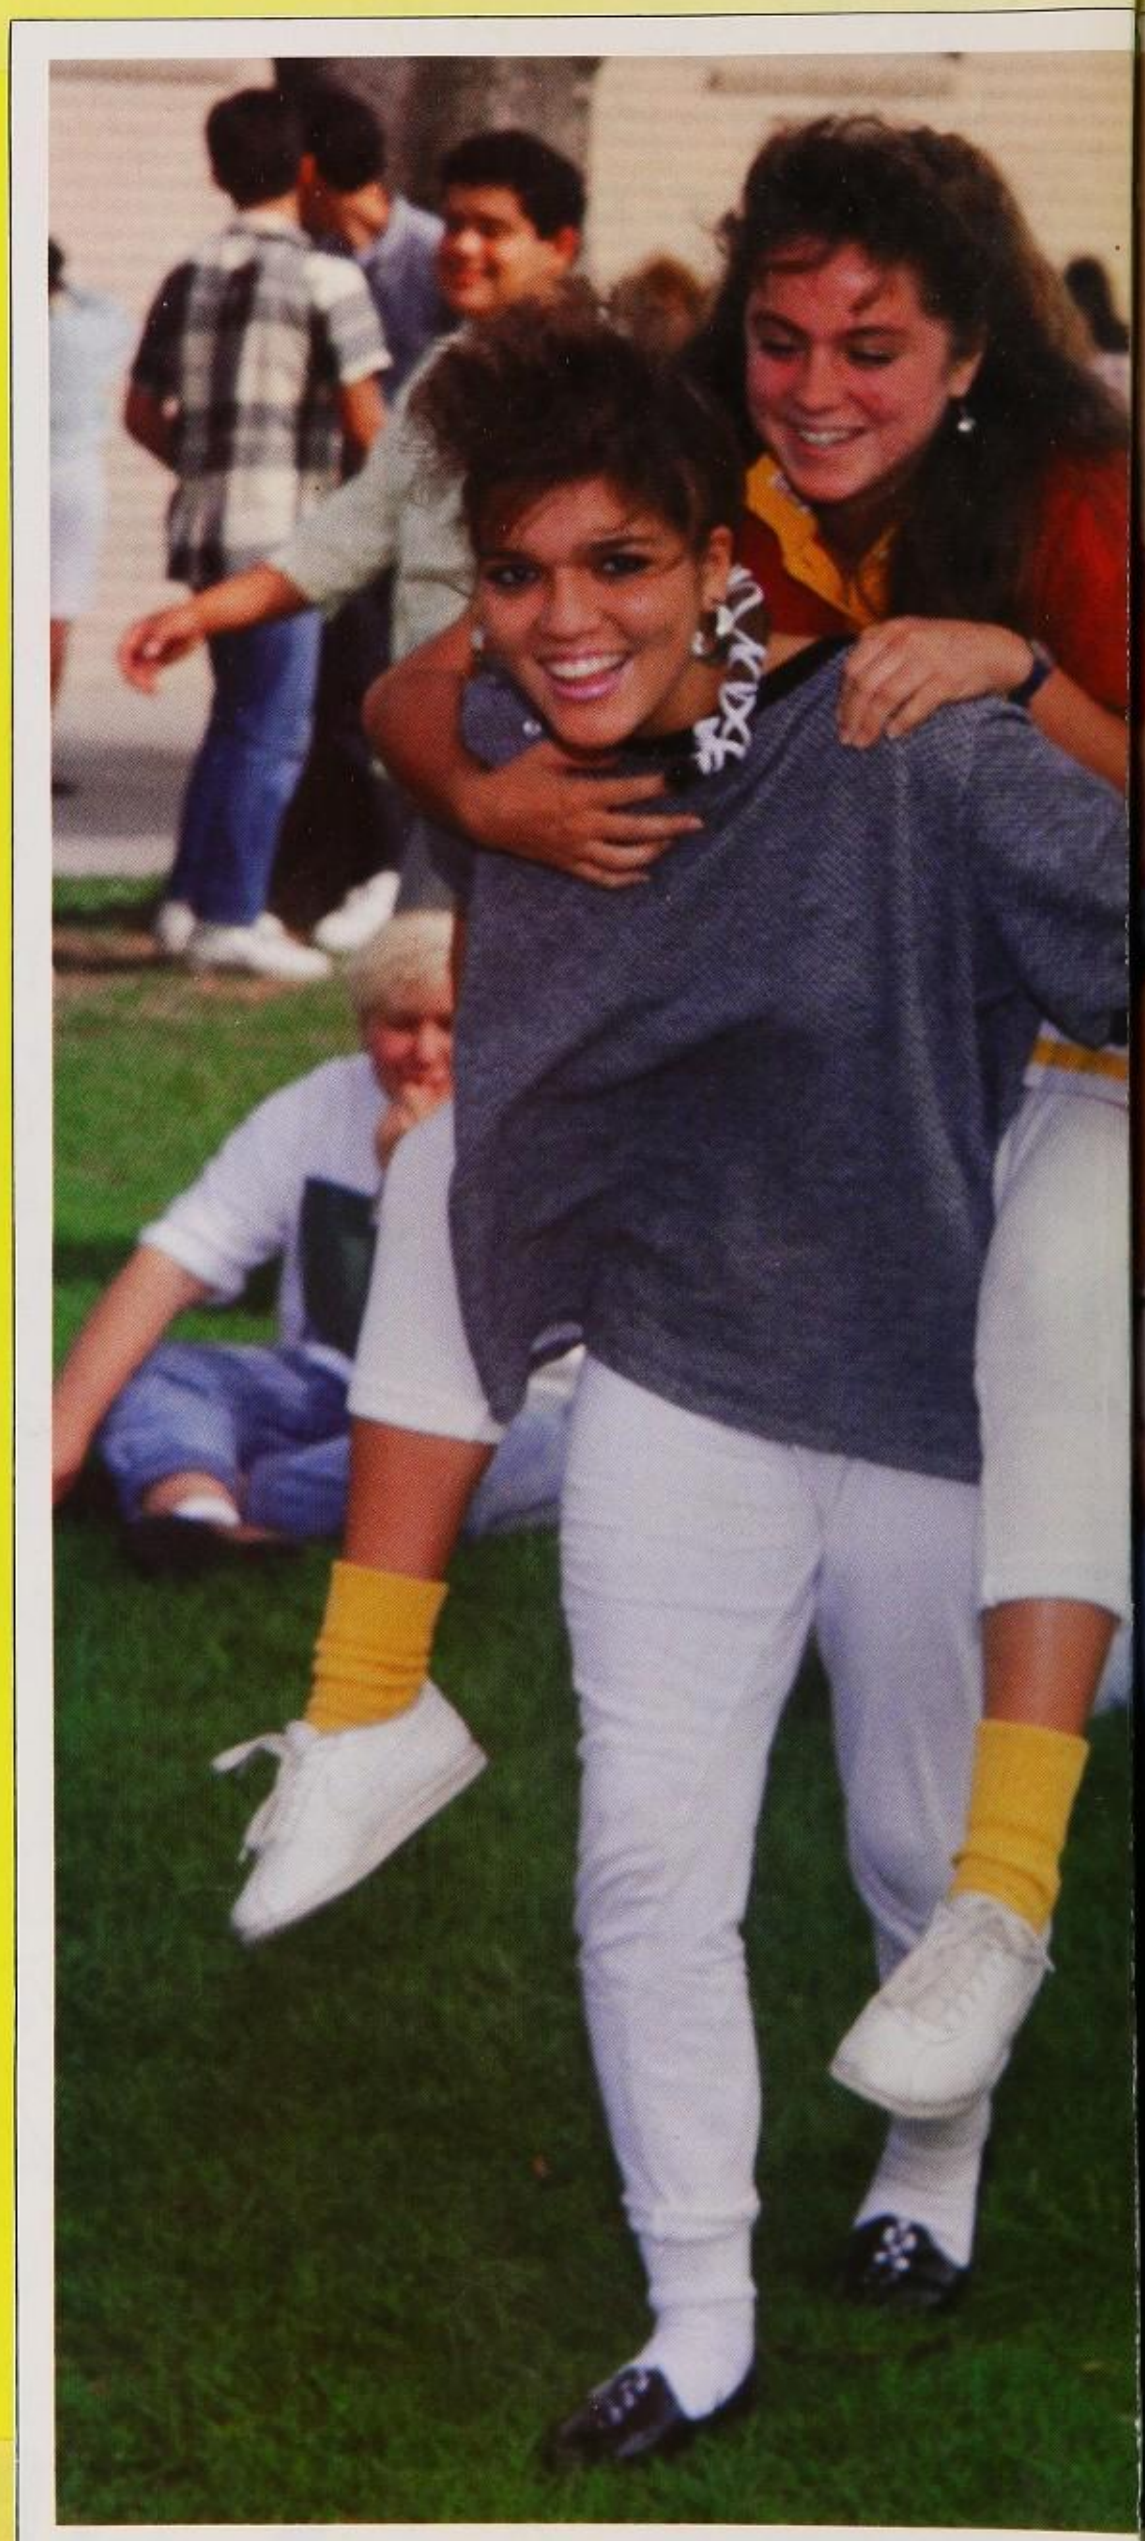


BEHIND BARS—The intense concentration of junior Carlos Ramsey is representative of Hawthorne's football program, on and off the field. The Cougars were Ocean League champions.

NO WAY!—Juniors Tricia Waayers and Nancy Benitez share a friendly debate over what outfit to wear to the next family gathering. Tricia was actively involved in school and city league softball.

PUCKER UP!—Senior John Norman and friend share one of many intensely intimate moments in front of witnessing Cougars at Key Way. John has been known to have lunch at Taco Bell.

PIGGYBACK RIDE—Senior Paola Flores transports her friend Myra Vilches across campus. Vilches was a Song Queen pepster.



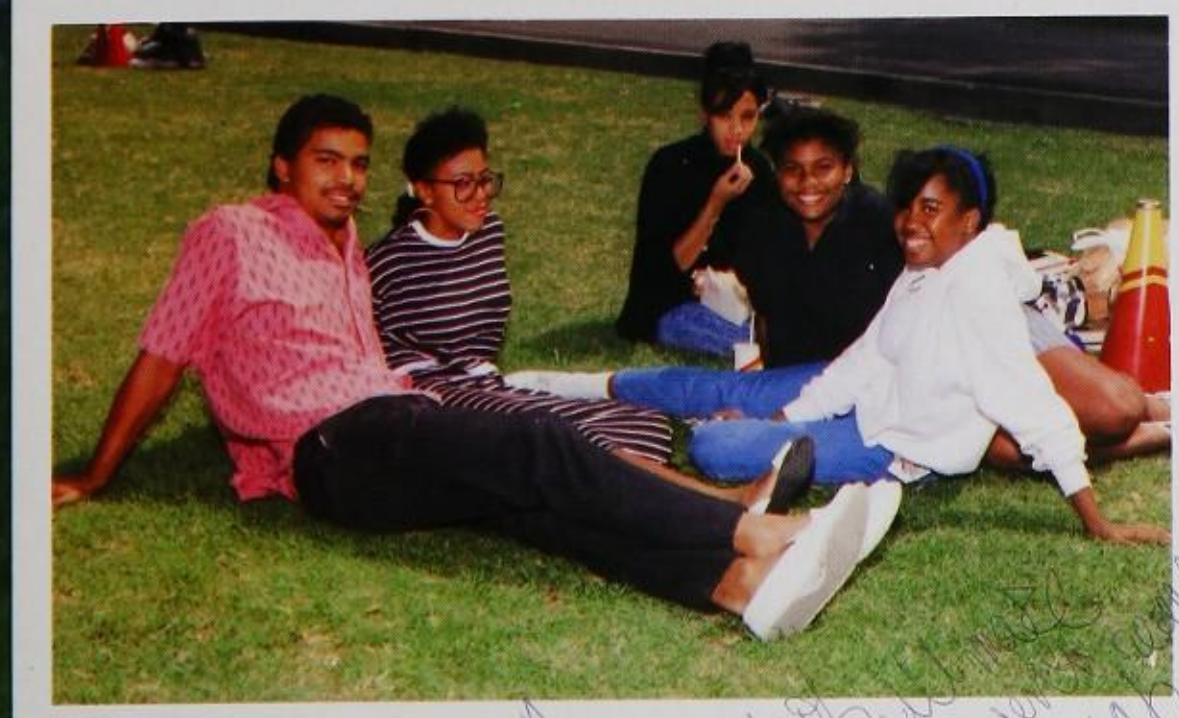
Dear Diary,

I can't believe it's already the first day of school! Summer simply flew by. Those lazy days and late-night bonfires are fading quickly into a jumble of class schedules, bells (when they work!), and textbooks.

I walked down Key Way today and saw so many new faces. There are 975 freshmen wandering around, as well as several new teachers such as Band director Andy Ishibashi and the English teacher Mr. Prater.

The next nine months are going to be exciting! Each month there is something new to look forward to. Homecoming in October, the fall play in November, the Christmas Dance in December . . . before we know it, we'll be walking up to receive our diplomas.

It's said that these are the best years of our lives. Each year holds such special memories. And so I must capture everything that happens at Hawthorne High School in the pages of my diary, because it's all too good to forget!



SAY CHEESE!—A group of Cougars politely pose for a picture while happily conversing during their lunch break. Students often spent noon time by the outdoor stage to witness pep rallies and activities held during the school year.

TABLE TOPPERS—On a lunch, students kick back and compare gossip. Students grouped in clumps on campus or went out to eat during the 40-minute lunch period.

JUST HANGIN' OUT—Elena Gutierrez, Carmen Castanada, and Diane Vargas pal around during lunchtime. This was Elena's first year on Pep Squad.

WHAT'S UP?—Clutching her friend, Carlo Laune, Tanya Calhoun contemplates smiling for the birdy. Tanya and her sister collaborated on a record album over the summer.

Dear Diary,

As if waking up for first period wasn't enough an earthquake shook the school at 7:43 one morning. Our substitute teacher was so frightened that she crawled under the desk with me!

We soon found that first period, like life, goes on in spite of earthshattering events.

One morning, we were surprised to see almost every clock in school suspended in time. The hands had become stuck at the 8:30 position. This lasted several weeks, forcing students to listen for the unpredictable bell, a voice over the intercom, or simply to guess when each period started and finished.

It is little things like trembling earth and frozen clocks that teach us not to take our school for granted. Spectators at the Homecoming football game could suddenly launch into a giant paper fight in the bleachers. A masked man could get suspended on Halloween for tearing open his trench coat. Incidents like these could make this year . . . too good to forget.

ALL THE WORLD'S A STAGE—Drama members M.J. Wells and John Portella relax briefly before rehearsal. Both students had leads in the fall play, "Plaza Suite."

SINGING IN THE REIGN—Homecoming Queen Annie Escobar and friend share a laugh during passing periods. Annie was also a member of chorus.

STUDENT COUNCIL BUDDIES—Seniors Iris Benitez and Trina Hoffarth and Juniors Susie Reynoso and Ray Camberos give their support at a pep raliy. All students, especially council members, were encouraged to attend rallies.

ZINGER ZAPPERS—Pepsters proclaim their choice for the night's victory. Posters with catchy phrases added spirit to Friday night football games.

Ken,
Hey there sexy! This has been such a great year, but it went by so fast! I'm really going to miss everybody next year! It's really sad to say, but I will! You're such a great person & I'll miss you. whatever you do, don't fall into the dangerous rut that I did— the fatal disease called— senio-itis! It's very deadly! Take care of yourself! Love ya, Suna H. c/o 88!! always POTENTIAL ENERGY—Quarterback Curtis Conway contemplates his strategy during a time out. Conway led the Ocean League with the most touchdowns. He was also named South Bay Player of the Year.

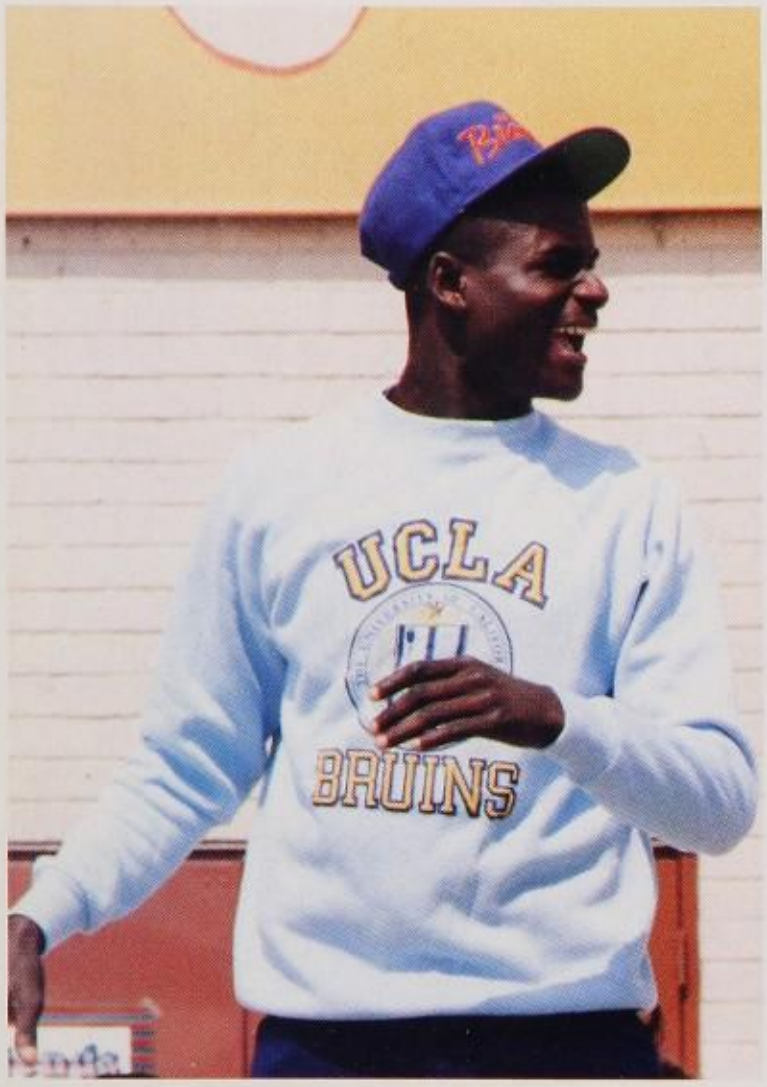
GRIN N' BEAR IT—Senior Victor Prince displays pride . . . in another school! Students often wore shirts with favorite college logos, such as UCLA and USC, around campus.



LOST IN SPACE—Seniors Erika Mourelo and Amy Sinanian gaze into another world. Erika played center on the varsity volleyball team.

1 AND A 2—Senior Cory Nagatoshi tunes up his guitar for the Homecoming Assembly. Football fans had the opportunity to hear Cory and band serenade the crowd during home games.

Ken,
Well it's down hill to go.
This year has been a lot of fun but Next is going to be the ever.

Youthful Telling! Year-round

Dear Diary,

With so many extra-curricular activities on campus, people must wonder if we ever learn anything in school!

Learning is everywhere! It is in the noisy discussions that our English class has over the works of Sartre and Shakespeare. It's in the fierce gasp for breath as a cross country runner breaks the tape at the finish line. It's in the proud flourish of the test paper bearing the 'A', and the fatal crumple of the 'F' paper.

Students and teachers engage in a vast trade-off of knowledge, sharing stories and philosophies and helping each other to learn and grow.

But the nicest thing about this abundance of education is that it can be fun! Be it concocting fudge over a Bunsen burner, memorizing 'ASDFGHJKL;' on the typewriter, or writing a short story, the education gained at Hawthorne High School is too good to forget.

STEPPIN' OUT—Homecoming nominee Kim Bly moves forward to greet the public. Kim was a member of the girl's varsity basketball team.

FINGER LICK'N GOOD—Senior Rena Gaxiola samples her solar sundae at the annual Ice Cream Social. The theme for this year's gathering was "Orbit into Ice Cream."

A RAH RAH FEEDS RAH RAH—Varsity Yell Fia Luatangi feeds football player Rodney Frith at the noon ice cream feed. Activities such as this were done to encourage the team.

STUDENT LIFE

Too Good To Forget

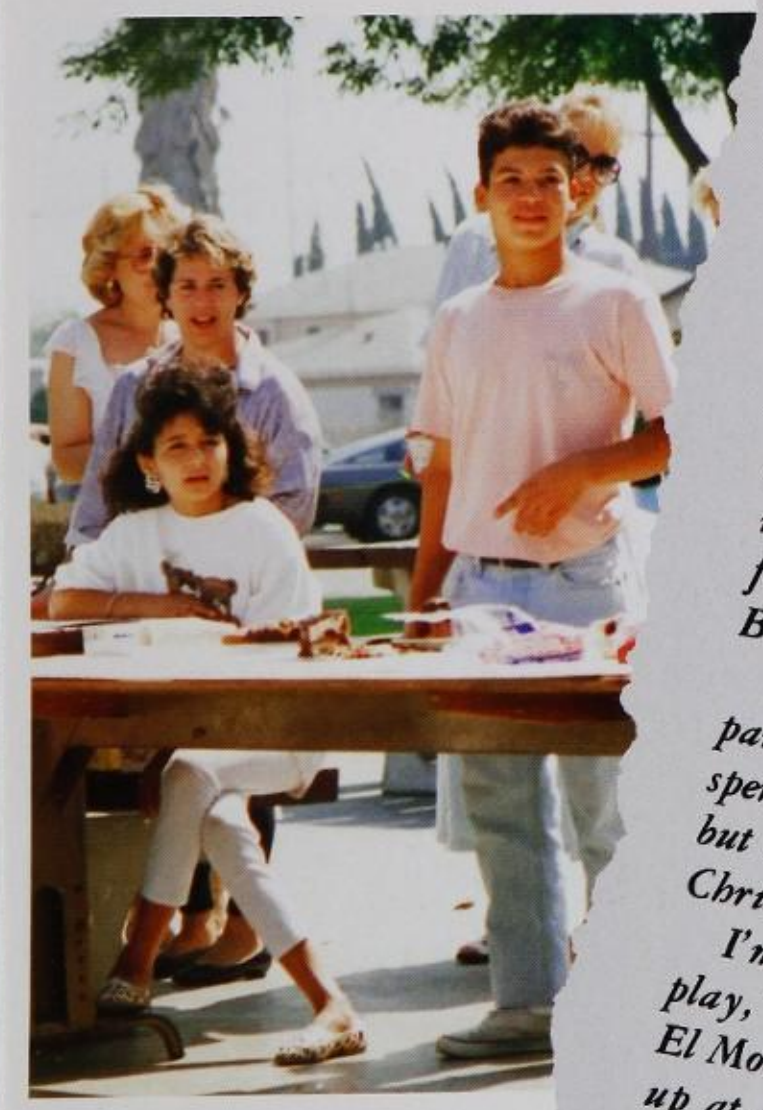
Dear Diary,

These people who say school is all work and no play are wrong. There's always some kind of activity going on at lunch or after school.

Friday night was so exciting! My friends and I went to the Mexican Fiesta and I accidently dropped a burrito on my new acid wash jeans. We were going to the football game, but we ended up at the Manhattan Beach Theatre, watching "Less Than Zero."

As it was still early, after the movie, we went to a few parties. Someone I barely know asked if I wanted to spend the night standing in line for U2 concert tickets, but I had to go shopping for an outfit to wear to the Christmas Dance the next day.

I'm in the midst of deciding whether to go to the fall play, "Plaza Suite," or the CIF Football game against El Modena this Friday night. Who knows! I could end up at a bonfire on the beach!



MORE CUSTOMERS!—ESL students show care for fellow classmate as they hold a bake sale to help pay for accident bills. The event caught the eye of many students on campus with reasonably low prices ranging from 25¢ to a dollar.

Outrageous Outfits

Acid. It's hot! No, not the kind you'd find in laboratories. When acid washed denims hit the stores months ago, it was a new twist to 'most everyone's favorite-jeans. Not only did they find jeans, jackets, skirts, overalls, and handbags acid washed, but also iced, frosted, blasted and distressed demins.

Black and white. Polka dots and stripes. Tier and pouf mini skirts many have been inappropriate for wintry seasons but it did not seem to have hindered girls from wearing them.

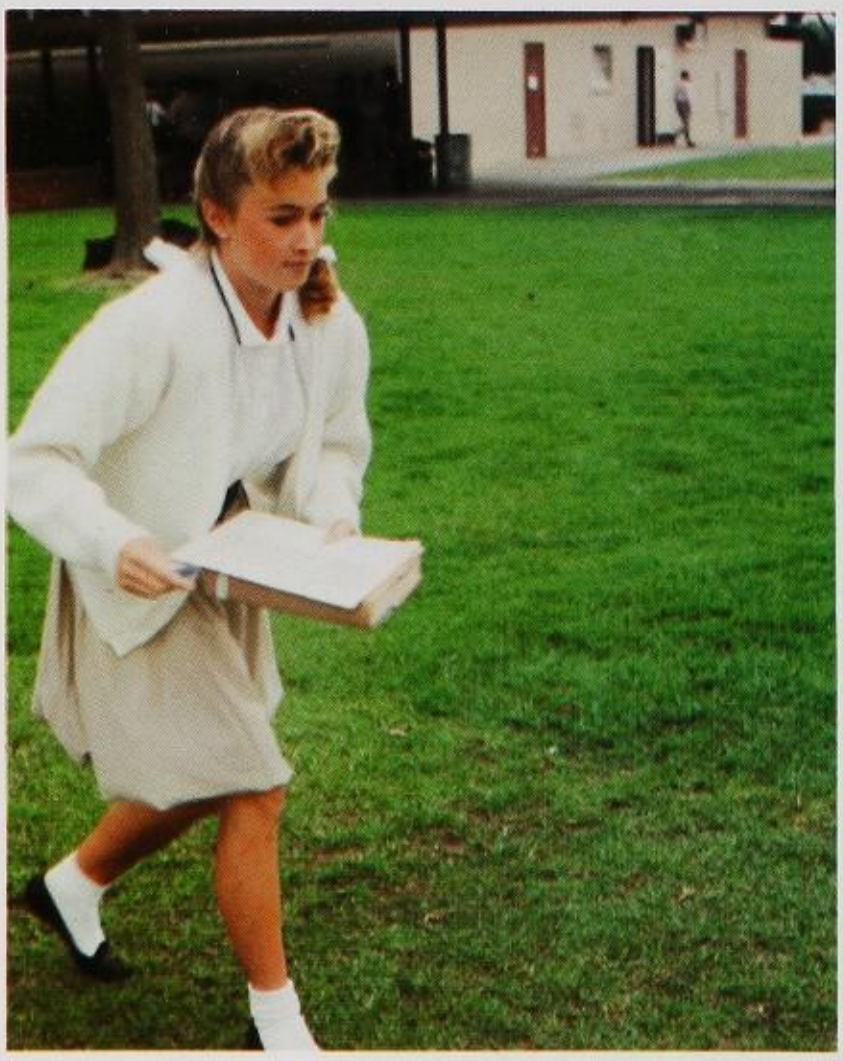
Paired off with crop tops in pale peach, pastel yellow, bold red, and a variety of others, girls were turning heads.

But in all fairness the guys looked terrific too! Bodies in Jimmy Z, Local Motion, Catchit, and other surfer name brands, were seen throughout the city on skateboards and bold colors and designs. "Even though they're expensive, they look good and you can't skate in pants," commented Senior Paul Bails. And when they felt a little dressy, they were strutting it in their Code Bleus, I.O.U.s, Forenzas, and Gorgio Brutini shoes

Whatever style, whatever color, students did not hesitate to express themselves. Not only did students express their style, in clothing, but also in the way they wore their hair. Contrasting hair and skin was one of the reasons students found the need to dye their hair black. Others showed their interest in high energy by having long bangs and spiking them up with mousse and hair spray.

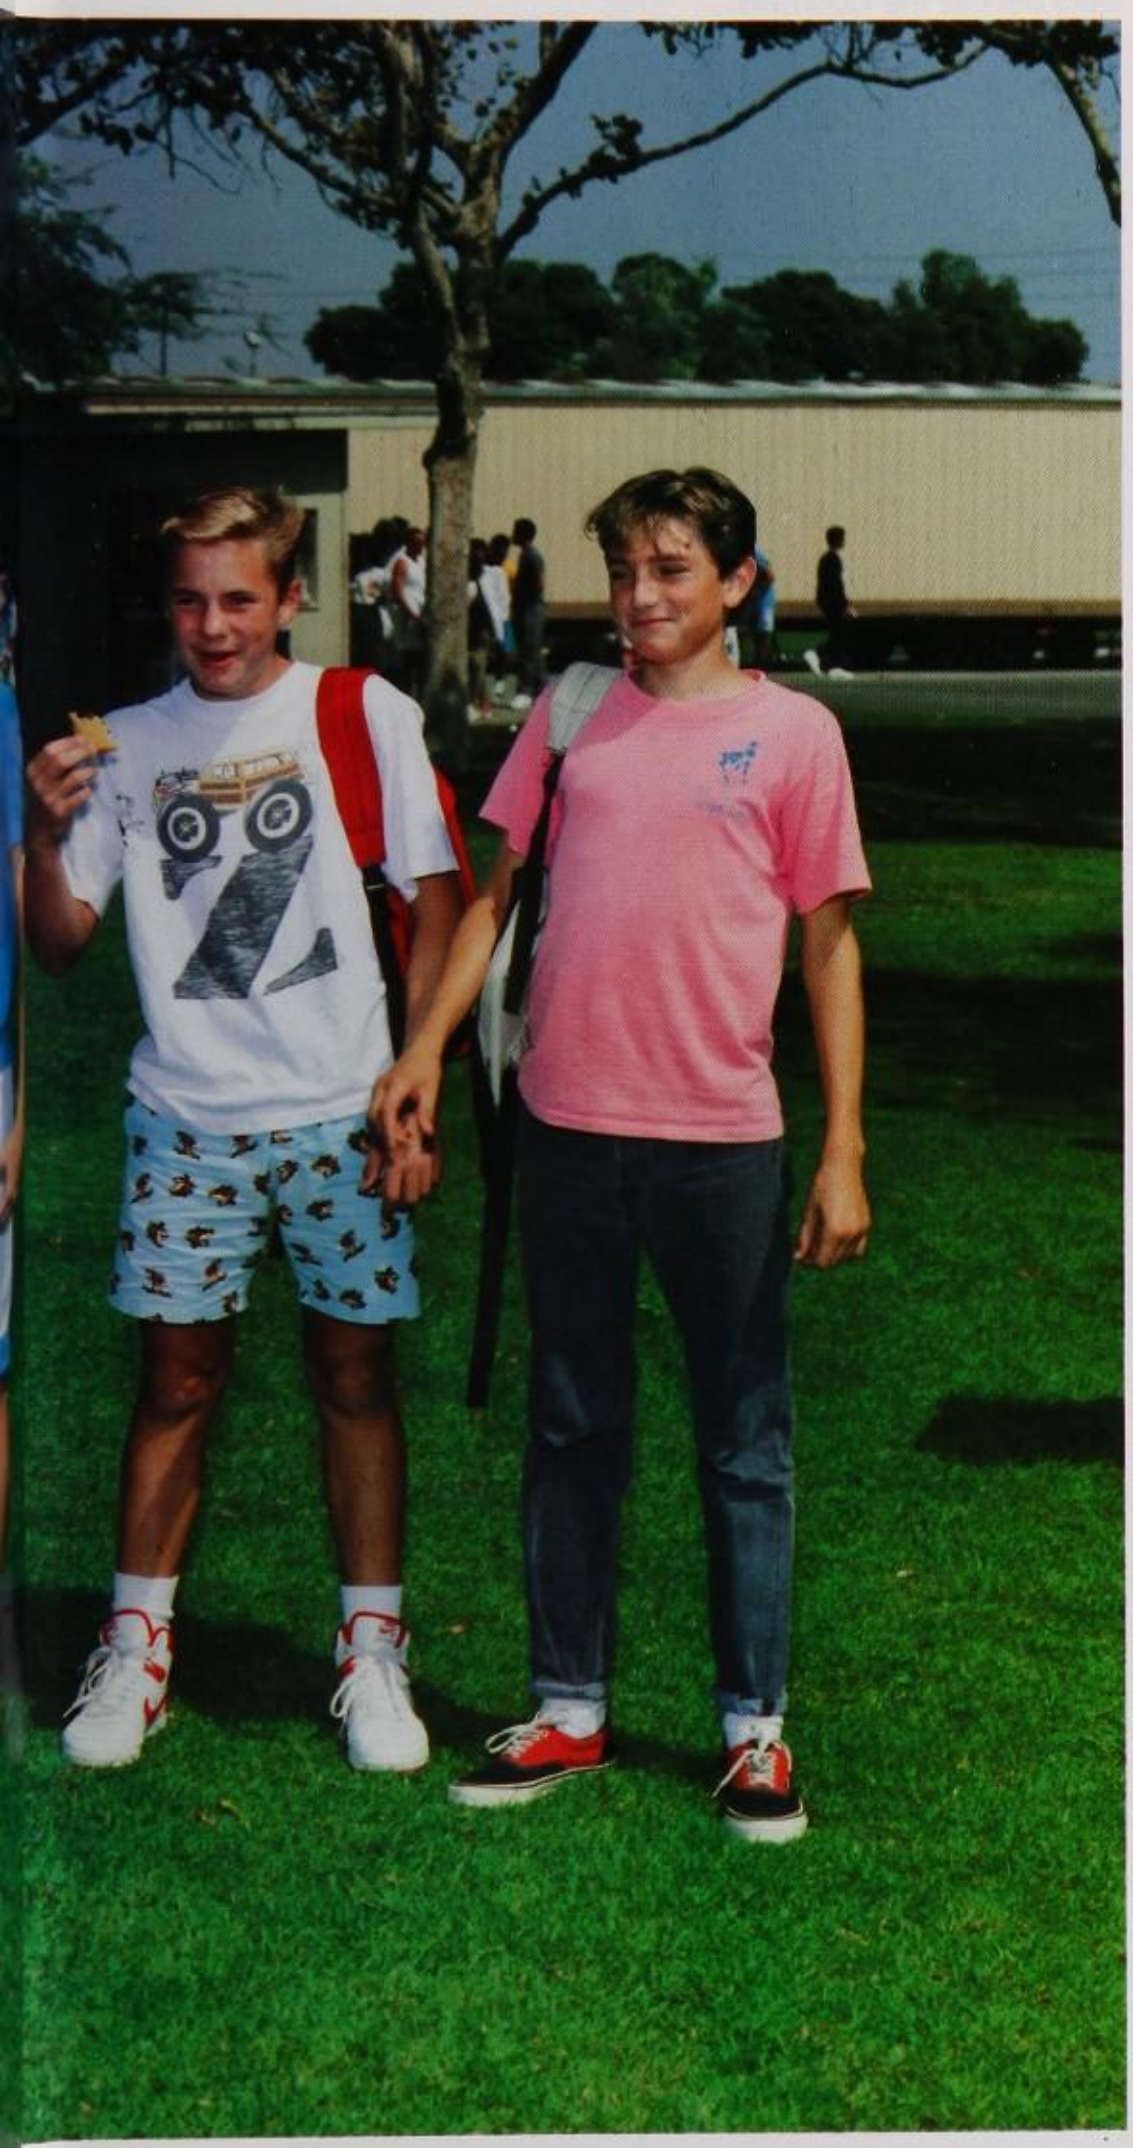
Nordstroms, Aardvaks, Broadway, Sweats and Surf, Bullocks, Salvation Army Thrift Store, Miller's Outpost . . . all for FASHION.

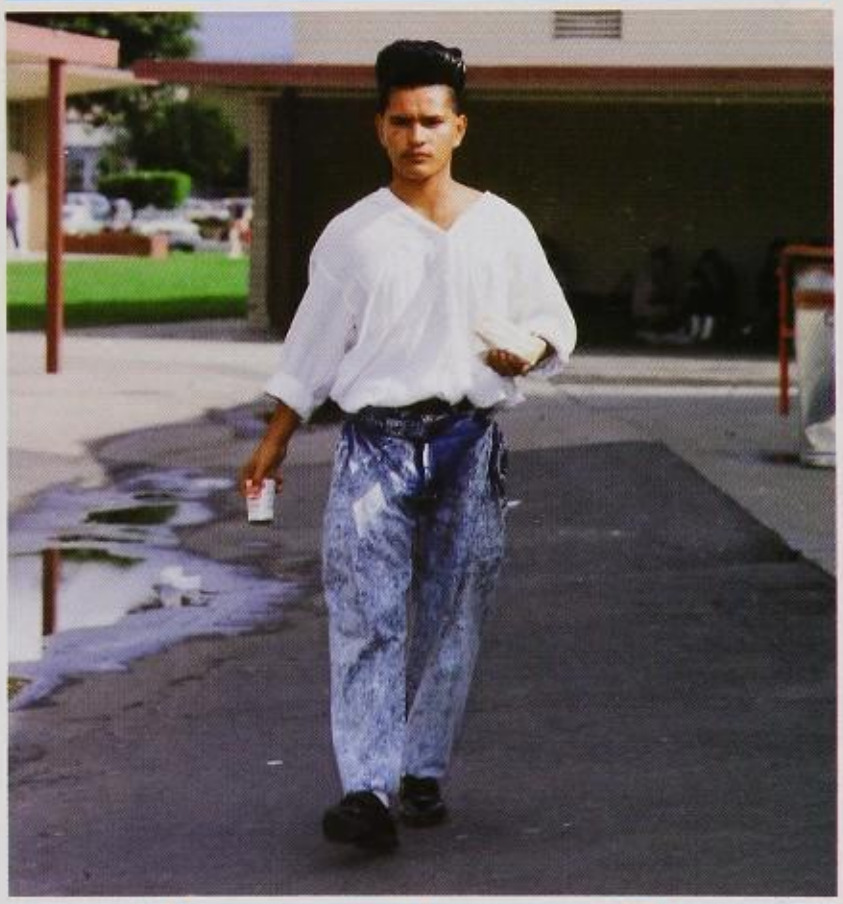
TAKE IT OR LEAVE IT-Veronica Guzman offers Erica Villalovos a taste of her drink. Dhoti pants were in-vogue fashion statements of the year.



BUYER BEWARD—Lynne Healy finds buyers for Drill Team fundraiser. The pouf skirt was a new version of minis.

KICKIN IT!— Michelle Scruggs Melanie Clayborn, Silvia Deviso, and Erika Mourelo show that the Western style is alike. Boots varied from blue denim to black leather.





CHOW TIME- Carlos Magallenes rushes to eat his nutritious lunch from the snack stand. Magallenes said acid-washed denim makes him feel like a GQ man.

LOOKIN' GOOD—Greg Roberts, Brian Baker, David Quintka, John Llados, and Jesus Barba show that they are too good-looking to be trashed. Maui and Sons, Hobie, Jimmy'z, and Quicksilver were popular "surfing" clothes.

Spacy Social Scoop

5 4, 3, 2, 1 Take off. Stars and planets dotted the cafeteria. Two rockets donated by Robert F. Kennedy Medical Center took hungry orbiters a little out of this world. Variety of flavors were offered: Solar Sundaes, Saturn Saturdays, Rockety Rootbeer floats, and Spacy Splits were the favorites!

The ice cream social was the first event sponsored by Student Council in September. The cafeteria had to be turned into an inner planet waiting for an invasion. By 5:30 pm, people were waiting in line for their spacious ice cream.

Junior Dinah Vilches whined in frustration, "There were so many toppings, I wished I could have tried them all." The galactic event attracted one of the largest crowds ever. $150.00 in profit was made. "I believe we sold 400 bowls of ice cream," stated senior Linda Shin, chairperson.

Though the event was profitable, it was hectic for Student Council members behind the counters. They ran out of whipped cream, and knew that telling the hungry space invaders wouldn't be a pleasant job.

"It was a mess, but it still was lots of fun," stated sophomore Tricia Barron.

As "Orbit into Ice Cream" headed towards its destination, students headed towards the commencing football game against Leuzinger.

LET ME HELP—Cynthia Cucalon gives Nancy Turner a helping hand. Cucalon was Student Council secretary for 1st semester.

GUILTY SMILES—Geraldine San Mateo and Eun Song are caught fooling around on the job. Both were second year Student Council members.

I'M DONE!—Dolores Arias stares into space while waiting for Dorgely Blanco to finish her ice cream. Arias was a four year Spanish student.

EAT YOUR HEART OUT—Erika Mourelo, with friend , enjoys her Saturn Saturday to the max. She was nominated for Homecoming Queen.

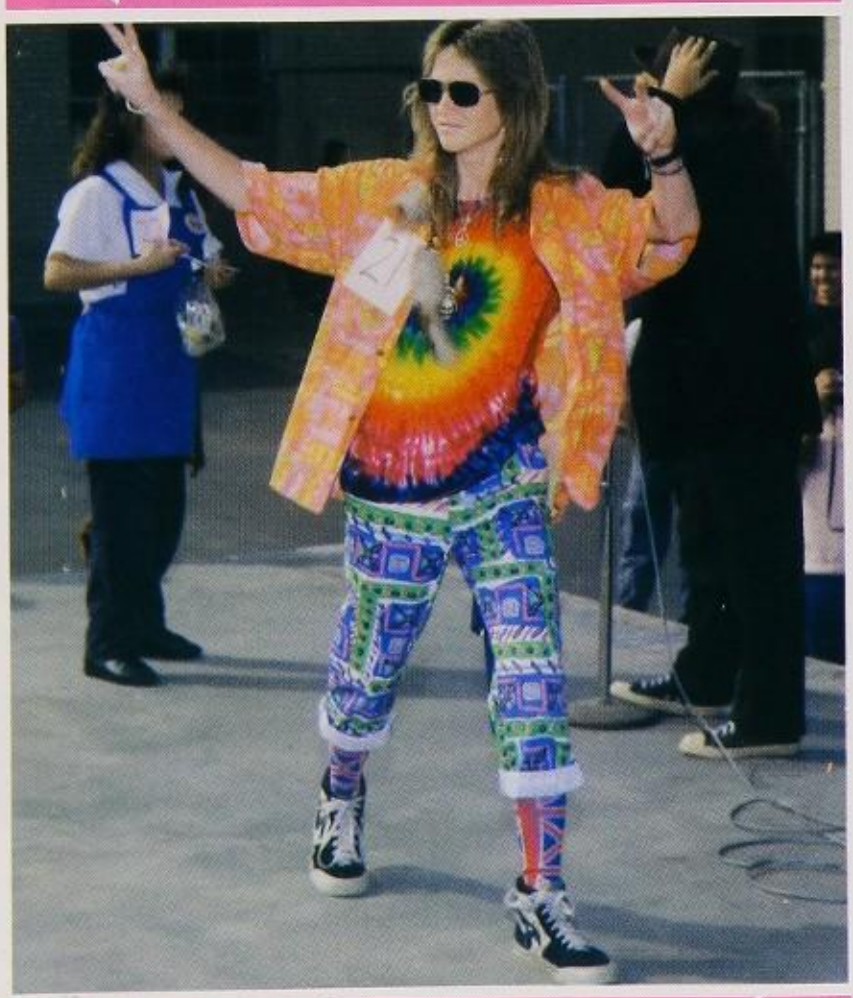
TCC IC.



FREDDY'S REVENGE!—Honors English 405 wins first place for scariest pumpkin. Dyed pink spaghetti was used for the brains and guts.

FLOWER POWER—Jim Marsh wins most unusual costume for his collage of outrageous colors. Marsh played the harmonica in his spare time.

NATURE AT ITS BEST—Bunny Pierce and Angie Monllor wait in suspense as the winner is announced. Monllor won cutest costume and Pierce took sweepstakes.

Mysterious Masked Manuel

Act I

FRESHMAN: Gee whiz, when I become a sophomore I think I'll join the Knights if I get to wear armor like that.
JUNIOR: Don't be silly. Knights don't wear suits of armor. At least not the service club I know. I'm a member.
FRESHMAN: Well why is everyone dressed so weird?
JUNIOR: It's Halloween!
FRESHMAN: What are you supposed to be?
JUNIOR: If I'm wearing a mask and a cowboy suit, what do you think I am?
FRESHMAN: Zoro?
JUNIORS: No, stupid, the Lone Ranger.
FRESHMAN: What's going on over there? (pointing towards the outdoor stage)
JUNIOR: That's the annual costume contest.
FRESHMAN: Are you going to enter?
JUNIOR: No, but I'll watch. Want to come?
FRESHMAN: You, a junior, would be seen with me, a freshman?
JUNIOR: Sure, I'm wearing a mask, no one will notice.

Act II
(front of outdoor stage)

JUNIOR: Well, what do you think?
FRESHMAN: What's that? A rabbit in a hat?
JUNIOR: Yeah! That's Bunny Pierce.
FRESHMAN: That's kind of redundant.
JUNIOR: Huh? Look, there's a Freddy Krouger.
FRESHMAN: If you think that's scary, look over there, the "Grim Reaper."
JUNIOR: Who?
FRESHMAN: You know, death.

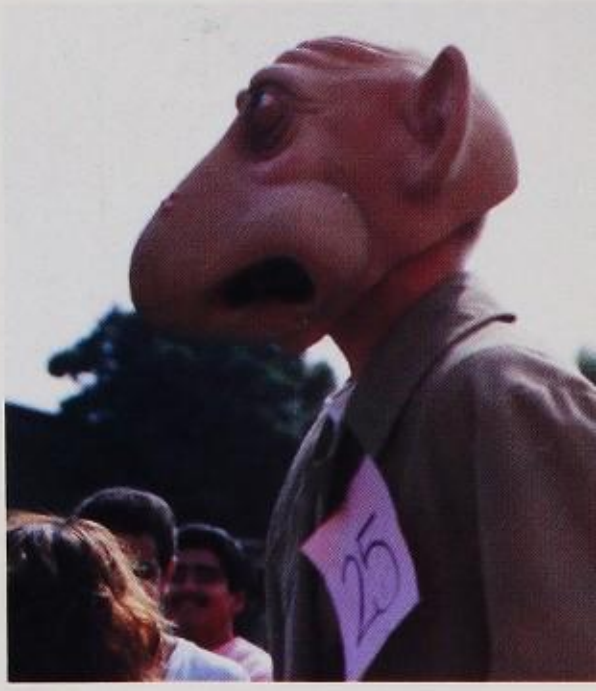
THE END

LIKE FATHER, LIKE SON—Nick Koza gives a little fatherly advise to Fransisco Uribe. Koza was on Cougar staff.



THE NOSE KNOWS—Gene Henderson looks on as the costume contest is held on the outdoor stage. Henderson was a member of the wrestling team.

Sweet Suite Sensations

the time? Ten p.m. The night before opening night of the fall play, Plaza Suite, by Neil Simon. The place? Nyman Hall. The reason? Last dress rehearsal and complete run through of the entire two hour show . . . twice.

Both run-throughs have been completed and the exhausted actors are seated in the front row prepared for notes. Mrs. Martinez enters.

Mrs. Martinez: Overall, the show ran smoothly except for a few mistakes. What happened in act one? The shaver was missing and so was the phone. What's going on back there? Tim, we need to fix that light switch. It fell out when Alex slammed the door. Melissa!

Melissa: What? I thought I did great.

Mrs. M: That was the worst you've ever done. Next time, take the coffee cup by the handle. It's supposed to be hot. Oh! Sharon, I almost forgot, good cover up on the phone line. Act two lines were skipped. Good run through. Ricky—project!

M.J. (raising hand): There were props from act one left on stage—

Ricky: And my gargle water wasn't in place.

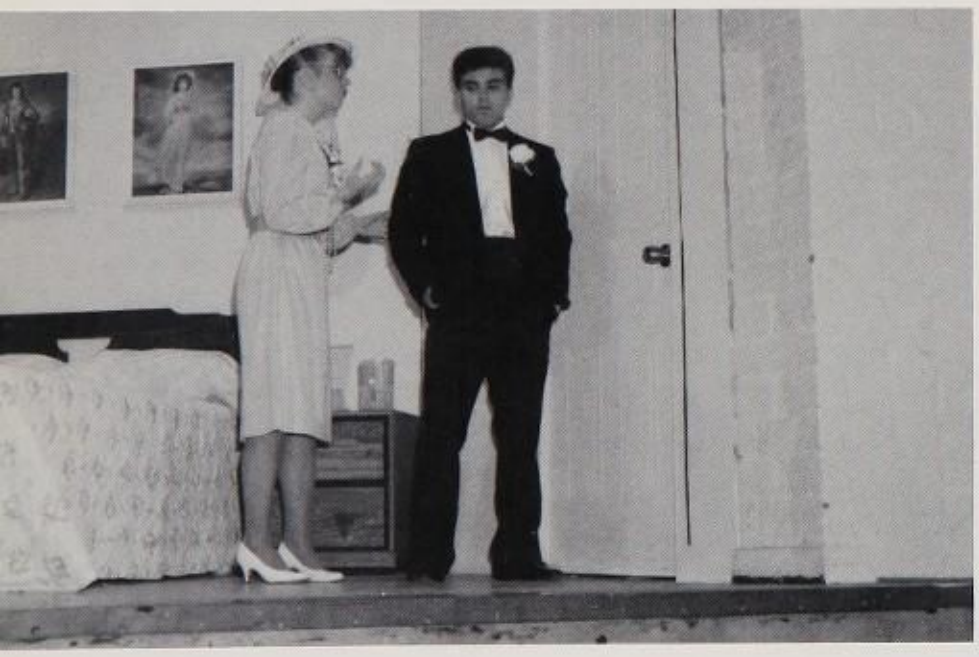
Mrs. M: Stephanie will take care of it. Act three was the best so far. Good facial expressions on the part of Karin. John, play more to the audience on the ledge scene. Bob, can we make the rain a little louder? Karin, walk softer.

Bob: Yeah. How were the light and phone cues?

Mrs. M: Great! Now I think we have a good show here. We've put in hard and long hours and I'm sure we all want it to be successful. I know it will be. Go home, eat, and get plenty of sleep. We have a big day ahead of us tomorrow.

Mrs. Martinez's expectations were not unfulfilled when massive crowds filled the auditorium on November 19, 20, and 21. "Plaza Suite was one of the most professional shows I've been in," exclaimed junior Arthur Martinez.

"This was a great opportunity for the cast to grow as better people and actors," stated Mrs. Martinez.



I'LL HUFF AND I'LL PUFF . . . Karin Cunningham and John Portela await the entrance of their daughter. Portela was also on El Molino.

TAKE AN AFFAIR?— Melissa Wilmot takes notes from Alex Ambriz. Wilmot was a two year member of the Diaconians.

WHAT ARE YOU SO NERVOUS ABOUT? M.J. Wells and Ricky Wasson bring the characters of Muriel Tate and Jesse Kiplinger to life. Wells was a member of chorus and El Molino.

GGGRRRR!!— Karin Cunningham expresses her frustration. This was Karin's first play.

". . . AND HAPPY ANIVERSARY TO YOU."-Alex Ambriz and Sharon Sperling argue over their anniversary date. Abriz was a member of Jazz Band.

SPREADING SMILE—Lew-ray Rosada escorts Annie Escobar from the football bleachers. Escobar was in the fall play.

Rappin'

Revelations

With announcements of the ten 1987 candidates for Homecoming, the performance by Drill Team and band, the introduction of a sophomore rapper seemed to only turn a few heads on that bright sunny afternoon. But when the rap began and the crowd caught the beat, Cornell Black surprised his spectators with such a feat:

Hawthorne High, it's down and it's hard.
I'd rather kick it here, then on the boulevard.
Boulevard is cool, but school is better.
If you make it to the twelfth, then you get a letter.
You have to have brains, skills, and education
To make it through life, you need determination.
Football is a sport, at which we're great.
Our team is good, and high is our rate.
Hal Cap Field, is the place to be.
Freshman, sophomore,
and of course, varsity.
Coach Casillas, Bell, and Plum too,
They decide who joins the varsity crew.
He's tough, he's bad, too
hip, too hot.
Number 3 Curtis Conway,
you just can't stop.
His defense is tough, he'll knock you to Paris,
He's number 1, and he's Kevin Harris.
He's a diesel, he's a train, and it's no story.
His number's 55 and he's Lemory.
On the ninety yard line, you'll see him at night
To catch the ball and hold it tight.
He's Travis Hannah, the pick of the crop.
He's been with the team,
from bottom to top.
Hold up that banner of Scarlet and Gold
Show them our pride, let the spirit flow.
Stay in school, and you'll go far
Always be proud that you're a C-o-U-G-A-R!

THAT'S US!—Curtis Conway, Kevin Harris and Travis Hannah rejoice at the mention of their names in the rap. All three were members of varsity football.

STRETCH!—Michelle Chaput and Renee Chaput show their beauty and grace. The Chaput sisters were two years apart.

ROYAL PROCESSION—Shon Kilman and Myra Vilches excitingly strut to position after having their names announced. Junior Marianne Carlton escorted all of the court to position.

Lunchtime Laughter

Sung to the tune of Gilligan's Island; Just sit right back
And you'll hear the plan,
The plan of activities
What goes on during lunch besides munch munch munch.
It starts off early in the morn,
In building two, room four Where Council members brainstorm
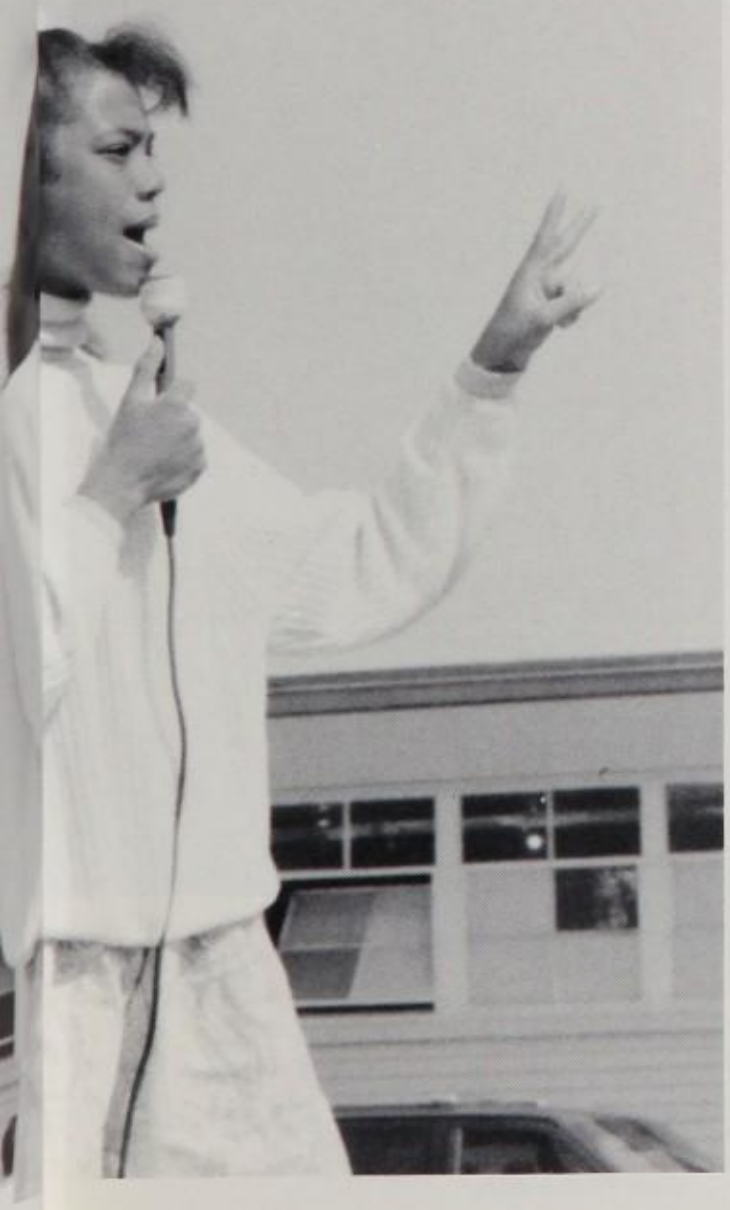
For fun and games and all.
The discussion started getting hot,
No one could agree.
If not for the presence of the ASB pres
Activities would never be.
Then on Friday the crowd assembled
All waiting for the games
With Tug of war
Balloon pop too.
The mummy-wrap and D.J.'s.
Pep squad rally,
Elections and club meetings Here in Hawthorne High!

PEACE, BROTHER— Commissioner of Activities Shaun McKinney instills class spirit in the masses. When not involved in school, she was constantly participating in church activities.

CAUGHT IN THE SACK— Fierce competitors Nancy Turner, Dionne Young and Laura Rems prepare for the sack race. All three were Council Members.

SMILE FOR STEVE— Co-captain Eleanor Sia prepares for a pirrovette. Eleanor divided her time between Drill Team, calculus and Steve Shapiro.



JOHNNY B. GOOD— Sophomore John Bortz attempts to pull the freshman class to the ground. Bortz was a writer on the El Molino Staff.

GOODYEAR IN ACTION— Sophomores Eun Song and Geraldine San Mateo help Eric Dunnick to balance on a tire. Student Council Members continually thought of new activities to interest students.

Star-studded Smiles

Silence fell over the crowd. Tension was building stronger every second, as the anxiously awaiting mob of people listened for the announcement of the 1987 Homecoming King and Queen.

"It seemed as though the announcer was taking forever to tell us the winners, just to leave us in suspense," complained Junior Lori Wood.

"And the winners are Annie Escobar and Angel Gonzales!" proclaimed announcer Richard San Mateo. An overwhelming roar of applause filled the air.

Miss Escobar was nominated by Dance production; she was also involved in Drama. Gonzales was nominated by Pep squad; he was one of two male cheerleaders on the team.

While all the excitement was taking place on Hal Cap Field, the hired DJs were setting up their mounds of amplifiers for at the dance.

Although losing the game was an unexpected disappointment, most students entered the gym ready to have a good time. The creative, dazzling decor had people in awe! The stars dangling above added class.

The latest song Push It by Salt n' Peppa was thumping from the huge speaker, enticing students onto the dance floor.

When you wish upon a star was the colorful theme of the evening.

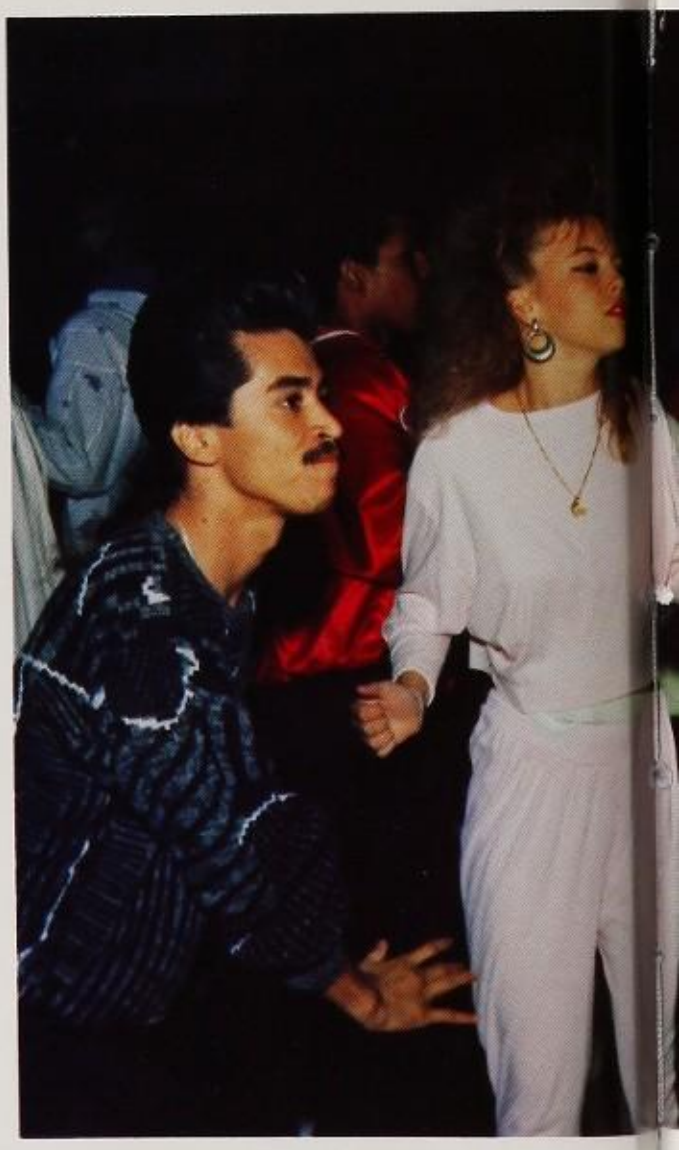
RA RA RA—Junior Eric Mullins cheers on the football team during the homecoming game. The loss of the game was unexpected.

ON THE TRAIL—Beverly Hills tries hard to catch Will Fifita as he runs to help the wide receiver. The football team went on to the C.I.F. playoffs.

Thanks to the senior class, the festivity was voted most memorable.

"Homecoming was the best school event I went to. Everyone was getting off, enjoying the music, dancing, and socializing. The whole night was really fantastic," stated senior Manny Vargas.

The last glitter from Homecoming festivities faded in the early hours of the morning.



GET DOWN—Junior Vanessa Chaverri dances to the best of Solid Gold Productions. Chaverri was a Diaconian.

STICK IT OUT—Elke Qallo and guest find it hard not to dance to the raging tunes of Solid Gold Productions.

REGAL ROYALTY—Homecoming King Angel Gonzalez embraces Queen Annie Escobar soon after they were announced. Plaques were given to the winners and the finalists, a new tradition.

Wacky World of Weekends

"Let's party!" The words were often shrieked by students, especially on Fridays.

When the weekend rolled around, the eyes of students lit up. They had the freedom to choose how to spend two glorious days moping around with their friends.

The weekend was a time to forget about school homework, or often anything that involved any mental process. Each person had different interests and the weekend was the right time to discover them. Activities ranged from partying at the Florentine's to camping at Joshua Tree.

"Learning to live off of the land is very interesting, but it's awfully cold out there!" stated sophomore David Castaneda. David liked to swim and fish while at camp.

The main attractions during the weekend were parties. Parties were a good way to meet people and have fun. If there was a party all the school would know about it, and everybody, invited or not, would show up. "Parties are the best way to loosen up after five days of school," said junior Victor "Pops" Soto.

Many students hung out at the Galleria, Hawthorne Plaza, Manhattan Beach, or Venice Beach. Anywhere there was action students could be found.

For many, the weekend was a time to add extra cash to their pockets.

Westwood was also a big attraction. The fast-paced action provided a "party animal" atmosphere for students. "It's the best place to go shopping, see movies, and especially to check out the college men," stated an excited sophomore, Christine Secord. No matter what, students looked forward to weekends!

PIZZA PALS—Claudia Faggoufeh, Saudia Uriel, and Annie Escobar enjoy their Saturday lunch at Pizza Hut. Escobar was a member of Advanced Drama.

I LIKE THAT—M.J. Wells and Erenie Sia are caught checking out the rad plaid at an Esprit store. Sia was a member of the Diaconians.

OUCH!—Sophia Flores takes off her shoes after dancing with David Novas at a quinceanera. Sophia Flores was a member of Dance Production.

Foreign Frenzies

June 27, 1987

I can't believe that I was able to stuff 44 pounds of luggage into one suitcase. Only three weeks ago I had no idea what country I would be going to.

"My three days of orientation in New York have been unforgettable. The rooms remind me of army barracks, and the mashed potatoes and meatballs are truly "mess hall style." I've met many new friends since hundreds of other "AFSers" from all over the world are also staying in New York before they embark to countries all over the world.

July 13, 1987

"I'm still trying to figure out what possessed me to travel so far away from my home to spend an entire summer with strangers in foreign surroundings. I loved the idea of becoming a foreign exchange student, but I had no idea that things would be so different. I miss my Dr. Pepper and Cheese Balls and why aren't they speaking English; after all isn't it the "so called" Universal language? I love my host family's hospitality, but how do I explain to them that after the third serving, "Really, I couldn't eat another bite!"

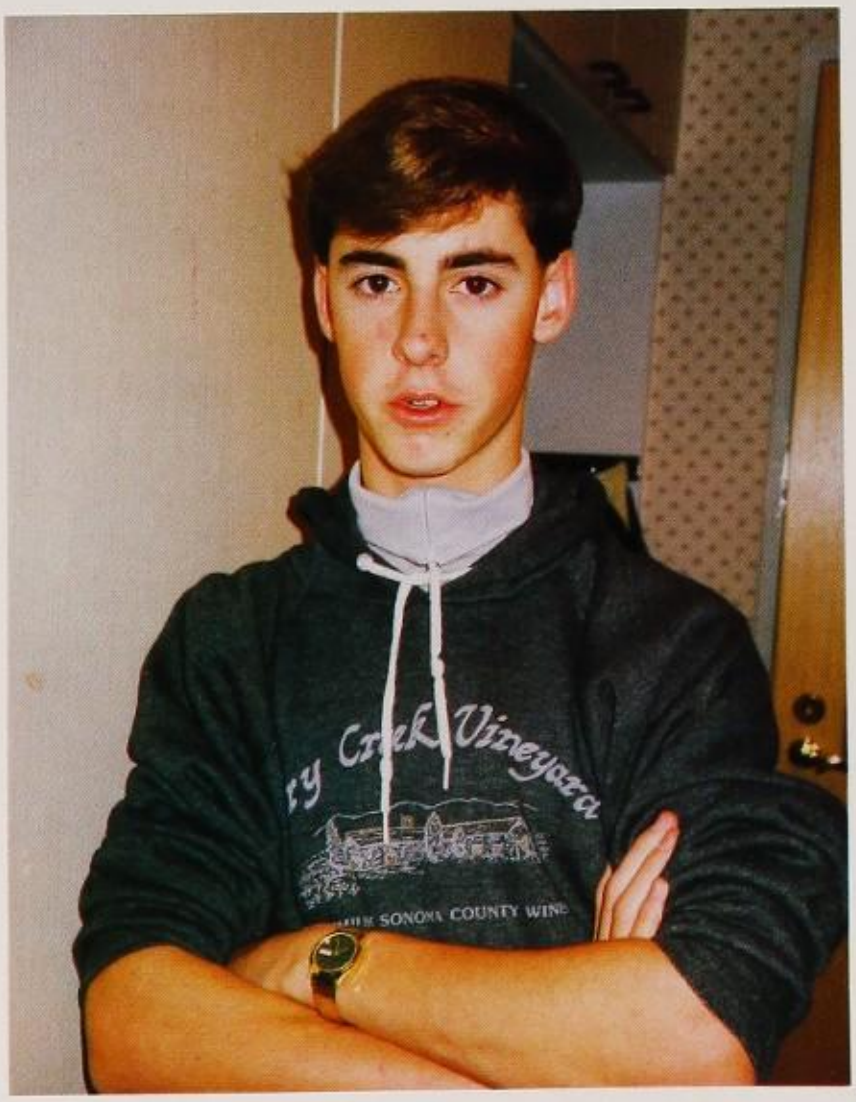
August 3, 1987

"It's hard to believe that the summer is almost over and in a couple more weeks I'll have to leave this beautiful country, not to mention my newfound family. I've come to realize that people are basically the same; even though language and customs may differ, emotions such as love, anger, fear and triumph are felt universally.

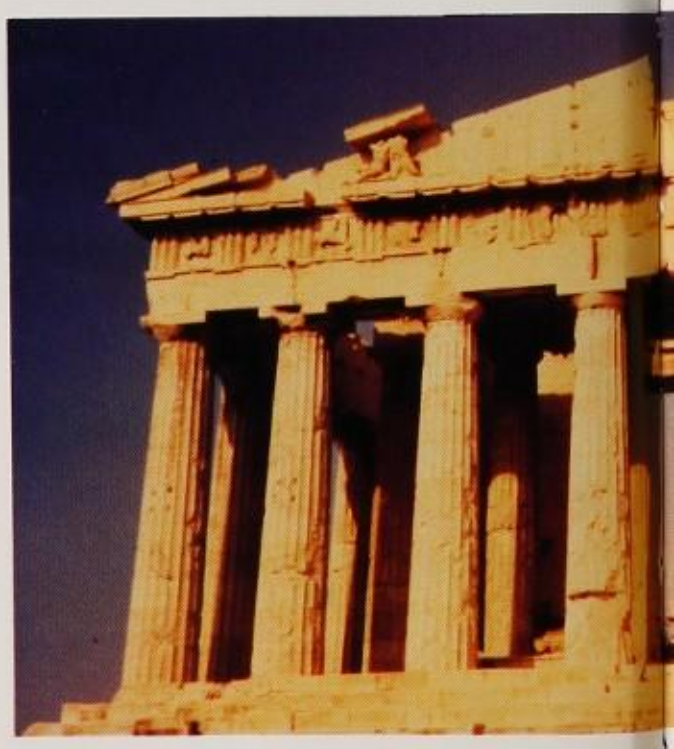
August 25, 1987

"I'm back in Hawthorne now and I know that life will soon be back to normal. My experience has changed me yet my family and friends haven't seemed to notice. I have grown into a person filled with independence and self-confidence. The friends that I met, the memories that I made and the things that I learned will remain with me forever."

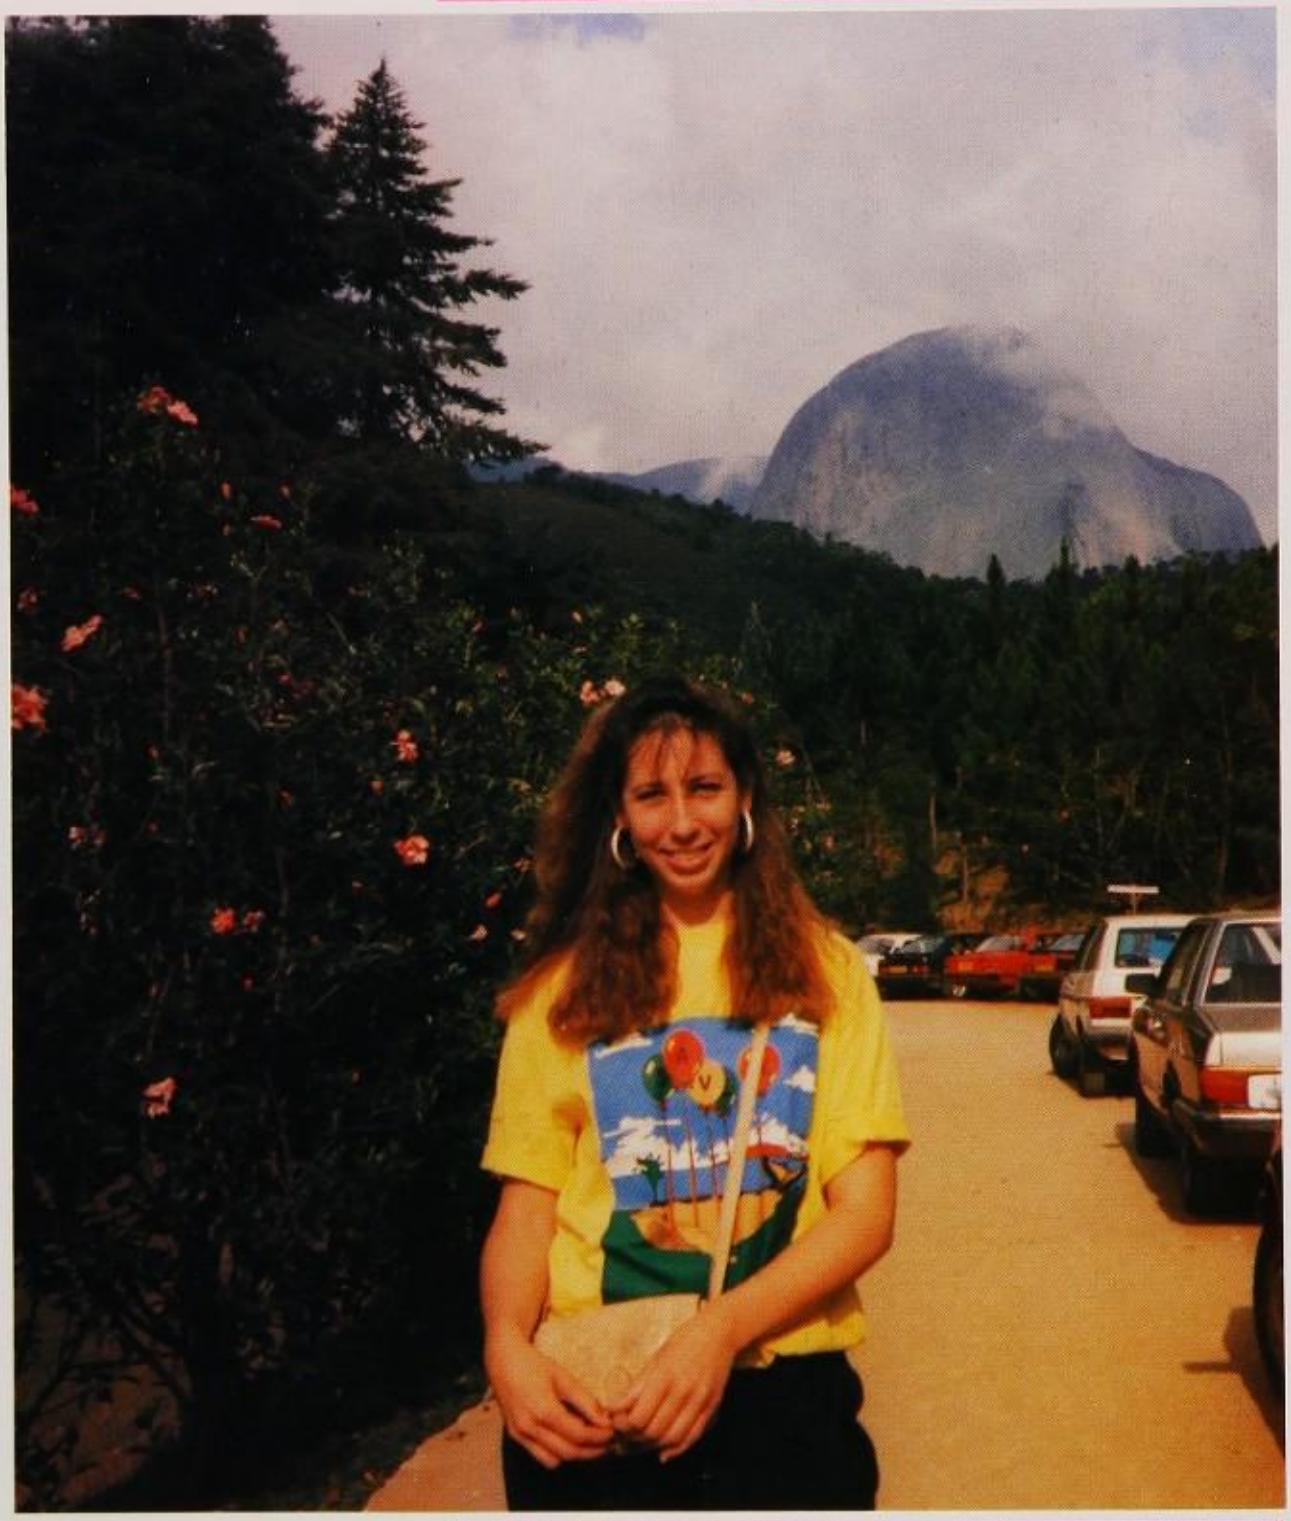
WELCOME HOME!—Happy mother and friends anxiously wait at the airport to greet Michelle Willson home from her trip abroad.



ALMOST FINNISH—Senior Jim Harris pauses a moment to think about his family and friends back home. Harris spent an entire year in Finland.



BRAZILIAN BABES—Sylvia DeViso and her host family display some Brazilian affection.



YA' SOU!—Senior Michelle Willson and her host brother and sister attend a Greek festival near Athens. Michelle spent the summer in Greece.

STILL STANDING TALL—People from all over the world have come to see the Ancient ruins of the Parthenon built in 432 B.C.

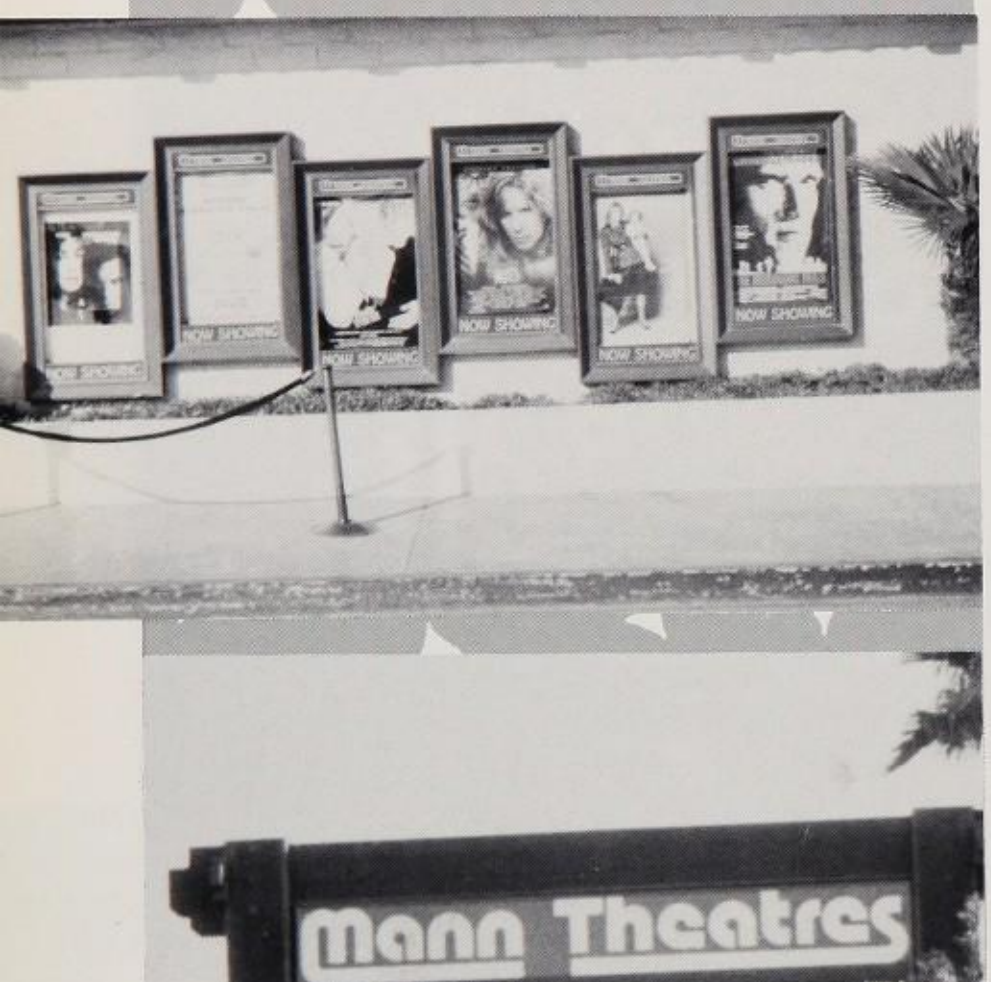
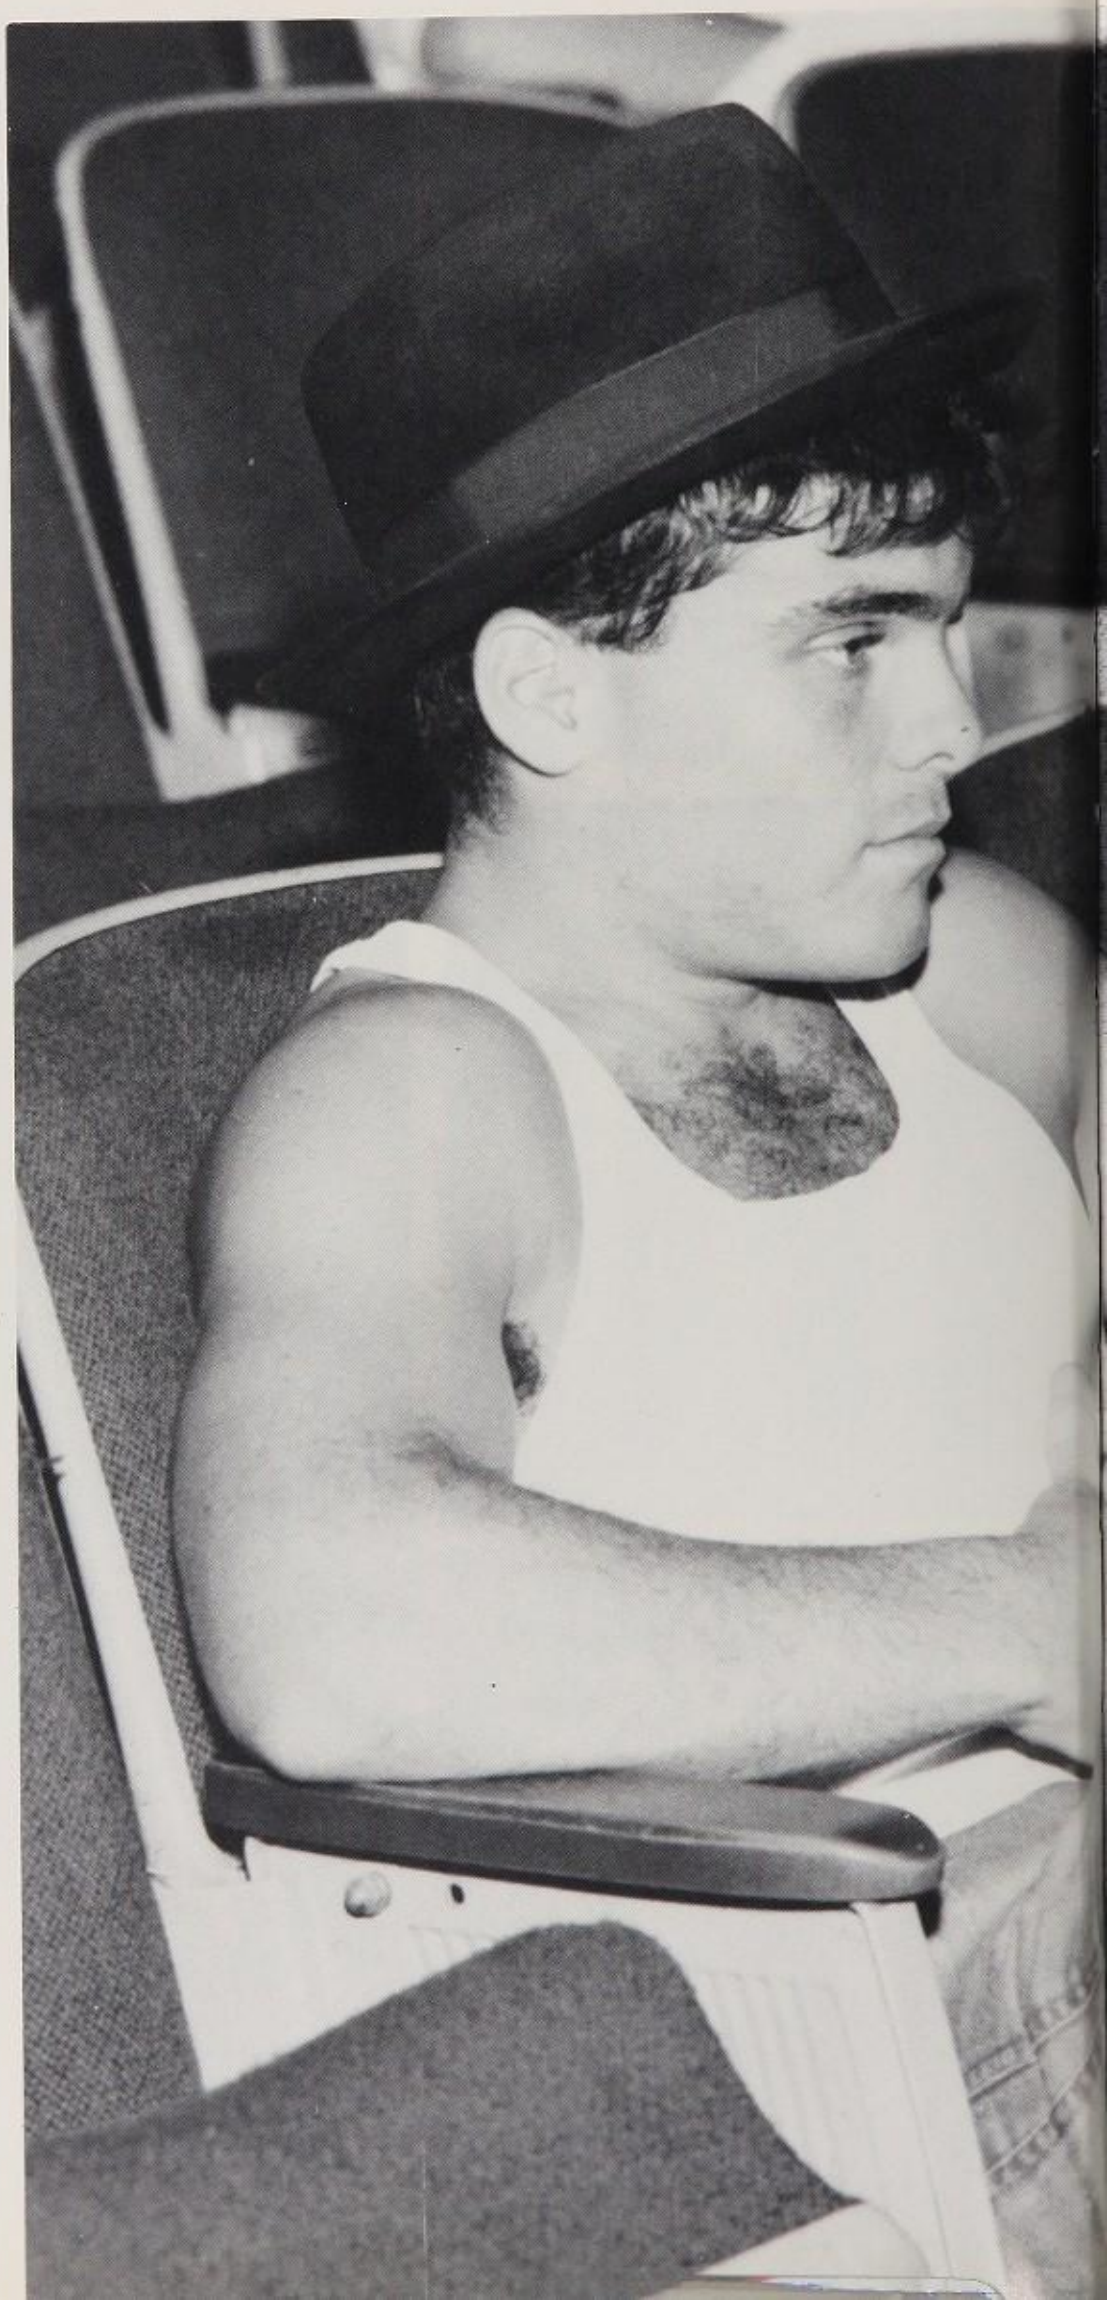
SWEET AS SUGAR—Sylva DeViso stands before the famous Sugar Loaf Mountain. Sylvia enjoy her summer traveling around Brazil with her host family.



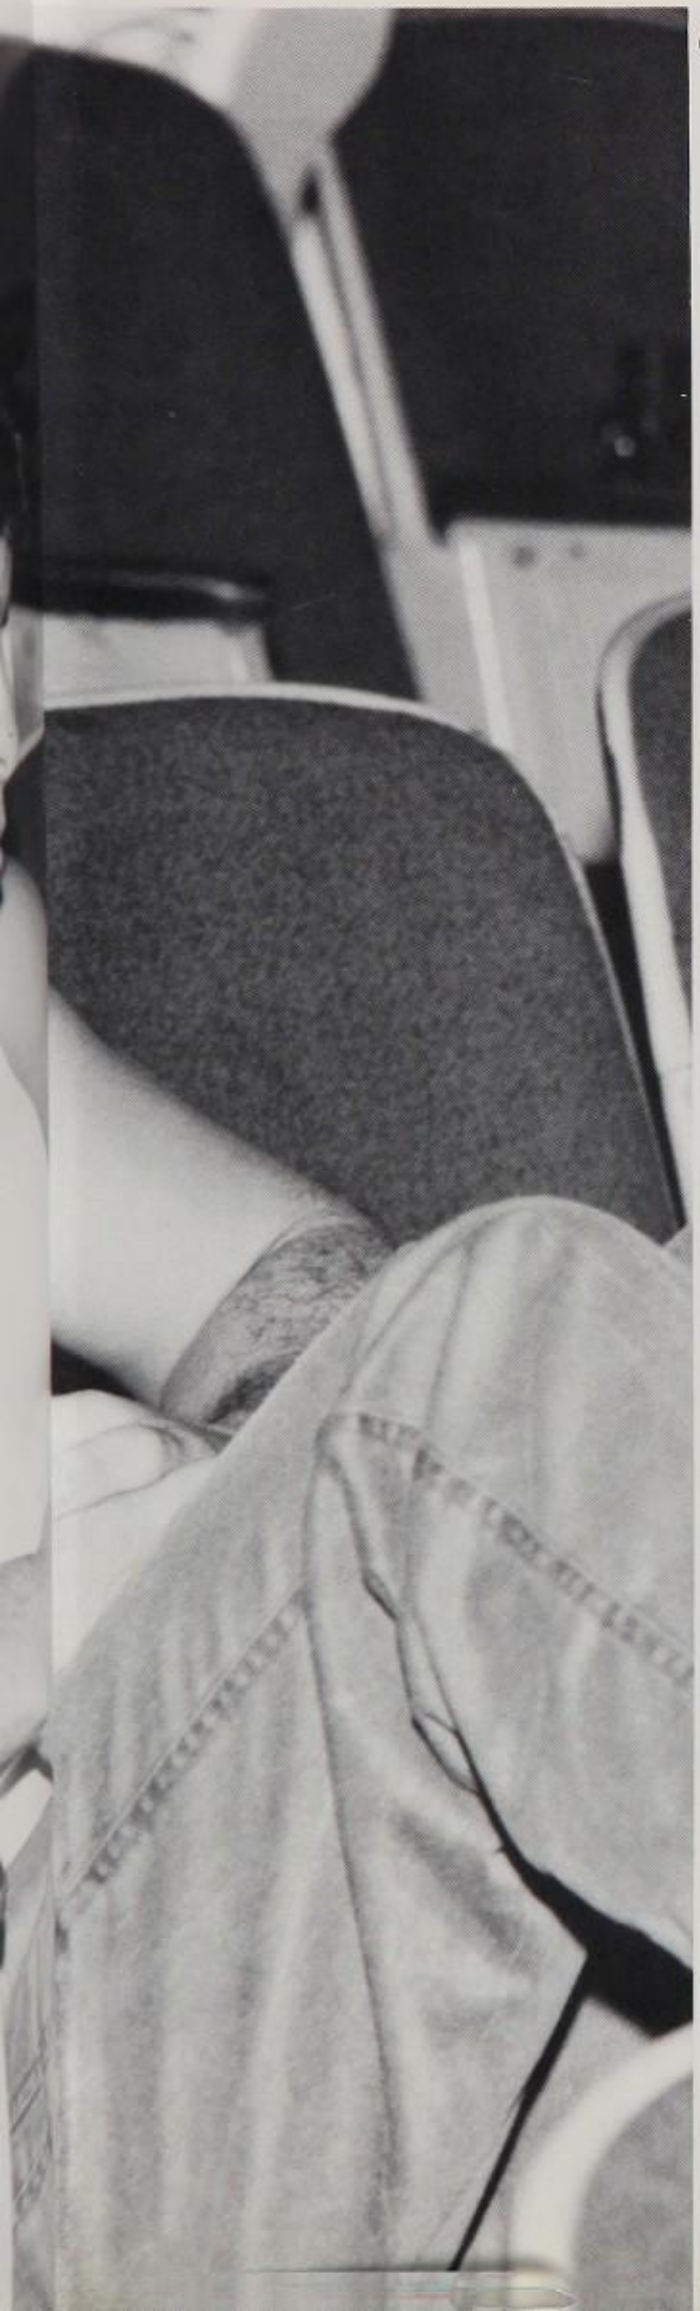
NOW SHOWING—Star-studded posters beg the attention of passing drivers. On opening nights, long lines for tickets were common.

ALL-STAR LINE UP—November's hit movies are displayed prominently on Sepulveda Blvd. Students went to Mann Theater and then across to the Manhattan Mall for snacks.

LIFE IS A MOVIE—Senior John Portela immerses himself in a heavy plot. Portela found that watching movies helped him to develop his own character.



Fans Flip for Films



Electric lights dimmed and the clatter of the projector echoed through the theater. The curtain opened to reveal the huge white screen, as the words "Feature Presentation" flashed brightly.

Although people sometimes walked out of the dark hideaway wondering why they had spent $5.50 to fall asleep in a semi-comfortable chair, many walked out feeling touched, enlightened, and often humored.

"There's nothing I hate more that sitting through a boring movie. Most of the time I'll just get up and leave! I guess it depends on if I'm with a date or not," stated Junior Eric Mullins.

"But if it's good I might go see it 4 or 5 times."

If ever a movie had taken people into a world they'd never known it was Teen Wolf II, Poltergeist III, or Jaws IV.

"Teen Wolf II was pretty wild! I can't imagine waking up with hair all over me," exclaimed Senior Maryanne Salanga.

On a less serious side there were the hilarious hijinks of Ted Danson and Tom Selleck in Three Men and a Baby. The plot told of three guys who end up with the wrong bundle and go through the trials of caring for a baby.

The young and the young-at-heart were offered The Princess Bride, a fairytale fantasy of a princess who is forced to marry an ogre of a man until the one she loves comes to her rescue.

When it came to horror the movie writers had the fans cringing in their seats, with such thrillers as Hellraiser, by Stephan King. There was also The Prince of Darkness, another satanic movie to keep a person wondering!

$5.50 ??!—Freshman Susan Hellman wonders if Baby Boom is worth emptying her purse for. Many theaters offered a $3.00 special price on Tuesday.

BESTEST FRIENDS—Waiting patiently for the doors to open, seniors Cynthia Cucalon and Melissa Wilmot discuss the joys of barbecue sauce. Both investigated the meaning of life in Ms. Rae's honors English class.

FANTASY FULFILIED—Crowned King and Queen present themselves to the crowd. Eva Gonzalez was nominated by Cougar Staff and Drill Team nominated Gibson.

Classy Christmas Creations

'Twas the night before Christmas dance and all through the malls, were the girls shopping for their dresses and the boys awaiting their calls, to find but what colors to wear and what flowers to bring, with a most important question "Who would be Christmas King and Queen?"
As we arrived at the party all shiny and glowing, the decoration so festive it should have been snowing!
Everyone seemed full of holiday cheer, it was easy to see
"Christmas Fantasy" was here.
The music was thumping at a quarter past eight,
the crowds hustled in not wanting to be late.
The decor was so jolly it was too hard to beat, the wreaths made from holly were a special treat.
The dance was hosted by the class of '89, moves done by the students were hard to define.
The time had come for us to see, who this years' royalty would be.
The Queen was Eva and the King was Eddy, slow music started the dance floor was ready.
The coronation dance being tradition and all, initiated the royal couple for the holiday ball.
The Christmas Dance was a classical trend, but time flies fast and fantasies must end.

STEPPING OUT—King and Queen hopefuls Tricia Waayers and Joseph Gantan glide down the aisle. Both were actively involved in Key Club.

WANNA BOOGIE—Clad in Satin, she struts her stuff. Solid Gold Productions provided the night's tunes.

SMOOTH AS SILK—Dressed in their best, juniors James Gonzalez and Stephanie Reyes anticipate the announcement all were waiting for. About 500 students and teachers attended the Christmas Dance.

Jazzy Jingles

It certainly wasn't a silent night
As the chorus decked Nyman Hall with Christmas light,
The jazz band jingled those bells of joy
To bring delight to every girl and boy.
"We wish you a merry Christmas" sang members of the choir,
Bringing the program close to the wire.
Then what to our wondering eyes should appear
But a jolly old Santa with no reindeer.
In a rented costume he sang and danced
While cheeky-rosed elves sang and pranced.
Then in a HO! HO! HO! and a click! click! click!
We knew it was Richard San Mateo dressed as St. Nick
To top things off and end the show
The band decided to give things a blow.
They jazzed the audience with their expertise
And everyone left feeling happy and pleased.

CHOIR:Front- D. Ladin, F. Newman. Second-M. Gunto, L. Rigby, S. Negrete, A. Escobar, J. Portela, J. Richardson, D. Nguyen, E. Castillo, L. Mazo, R. Rodriguez, R. Romo. Third-J. Cacho, J. Cach, S. BOLD N' BRASSY—Hugo Benitez and Edgar Melendez blow a burst of trumpet song. Melendez was a three-year member.

TRICKY STICK—Drummer Marc Altieri attacks the rhythm. A lover of heavy metal, Altieri wrote music in his free time.

DANCIN' N' PRANCIN'—A chorus line of performers skip to the festive beat.

HAPPY HANDS—Sandy Treviso, Rebecca Ortiz, and Ana Sorby rejoice in Christmas songs. Treviso worked in the Galleria seven days a week.

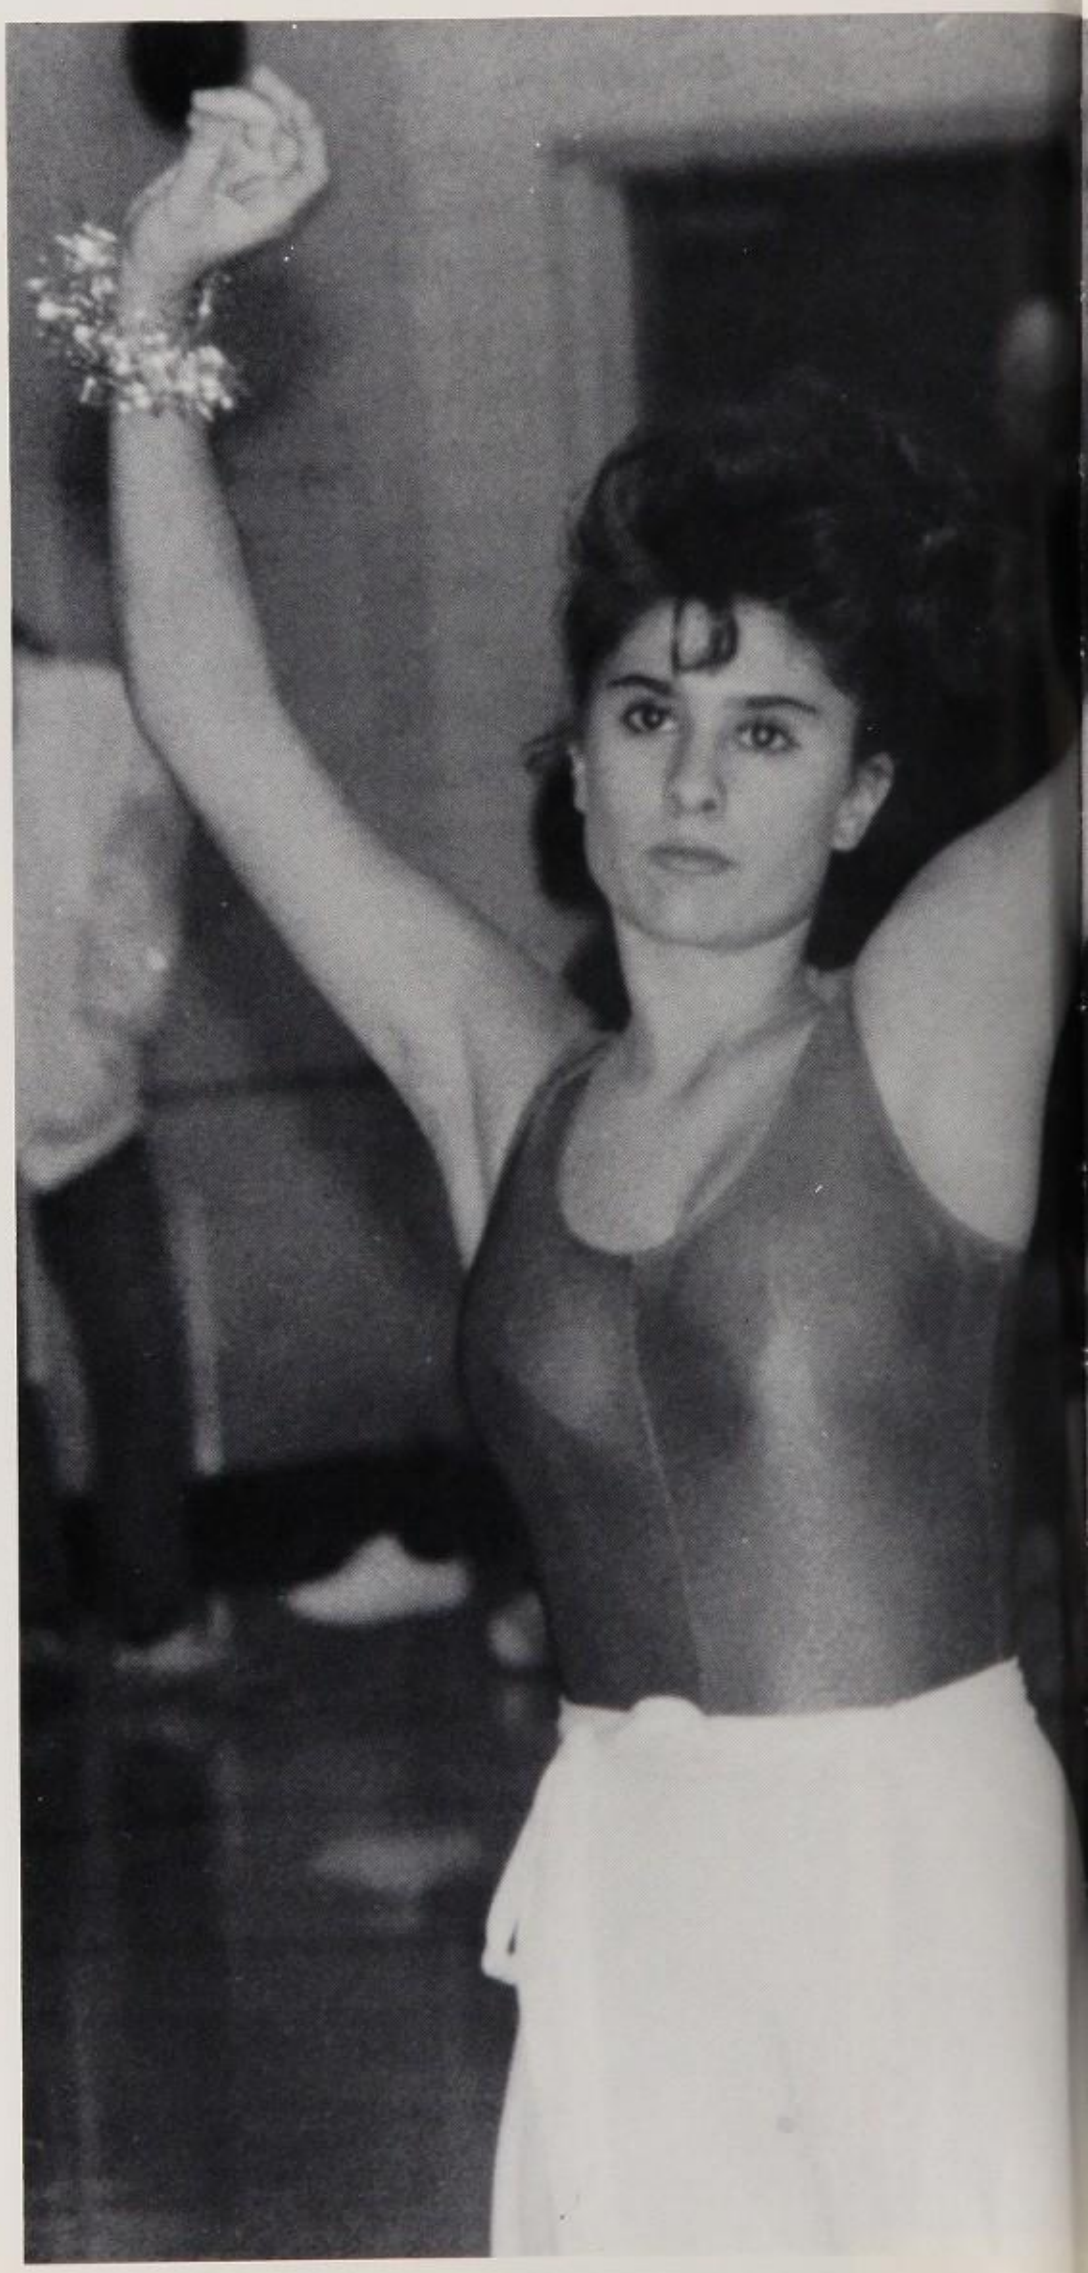
LISA LISA??—Leticia Ortiz loses herself in singing Silent Night. Ortiz comes from a very musical family.

FA LA LA—Leticia Ortiz, Masonet Thomas, and Daniel Foster sing in harmony with each other.

HEAVENLY HARMONY—Gowned chorus members lift up their voices in song. Vocalists performed carols in both English and Spanish.

GRIN'N' BARE IT—Drill team member Kristy Butero reaches for the sky. Butero was known to be quiet, reserved, but dedicated to performing her routines.

STAR SPANGLED SENIOR—Dancer Lori Dominguez flourishes her garland glitter. Miss Campbell choreographed the performance, as well as others.



Gags and Greetings

Merry Christmas!

That was the say of the day, December 18, 1987, the last day of school before Christmas.

The school choir made a special debut at the Christmas assembly that early morning, displaying their singing talents. Then, everyone joined in the all time favorite, Jingle Bells, with the choir. "I loved singing all of those Christmas jingles. It put me in the right mood," commented Sophomore Suzie Chu.

Wearing their Santa hats, Drill team and Pep Squad helped spread the Christmas spirit across campus. "We worked hard preparing for the assembly, and we were great!" exclaimed chairman of the assembly committee, Senior Trina Hoffarth.

Dance was also a big hit, dazzling students with their spectacular rhythmic movements. Sweating it out in leotards and tights, it was their first campus performance.

A special visit from a former Hawthorne student, Curtis Zimmerman, had been arranged. Zimmerman, a professional mime, enchanted young and old minds with his slick and playful movements. "It is kind of hard to imagine a person moving within intangible objects. You really have to expand your imagination to appreciate such talent," remarked Sophomore May Del Cruz.

Before departing, St. Nick gave a surprise visit to check his list of naughty and nice seniors. A pacifier for Victor Prince or an inheritance of Hot Dog on a Stick were a few on his list. Then, with a blink of an eye and a twitch of the nose, St. Nick was gone with a HO! HO! HO!

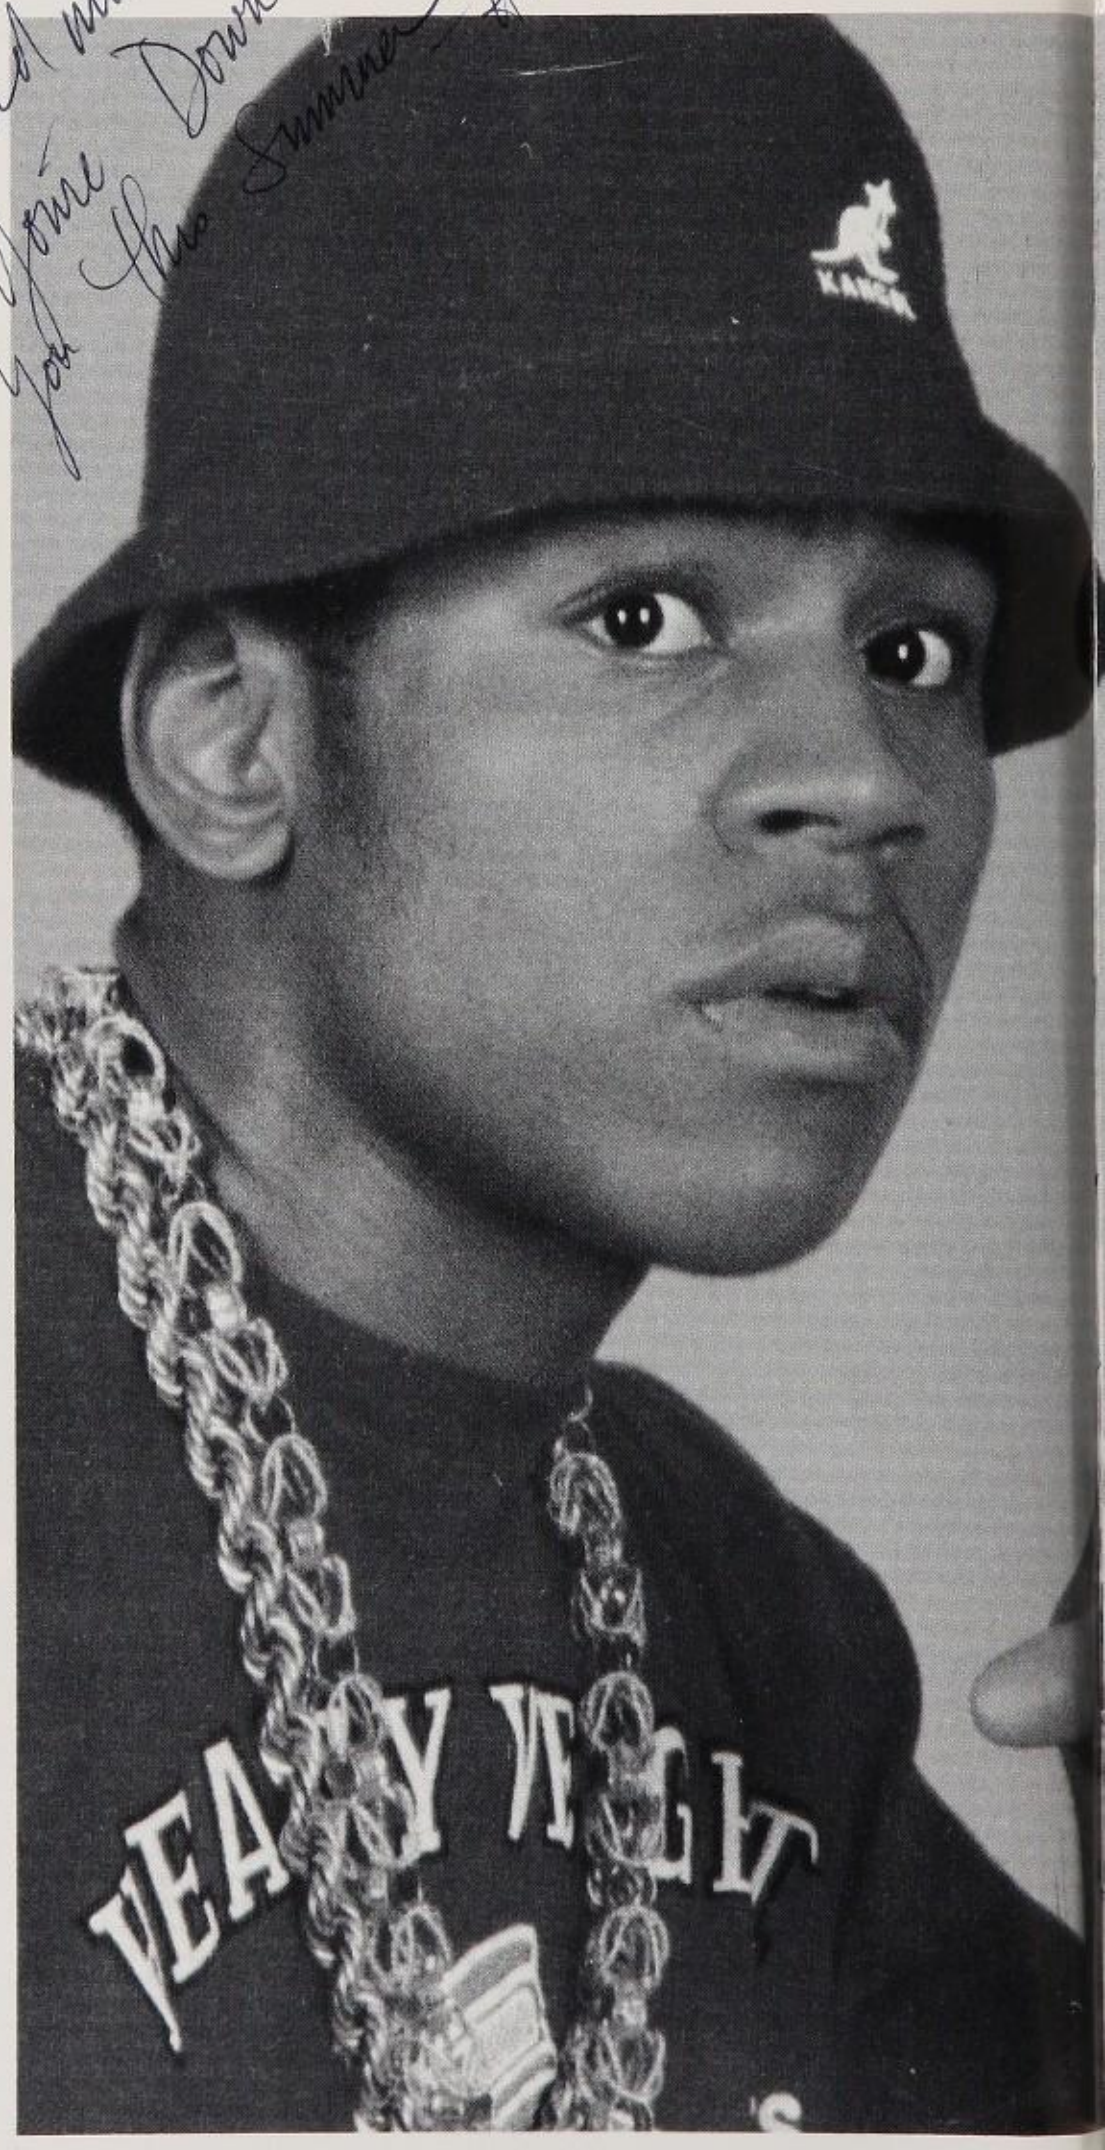
FIVE MC'S RAPPIN'—Pepsters Helen Lee and Laura Rems jive to the beat. Pep Squad enacted their own version of "The 12 Days of Christmas."

PUSH IT—Varsity Yell Stacy Oats struts her stuff for the crowd. Oats balanced Pep Squad duties with Student Council activities.

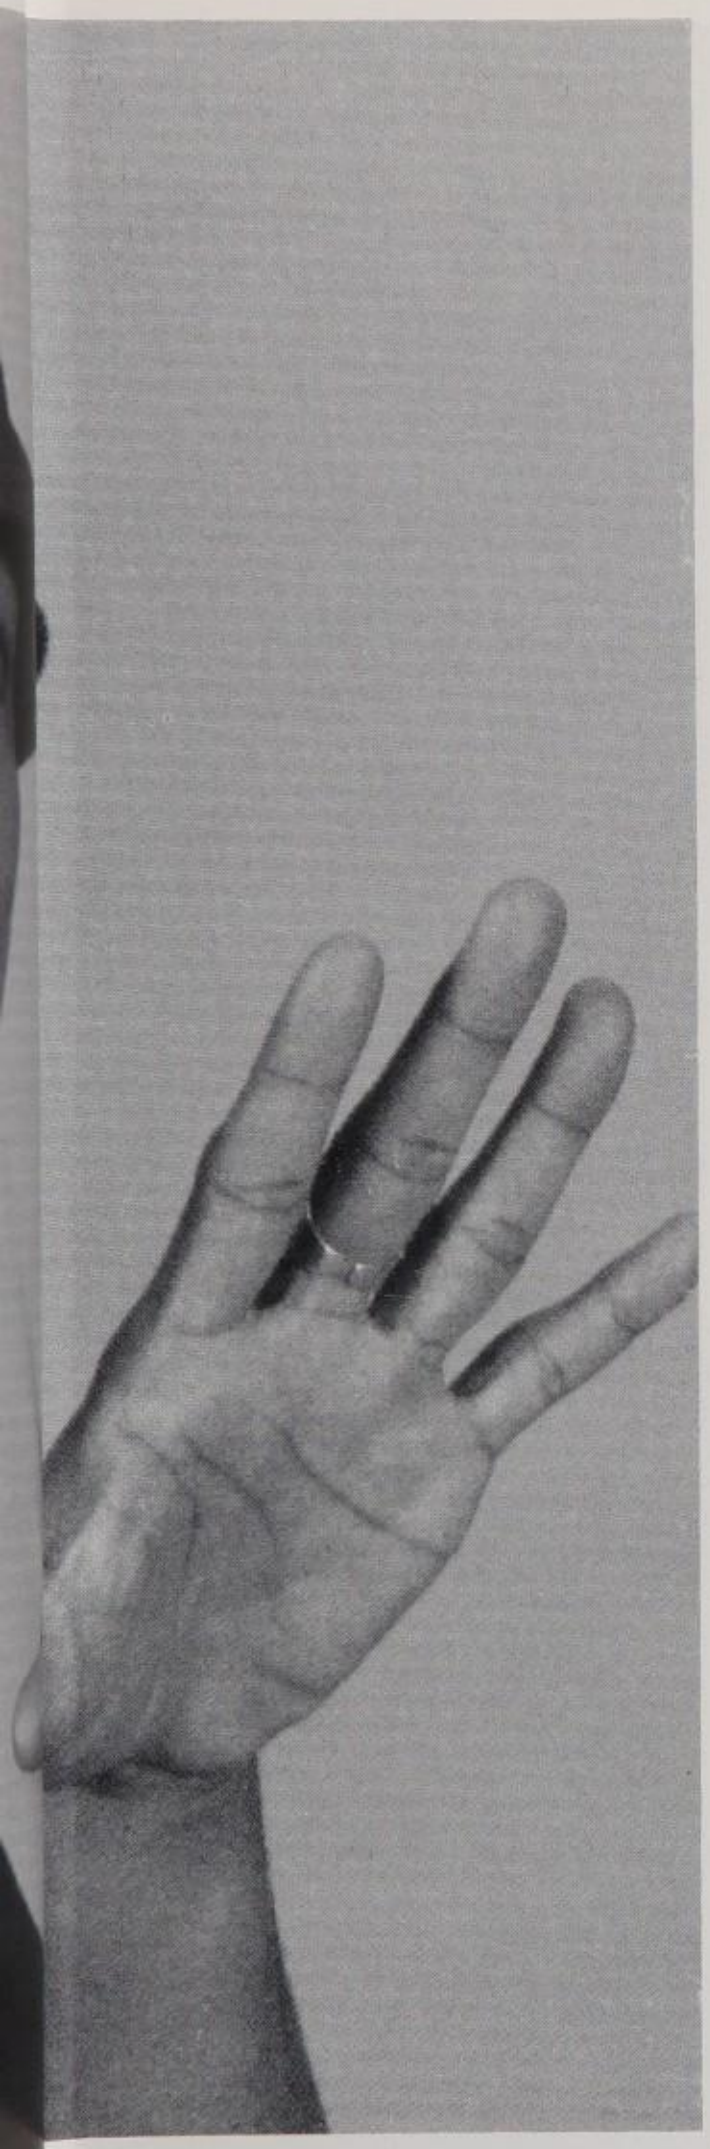
ORIGINAL??—Heavy metal group Motley Crue shows off their rebellious phenomenon. They held their concert in October.

CHIC CHICK—Whitney Houston moves with style and grace at her summer concert. She received a Grammy momination for her upbeat love songs.

YO, WHAT'S UP?—Teen idol LL Cool J flashes his gold glitters. "I Need Love" was a favorite rap song among students.



Musically Moving Masses



Music madness, outrageous rage, all happening live in front of you. Sweat and vigor from your favorite rock stars. What more would one ask for?

Rock concerts were one of the hottest happening things on leisure time. They had the ability to produce subtle controversy such as the unexpected AIDS awareness banner at Madonna's Who's That Girl Tour which aimed at publicizing the devastating disease.

Michael Jackson stepped back into the scene after three years of mysterious silence. In August he came out with his Bad L.P. His concert in Tokyo, Japan, startled the audience with such songs as Smooth Criminal.

The wild boys of metal, Motley Crue, casted a spell over their audience that produced wild pandemonium, keeping the crowd screaming for more. They held their Girls, Girls, Girls Tour in October at the Forum. Senior Wilson Herrera exclaimed, "They're the kind of hard rock I like!"

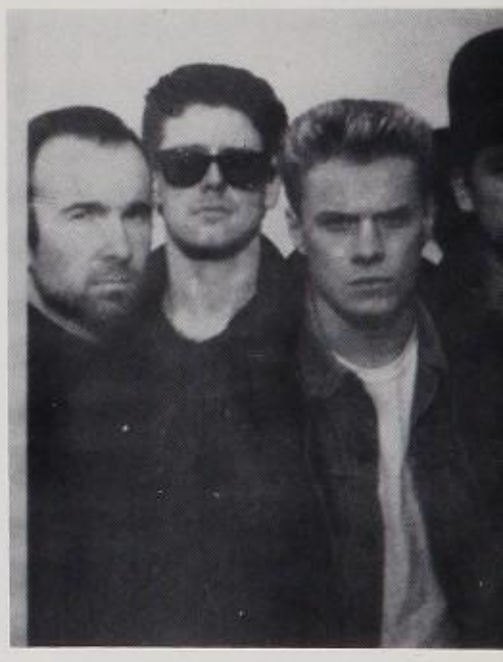
"Def" is the way the master rapper LL Cool J jammed as he rocked with every beat. On his Bigger And Deffer (B.A.D.) LP he introduced one of the first romantic rap songs. "LL Cool J attracts a wide variety of listeners no matter what your taste may be," said Junior Yalanda Randall.

Lisa-Lisa and Cult Jam moved their audience with their upbeat finger-popping singles such as Lost in Emotion and Head to Toe as they kicked off their Spanish Fly Tour at Irvine Meadows in August.

One of the hottest concerts also included Depeche Mode's Music for the Masses Tour. They introduced their new synthesizer sounds unlike any other performing band. "It was live! It's one thing I'll never forget!" said Sophomore Frank Mungia. Depeche Mode held their concert in December.

Tickets to concerts were no small price either. U2's $16 tickets went to an outrageous $160. Michael Jackson tickets were sold up to $250. Freshman Jack Richardson said, "Excitement is well-worth paying for if you want it live!"

I'M BAD—Michael Jackson poses for his album cover, BAD. Jackson, out of action for some time in the U.S., had a slick performance well received by Australians.



WHEN IRISH EYES ARE SMILING—U2's popularity rises upon their release of The Joshua Tree. At one time, their tickets were only $5.

Backwards Boogie

Love was floating in the air as couples entered a night they would never forget. Sophomore sweetheart couples promenaded down the aisle amidst cheers and applause. Who was to be the lucky couple? Michael Abamonte, Chris Alexander, Tricia Barron, Joyce Bautista, Allison Booth, John Bortz, Jaymie Bradford, Bobby Brady, Laura Brotherton, Tyshell Brown, Lissa Calabro, Candace Downing, Eric Dunnick, Terry Golden, Robert Guerra, Lynne Healy, Eddie Horcasitas, Chris Livasy, Frank Munguia, Terri Perez, Eun Song, Clint Tabon, Brook Thomason, Sasha Vanevski, Richard Weiser, Gina Wilvang, and Nori Yufuku were the anxious nominees.

This was the first time a male sweetheart would be crowned, which would lead the way for other males to follow.

"I knew that I'd be passing on my crown this year and it was a real honor because there were guys participating," stated 87' sweetheart Sophia Flores.

"Sweethearts of this year's One Heartbeat At a Time are Terri Perez and Teddy Golden!" announced Robert Estrada, sophomore class president.

The wild excitement of the Backwards Dance was exclusively deejayed by Double MD's. Going all out, the sophomore class illuminated the dance floor with lazers, lights, and even a big video screen to give daring couples the chance to splash a few of their moves onto the crowd. "The lights were great. The video taping and the screen display came out much better than expected. I've been here for four years and this is one of the best dances I've ever been to," beamed an impressed senior, Zoila Fernandez.

Golden exclaimed with a grin on his face, "My heart skipped a few beats just before they announced the winners. When I heard mine and Terri's name, I couldn't help myself but take an admiring glance at my sweetheart, Terri." Perez added with enthusiasm, "Being nominated was an honor, but actually winning was a dream come true."

HAND IN HAND—Joyce Bautista and Mike Abamonte flash their pearly whites. Bautista was a member of Drill Team.

CHEERFUL CHAPS—Lissa Calabro and Bobby Brady observe the crowd as they walk down the aisle. Both were members of Pep Squad.

Steve,
You have a BIG MOUTH, but I'm glad we became friends anyways. You're fun to be around cause you a OOPS!
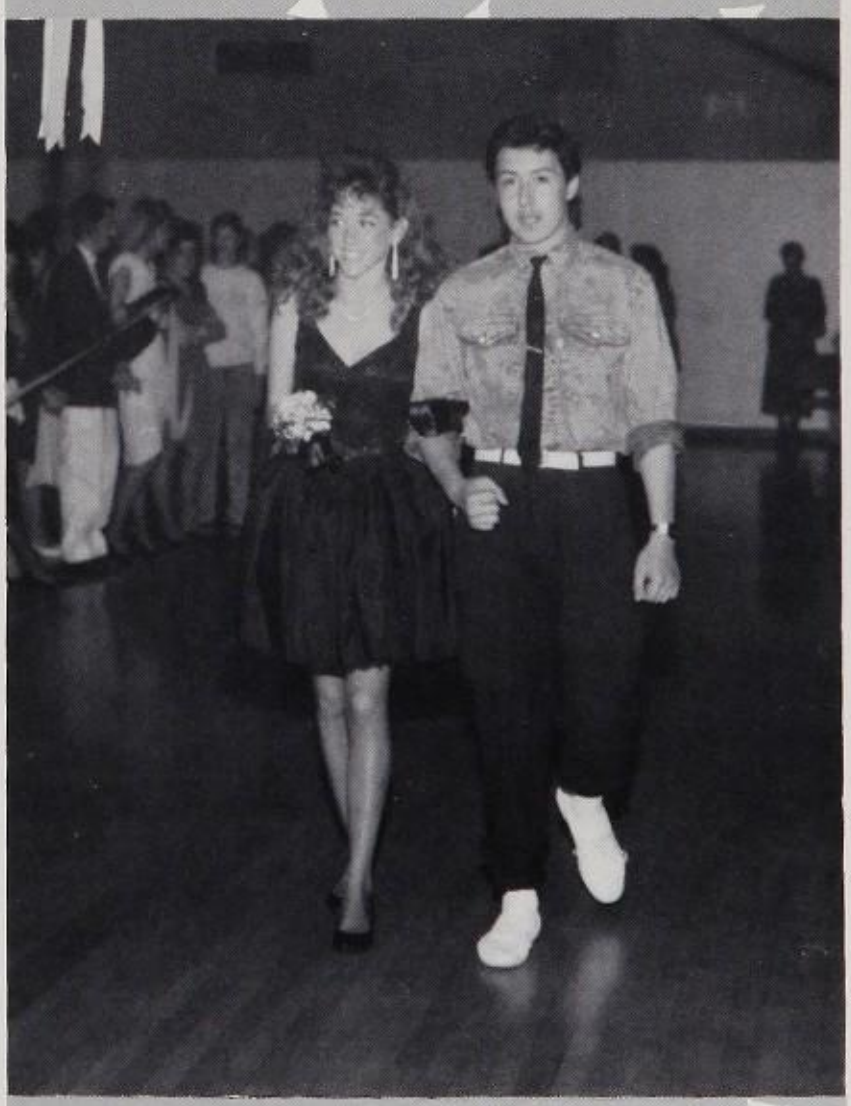
Sorry!

DANCING ON AIR—Candidates Lynne Healy and Richie Weiser embracingly dance. Both were nominated by the Knights.



HEY Y'ALL—Smilin' sweethearts Terri Perez and Teddy Golden dance to "One Heartbeat at a Time." This was the first year of crowning a male "sweetheart."

HERE WE COME—Allison Booth and John Bortz smile timidly as their friends greet them. Lortz was a member of El Molino.

Lessons in Love

Humpty Dumpty Sat on the Wall
Humpty Dumpty Had a Great Fall
All the King's Horses and All the King's Men Couldn't Put Humpty Dumpty Back Together Again.

Students tend to do weird things when they've been dumped. Their attempts are usually to deny the rejection and lessen the pain. Acting out of emotional desperation, the situation tends to get worse. Some called up their lost love on the phone and then hung up. Others got themselves invited to something where the "dumper" was sure to be, or pleaded guilty to every character flaw imaginable. And the sweetest of all was sending sentimental cards or flowers, or buying extravagant gifts. "One time I cried every night and didn't want to see any other guys," remembered Sophomore Elsa Herrera, after a breakup.

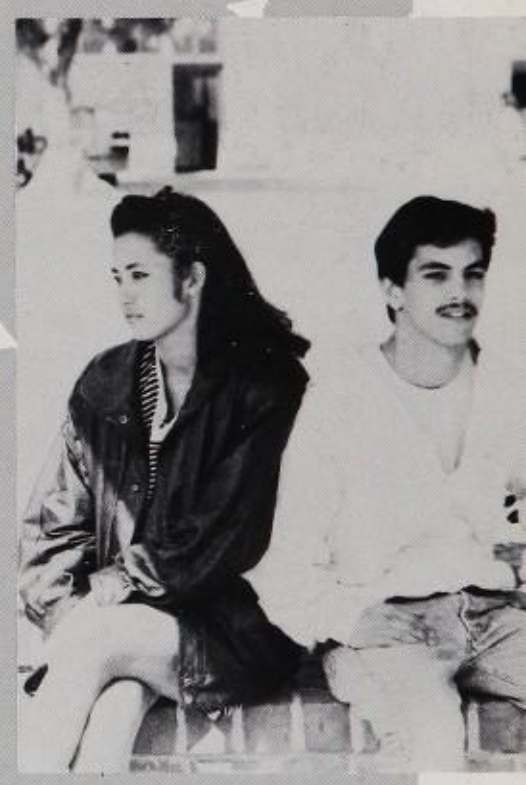
Adolescence is the stage where getting dumped is a first time experience for most. It's a sort of right of passage to adulthood. At this time, teenagers are in search of themselves and their likes or dislikes. Emotions run wild and acting logically in relationships is rarely seen.

Unless it wasn't a heartbreaker, handling the break-up was rough. Some even looked at themselves to see what had gone wrong and what changes needed to be made so that the next time there might be a better chance of a lasting relationship. "You need to be caring, sensitive, and willing to compromise in relationships," advised Senior R.J. Harris.

Being understanding always helped and a willingness to make changes was good. As time healed the pain, when survival diminished the loss, losing, leaving, and letting go seemed not so terrible. "Just move on to the next one. Don't waste your time. Everybody gets dumped and half the time you expect it anyways," stated Freshman Laura Hernandez.

YOU GOING TONIGHT?—Jesse Lopez and Veronica Guzman discuss social plans. Both were seen at La Casa Camino Real searching for fun, friends, and lots more!

LEAVE ME ALONE—Becky Ortiz leaves the company of William Woodard. Their short term relationship was rocky.



HOW SWEET!!—George Amaya electrifies Gentry Collins with a smooch. The couple had a warm and loving 3 year relationship.

IS SHE MAD?—Mike Montes is in awe of what he did to upset Sandi Armenta! Their lasting relationship was strong because of their close friendship.

I FORGIVE YOU—Jennifer Stone terminates an argument with her boyfriend Eddie Cintino. Learning to forgive and forget helped save many relationships.

Problem Producing Parties

"Alright, who called the cops?"

In many cases that was how some of the really great parties ended. Parties were taking place practically every weekend and teens played detective all week long asking, "Have you heard about any parties?" or, "Where's the party?" Sometimes the parties were kept confidential but all too often the word would get out and the host or hostess had a mob of uninvited party-goers running in and about the house.

"Once I planned on throwing a private party but after I witnessed what happend to my friend's house when she threw one, I knew my mother wouldn't approve," stated Junior Amy Brown.

Difficulties caused by announced parties were alcohol, drugs, and sex. When alcohol was not provided by the host it was quite often brought openly to the gathering or secretly smuggled in, perhaps in a girl's purse or in a guy's jean jacket.

Often, parties out of control were unsupervised by adults or given while the parents were away. These occasions could give way to excessive alcohol consumption, drug taking, or sexual behavior.

Houses and apartments were not always necessary for a great party. Sometimes an open, secluded field or an abandoned building somewhere served the purpose.

Apparel worn by teens who attended the gatherings varied. The "Let down your hair and get wild!" type of party merely required faded jeans and favorite t-shirts.

When the clock struck 11 pm, curfew hours began, which usually meant the kids started home. Those who chose to keep the midnight oil burning often ran into unwelcome intrusions such as unruly party-crashers, noncompliant neighbors, or angry police officers. Teens with good judgment fared better.

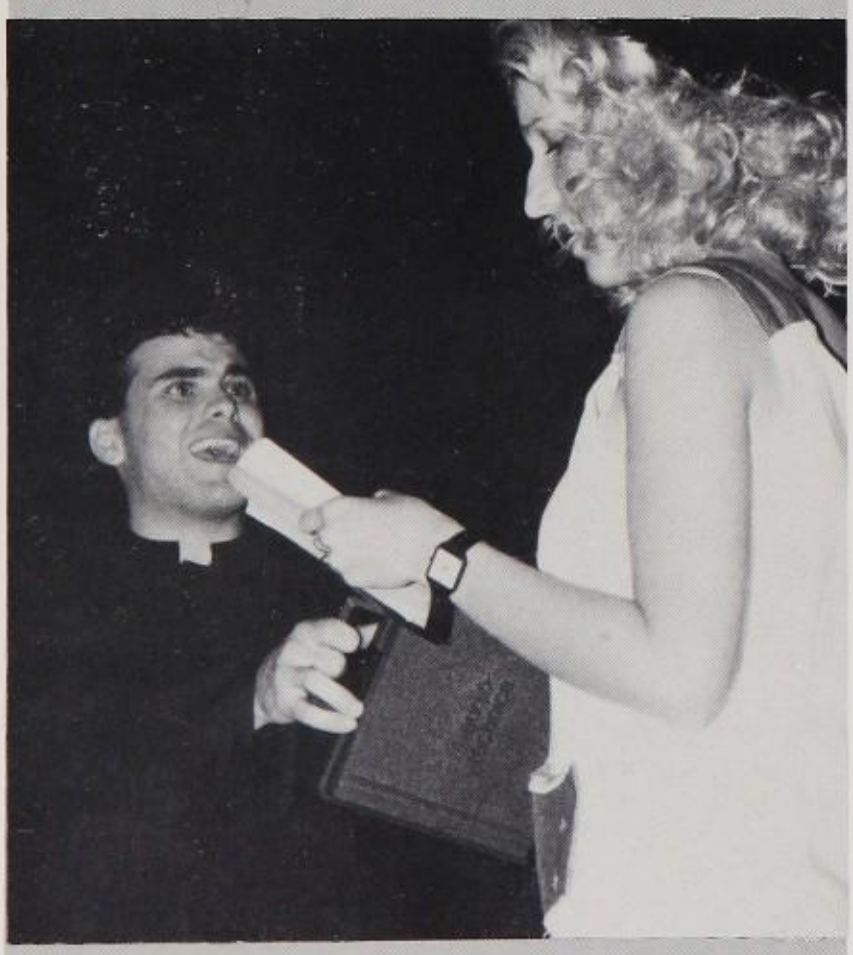
AAAH! PARTY!—Seniors Helen Lee and David Noya scream at the thought of returning to school on Monday. Both were favorites to show at parties.

BRING ON THE CHOW!—Junior James Gonzales celebrates with an old friend. He was a band member.

PUT YOUR LEFT LEG OUT—Senior M.J. Wells demonstrates her hokey pokey ability with her fellow classmate Richard San Mateo. Both were members of Drama.

PARTY!!!—Seniors Sameer Abutahir, Linda Shin, Dung Lu, and David Noya enjoy the company and Hansen's orange sodas that the hostess offered.

I BEG YOUR PARDON—Sharon Sperling attempts to convert Ricky Wasson from a life of sin. Wasson won meritorious achievement at a drama competition.



IMMORTAL IMPOSTER—Disguised priest John Portela hands over incriminating evidence to M.J. Wells. Portela won Best Character actor.

IT'S DELOVELY—Melissa Wilmot and Alex Ambriz sing of married life together. Wilmot won best dramatic actress at a drama competition.

FOUR WEEKS, YOUR REHEARSE AND REHEARSE . . .

For weeks all that was heard around Nyman Hall was the busy little tappin' feet of dancers learning routines for the spring musical Anythings Goes.

THREE WEEKS AND IT COULDN'T BE WORSE . . .

Singers were singing and actors were acting, all in preparation for . . . "One of the best musicals ever seen by Hawthorne High!," exclaimed Assistant Director Tracy Gardener.

ONE WEEK, WILL IT EVER BE RIGHT?

When asked "why all the hard work and long hours?" Bob Guerra replied, "Practice makes perfect and we wanted our show to be perfect or at least near perfect."

THEN OUT OF THE HAT IT'S THAT BIG FIRST NIGHT.

"The most exciting thing about it all is opening night!" Arthur Martinez exclaimed.

YOU CROSS YOUR FINGERS AND HOLD YOUR HEART.

. . . you feel nervous and excited, almost like you're going to burst" Karin Cunningham cooed.

IT'S CURTAIN TIME AND AWAY WE GO.

"But once you're on stage everything is alright and you get this wonderful feeling all over, you feel like a star!" said Annie Escobar.

ANOTHER OPENING OF ANOTHER SHOW!!

Anything Goes is a musical that takes place in the early 1930's aboard a ship. No, not an actual ship, the setting was a ship. The show featured everything from dancing angels to singing sailors on this trip to England from New York.

HHS' award winning drama department opened Anything Goes on May 12 which ran through the 14th.

ANGELIC ANGEL?—One of Reno Sweeney's Angels, Collen Aylward sings about how to enter heaven. Aylward was on El Molino.

WAITING IN THE WINGS—M.J. Wells waits nervously for her grand entrance. Wells won the Fine Arts Award from Bank of America.

BRASS BLOWERS—Boldly tooting the trumpet Manuel Palayo entertains at halftime. Band members could be found practicing in band room after school and on weekends.

CLUBS

Too Good To Forget

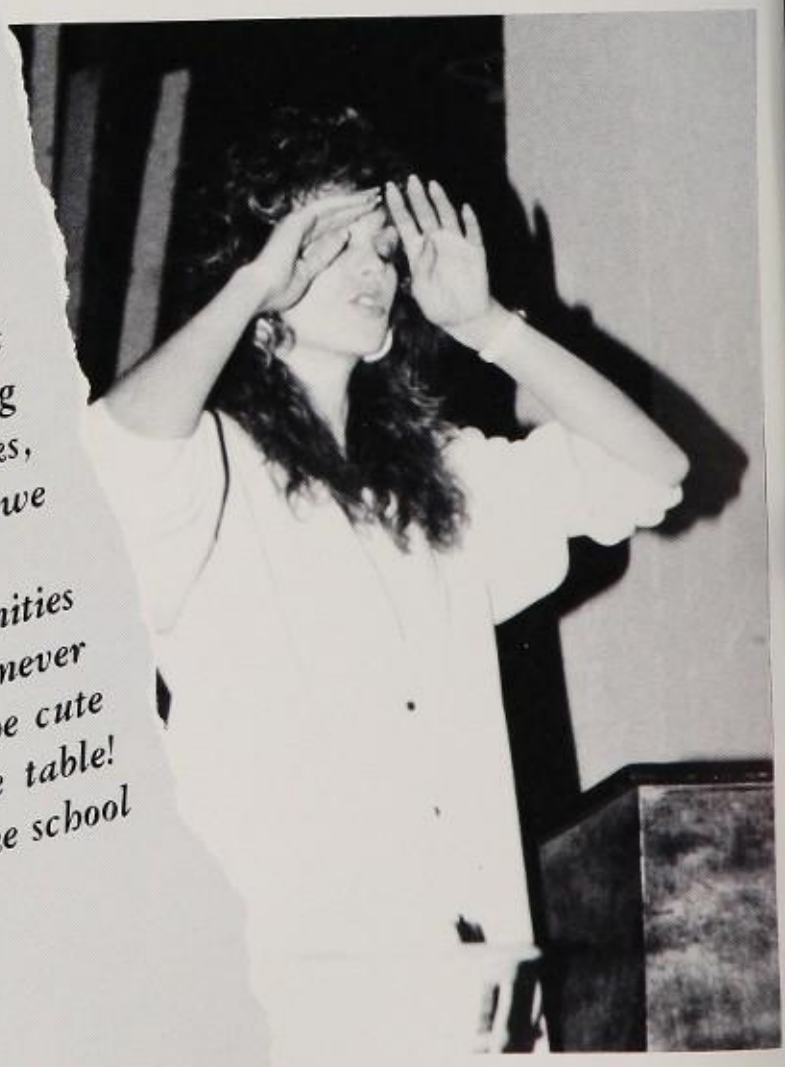
Dear Diary,

Today was Join-a-Club Day, again! There were so many people crowding around the tables at which club representatives sat that I had barely enough room to sign up for Ski Club and A.F.S.

Clubs take up quite a bit of time, if you're a really dedicated member. The Hawthorne Harlequins, Cougar, and El Molino are classes, but clubs like C.S.F. and Key Club meet twice to four times a month.

In some ways, most clubs are the same. At different times in the year, members can be spotted lugging around boxes of Beich's chocolates or Cracker Jacks, and washing cars in distinctive club t-shirts. Well, we know why!

Yet, clubs are vastly diverse, providing opportunities for those with almost any interest. Of course, I never realized that I was interested in skiing until the cute representative winked at me from behind the table! Getting involved in clubs is a sure way to make school too good to forget!



NO DEAD FISH—Drama advisor Dawn Martinez demonstrates acting techniqeus for stage performance. Despite a knee injury Martinez taught Dance both in and outside of school, as well as directing the school musical.

READY FOR TAKE-OFF—Aerospace members man their exhibition table at Join-a-Club Day. Advisor Mr. Macha often held drawings for model planes at meetings.

ROCKIN' THE MIKE RIGHT—M.C. David Elms gives a running comentary on the clubs and their activities. Elms was also Page one editor of the COUGAR.

Opening

New Doors

What is Key Club? According to President Rosa Garcia, Key Club is, The "Key that Unlocks Your Future".

Sponsored by Kiwanis International with over 350,000 members world-wide it is the world's largest and most recognized high school service organization. The group has undertaken numerous projects to uphold the organization's purpose: to help serve their school and community.

"We're like a junior Kiwanis, being in 11 countries we're internationally recognized", said Historian Cynthia Cucalon. In dedicating time to serve the community, the group was on call at many city functions, some of which were the Community Fair, the city Airfaire and the Halloween Drug Seminar. They also did club projects like the "Tenderfoot" Walk For Mankind which dedicated all Mexico for the needy.

Club members had a chance to relax and meet fellow members from other schools in retreats and conventions. One such gathering was the 44th Annual Key Club International Convention held in Toronto, Canada this past summer, which two students, Rosa Garcia and Joseph Gantan attended.

"Dedication and a caring heart is what it takes to be a Key Clubber. Being in the club itself helps us to show through the initiative and leadership qualities all of us have inside," said Tina Fernandez, Program Chairperson. The incorporation of projects, fun and love was all a part of a Key Clubber's life. Through the past years and for years to come, they strive to live up to their motto: "Caring our Way of Life".

Practice

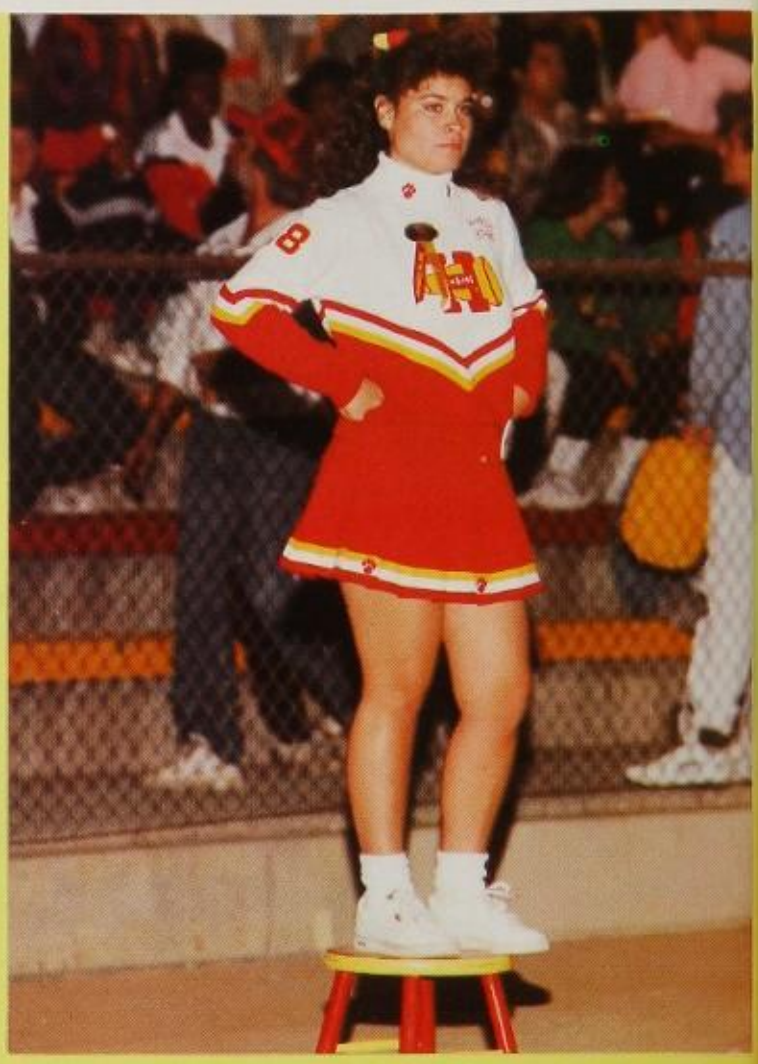
Makes Perfect

"Go big red!" yelled the crew as all awaited anxiously the outcome of the fourth quarter. The game was almost over and it seemed as if the Cougars were on the verge of handing over their first defeat of the season. Everyone looked on intensely when Mascot Helen Lee's voice broke the silence; prompting many to raise their pom poms with their spirits to cheer their team on.

Pep Squad, comprised of 25 members, put in hours and hours of practice each week to work their routines to perfection. "Practice is tough sometimes, but as they say, 'practice makes perfect'," said Jayne Cayton. The perseverence and determination in practicing surely did show through in their performance.

Although many wished to be a part of the squad, competition and tryouts were intense; each person was required to learn and make up a routine in three weeks and be ready to perform and "strut their stuff" in front of three professional judges. With the great number of students that tried out, it was guaranteed that tryouts were nerve-racking and only the best would make it.

Even through hours and days of hard practice and endless routines, the pride showed through the faces of every "Pepster", encouraging students to raise those scarlet and gold pom poms game after game. As Marianne Carlton put it, "If you want to feel like a part of the school and be a part of a team, then Pep Squad is the way to go!"



PILLAR OF STRENGTH—Atop a bright stool, Varsity Yell Fia Luathangi gets deeply involved in the final quarter of a home game. Fia also belonged to a Polynesian Dance Group.

NOT EVEN!— Song queen Michelle Scruggs engages in a heavy debate with a friend. Cheerleaders in uniform added to the spirit of competition before Friday night games.

SEXY SOPHIES—Jersey-clad cheerleaders, Tricia Barron, Jenny Wilmot and Lisa Calabro flash bright grins. Tricia sprained her ankle over the summer when she fell off the "human pyramid"!

Pep Squad

REACHING FOR THE STARS—Mascot Helen Lee and Laura Rems and Latasha Palmore urge spectators to come alive! Cheerleaders often practiced after school to perfect pep-rally presentations.

CONCENTRATION NOW BEGINS—Peppy onlookers gravely contemplate Cougar interception. Cheerleaders were required to attend away-games as well as home-games.

The Surf Club gave surfers the opportunity to experience the different aspects of surfing while having fun as well. "I feel free when I surf," expressed long time surfer Danny Fry. "It's my way of getting away from things while also doing something I'm strongly dedicated to."

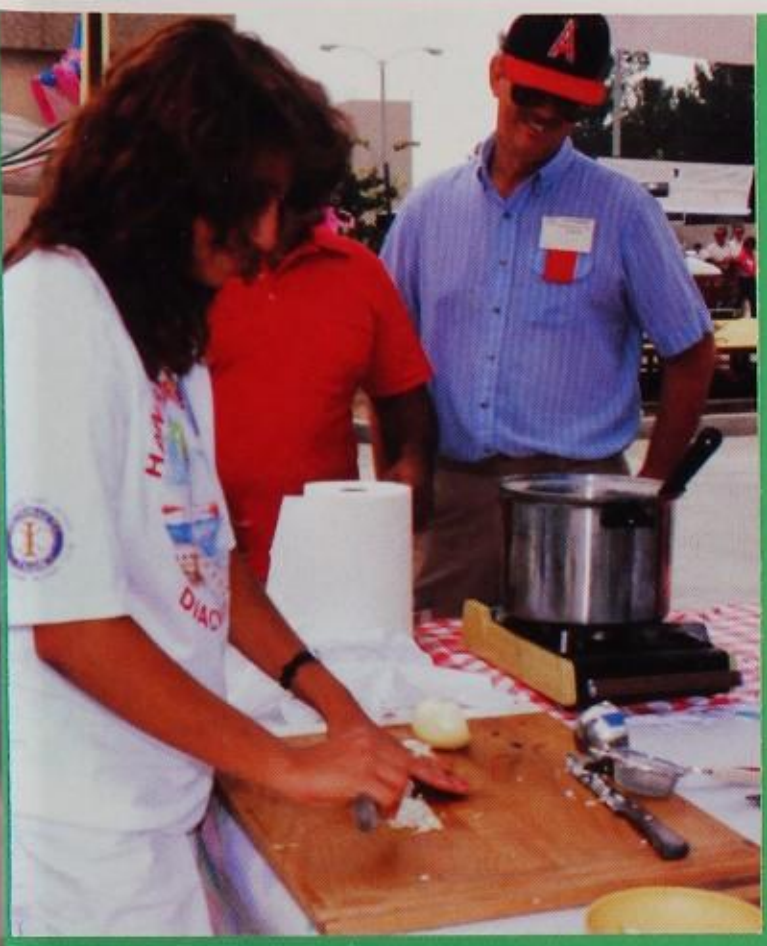
REGISTERED AND READY- Diaconian Advisor Ms. Moon, Tricia Ponce de Leon, and Trina Hoffarth take a breather before the big race. Trina Hoffarth was Diaconian President.



Run To The Top

On your mark, get set . . . BANG! The gun went off. Hundreds of runners participated in the Rotary Club 10K and 5K run. Among them, who else but the Diaconians!

Struggling out of bed at 5:00 a.m. on a weekend might have turned off some people, but not these girls. Dedication and school spirit kept them together. "We were so much more involved this year than last!" exclaimed president Trina Hoffarth." Everyone was so eager."

The 10K and 5K was just one of the many events they participated in. Inventing their own special chile and entering it in the Hawthorne Air Faire Chile cook-off proved to be a very HOT occasion. Car washes, bake sales, and their weekly visits with the elderly and sick at RFK medical center, kept them going strong all year.

One very caring project was directed to those in need. Thanksgiving care packages with food and other goodies were made and given with hopes of brightening up some less fortunate peoples' Thanksgiving holidays. A big brother/big sister Truancy Abatement program began, a joint effort by the Knights and Diaconians to work together and try to relate with troubled teens. "We all had common interests and goals," stated Shawn McKinney, "most importantly serving those in need."

In addition to the many contributions to our community, the Diaconians were strongly devoted to our school. "The rules are strict, and there was always something to do," stated first year member Rupam Soni, "but that's what the club's all about, PEOPLE!"

WHAT'S COOKING?- Holding back the tears, junior Susie Reynoso carefully dices the onions to be used in their chile.

Yumm . . . Yumm . . . Carol Jarvis, Trina Hoffarth, Vannessa Rocha, Monila Barot, Hazel Guitterez and Erenie Sia proudly display their yummy goodies. Bake sales proved to be very profitable for the club.

a helping hand

Thanks to dedicated students and sponsors, the club became an active group on campus. Mr. Bob Kyllonen, an eight-year sponsor of the club said, "Knights are students who like to help out their school and community. They are willing to give up their time to make our school an outstanding place to be."

Serving as "Caregivers," the Knights gave their time and services to the Robert F. Kennedy Medical Center, doing things such as helping decorate the hospital with bears at Christmas time and working at the reception desk filing paperwork. The Knights worked with the patients helping them with things such as reading and talking to them.

Painting the restrooms on the visitors side of the football field, and clearing the bookroom by 16-1 from the effects of the earthquake, were just some of the activities Knights performed this year. "Being a member of the Knights requires a lot of responsibilities," exclaimed president Shauno Dunnick. The Knights competed in the Fourth Annual Hawthorne Air Faire over the summer and participated in the Chili Cook Off. Unfortunately, their recipe did not place, due to a foreign substance that turned their chili sour. They raised $480 profit selling Chipwich Ice Cream, Dove Bars and Popcorn. The money that was raised was put directly into the Jeff Chai Scholarship Fund.

HOW DO I LOOK?—Junior Eddie Korn says Why me? Korn was a kicker on varsity football.

WANNA DRINK?—The Richard Weiser hands runners a cup of water. Weiser was an active member of sophomore football.

"LEARNING THE BASICS"—Juniors David Kelly and Hansel Lee, learn the basics of the Truancy Abatement Program. TAP was a new program sponsored by Interact.

Ken,

The end of this year was great. I'm glad you got to initiate me instead of some nerd. Personally, I think I looked better than Eddie did last year. Have a great summer. See you next year in The Knights.

Ken Alexander.

P.S. I like your name.

Interact

A1 YOUR SERVICE—Members take time out from aiding thirsty runners. Though it meant waking up early on Saturday, many Interact members appeared at the Rotary races.

Action and Interaction

The lunch bell screeched and students scattered all over campus. I found myself in the hustle and bustle of the crowd in the lobby of Nyman Hall.

I heard many distinct voices, but some dominated.

"Sign in, please!"

"I'll put a checkmark if you have your shirt or sweaters!"

Finally escaping the area, I found myself a place to sit beside my friends. Shaun Dunnick and Trina Hoffarth started the meeting.

"Please sit in the first eight rows!"

"There is no eating in Nyman Hall!"

People started mumbling.

Michelle Kinzie shrieked, "Be quiet!" Not until then was everyone silent, and the discussions began.

"Tree trimming at Richstone from twelve o'clock to four on Saturday, credit every two hours."

"Christmas Grams selling sign-ups right after the meeting.

"RFK volunteers, don't forget the days you signed up for."

This and much more . . . from running the 5K-10K rotary run, helping for Thanksgiving baskets to picnics . . .

Not only were we doing all this work just to lend a helping hand, but a competition between the same club from other schools added to the inspiration.

Later on Mr. Larry Bender, from the Rotary Club reminded us of the many different events we were to participate in.

The meeting ended leaving us with thoughts of neither Knights, nor Diaconians, but of interaction to help the school and community, with the help of the Rotary Club.

'S THE SEASON—Interact Members prepare the Thanksgiving askets for the needy. Baskets contained a complete Thanks-ving Dinner.

URN WHERE?—Water Station helpers prepare to refreshen ie crowd of runners. Several club members also participated the run.

'HAT'S THE NAME AGAIN?—Thuy Nguyen and Clint Tabon and out report cards for the open house. Consisting of the ights and Diaconians, the club helped out with many of the hool events.

Harlequins at Play

"We're here today to talk about ecology." What sounded like a nature class was actually a cluster of 19 students entertaining a passion for the stage and all that went with it.

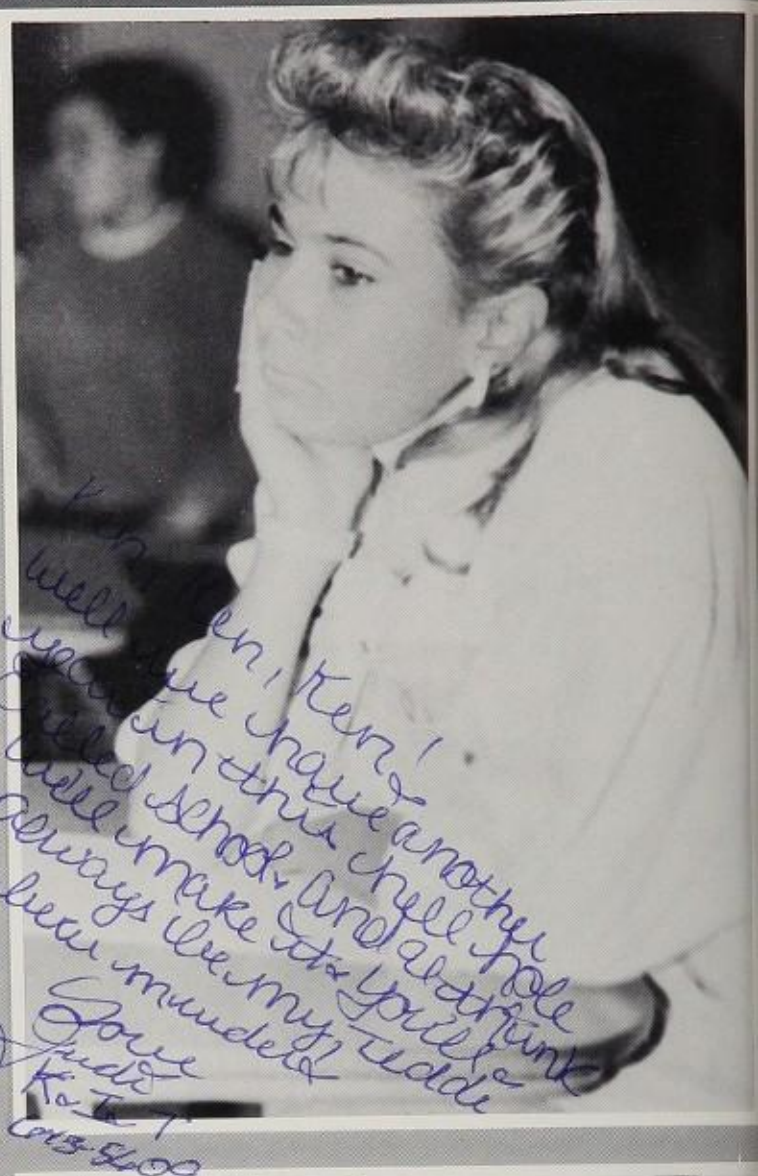
When drama teacher and actress Dawn Martinez began rehearsals for Earthlings, a childrens' play dealing with ecology, she was rather amazed with the lack of interest from a usually eager class. "No one looked past the script to see what they could do with the part," explained four-year drama member M.J. Wells. "You can do so much with a part to make it interesting and funny!"

As the weeks went on, however, both performances and attitudes took a turn for the better. The Advanced drama class took time aside from 7th period to perform Earthlings for local grammar schools and junior highs.

Self-nicknamed the "Hawthorne Harlequins," the actors kept Nyman Hall rocking with their antics. Seldom were they seated; when not rehearsing, they were performing skits for the members' birthdays or improvising scenes from on-the-spot situations. "It took me awhile to relax around the other actors!" admitted new member Stephanie Fosse.

A three-act play entitled "Plaza Suite" brought several actors local fame, if not fortune. At the same time the Harlequins competed with other schools at the fall Drama Teachers Association annual festival. Unsatisfied with the results they produced a multitude of humorous scenes to win the Dominguez Hills festival!

Front—A. Ambriz, J. Samorra, A. Escobar, M. Wilmot, R. San Mateo. Second—Mrs. D. Martinez, L. Schmidt, C. Downing, L. Estrada, S. Fosse, J. Portella, S. Sperling. Back—J. Griffith, A. Martinez, J. Wilmot, M.J. Wells, D. Nguyen, B. Guerra, R. Wasson, K. Cunningham, B. Brady.



LOST IN SPACE—Junior Judy Samorra lets out a sigh while fan tasizing about a future acting career. Judy was also a mem ber of Chorus.

ANYTHING GOES—Sharon Sperling, Jenny Wilmot, and Joh
Portella rehearse a musical number. This was Jenny's first yea in the drama family.

GUESS WHAT?—Junior Arthur Martinez anticipates upcoming Drama Festival with fellow actor Ricky Wasson. Ricky was also involved in El Molino.

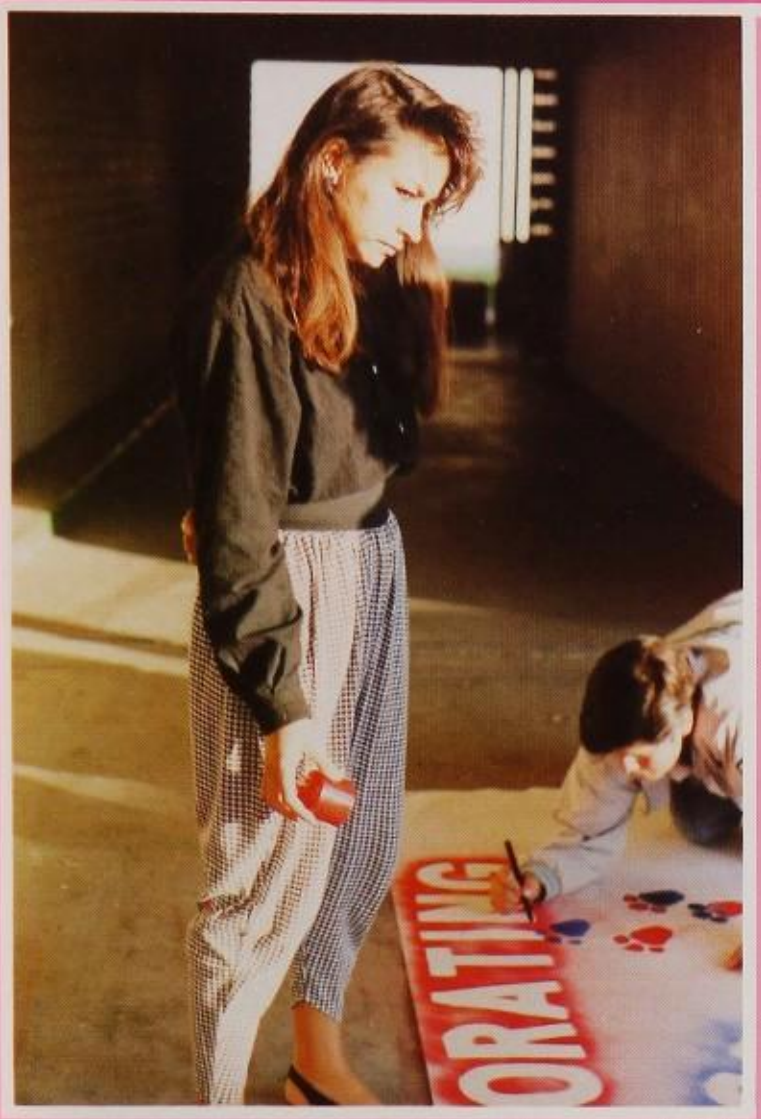
Student Council

SAY, "AH"!—Rowdy Council members try to out-yell each other with school cheers at the CADA Conference. The CADA Conference was made up of schools around Southern California.

TRASH PICKERS—Seniors David Noya and Richard San Mateo, along with junior Tricia Ponce de Leon, help keep our campus clean. Student Council members received activity credits for participating in projects.



following the leaders

"If we don't think for ourselves, no one else will." This theme was repeated continuously throughout the "CADA" Conference at Excelcior High School. Council members attended the all-day California Association of Activity Directors conference in November that helped them improve leadership abilities.

Leadership duties included speaking in public at functions such as End-of-Day Assembly, Business Meetings in the class itself first period, and noon-time activities. Surrounded by leaders in class and at conferences, members were motivated in events such as the Canned Food Drive, and Red Ribbon Week. "Student Council has acknowledged responsibilities for the future!" exclaimed Senior Karina Velasco.

Members of Student Council were chosen from a personal interview with Activities Director Dan Karella, or were automatically placed in the class if they held a position as class officer.

Student Council sponsored many events, such as the Ice Cream Social, Join-A-Day (which provided students with an option to join many of the clubs on campus), and Carnival Day, during which the organizations on campus raised money with game and food booths.

When they were not engaged in planning social events, Student Council members exercised their creativity with the painting of brightly colored posters, announcing the events.

YOU WENT OUT OF THE LINES—Lorena Guerrero helps to decorate a poster. Posters were put up all over the school to inform students of upcoming events.

GET IT GIRL—Senior Helen Lee prepares to put up a poster. Lee was also the school mascot.

Stepping into the limelight

Hashimoto? No, Mr. Ishibashi. The first few weeks of school, students constantly corrected the pronunciation of the name of their new director, Mr. Ishibashi. Half time performances displayed a new style, thanks to the energetic new band director and new drill team advisor, Ms. Link.

Starting the year off by getting first place at the Hawthorne Youth Day Parade was a good sign that things could only get better. Band President Edgar Melendez said, "In my four years in the Cougar Marching Band, this has been my best year! I think this year's music was the best and the most up to date music we have ever played." With the audience moving to the beat of such songs as Push It and Head to Toe. Drill Team did a little moving to the beat themselves. These girls were ready to do their best to capture the eyes of those people in the stands.

The Drill Team flourished under the watchful eyes of Ms. Link, Captain Jessica Bautista and Co-Captains Eleanor Sia and Alice Kosmata. "One of the biggest responsibilities of being captain is saluting at parades and making the final decision on any disagreement within the Drill Team, but there is equal responsibility between all three of us," commented Senior Jessica Bautista. These girls worked on average of three to four hours a day to perfect their routines. "It's a lot of hard work," exclaimed Junior Michelle Chaput, "but hearing the crowd cheer after each performance makes it all worth it!"

BEAT GOES ON—Drummers, led by David Dougherly, show o their coolness by wearing shades during half time perfo mance. (Top and Right) Marching into position, the Brass Sec tion of the Cougar Marching Band was very important to th "new beat" the band played this year.

Band/flags

5, 6, 7, 8?—Band Director Andy Ishiboshi labors hard at the baton. This was his first year as director.

Calculas and Culture

The abundance of initials often confused both new and old students. Although the names were similar, the clubs served a completely different purpose. "Being a member of CSF makes you strive to do your best with the 3.6 grade point average," reported Senior David Noya.

AFS (American Field Service) was an international organization that hosted foreign exchange students and sent American students to live and study in another country. "It was a fun club that gave me a chance to travel and understand people better," said Freshman Patty Salas.

CSF (California Scholarship Federation) taught students to fill out college applications, as well as providing a club for those with the common bond of good grades. "Being a member of CSF helped me with preparing for college!" exclaimed Junior Marianne Carlton.

Occasionally, CSF would hold a car wash in the parking lot while the neighboring AFS Club collected newspapers. While CSF were busy applying for scholarships, the AFS Club participated in AFS Day, during which exchange students from all over the South Bay came to talk to classes about culture and lifestyle in their country. The AFS Club also participated in a short term exchange with Connecticut one week, in December. "The AFS Club helped me understand different people and their culture!" exclaimed junior Brian Stachowiak.

ENJOYING LUNCH—Mr. Brown is a long-time sponsor of the AFS club. He is retiring in '88 to settle in Arizona.

"OUR NEXT ORDER OF BUSINESS IS . . . "— Michelle Willson (AFS club president) conducts a weekly meeting. Michelle was a three year member of CSF.

AFS/CSF

HOW INTERESTING—Junior Nyna Lelea listens to the discussion about being an exchange student.

BORN TO LEARN—CSF members take time out of studying to gather for a picture. Many members were enrolled in honors classes.

El Molino

QUICKEST HANDS IN THE WEST—Seniors Stephanie Payne and Michelle Willson enter copy into the computer. Both were members of CSF.

PICTURE OF PRIDE—El Molino is usually the team to beat at the on-the-spot journalism contests. Awards, local, state, and national, were received for copy and layout design.

HARD AT WORK—Sophomore Ruth Betru struggles to come up with a final paragraph for her story. It was Ruth's first year on El Molino.

Best kept secret

Once sixth period bell rings and Editor-in-Chief Richard San Mateo has given his daily pep talk, the real work begins in 20-1. Stories are written, photo assignments given out, and layouts designed and drawn.

Although summer training helped new staff members learn about yearbook production, they still welcomed the helping hands of the more experienced 86-87 staff. "Making a yearbook is constantly a learning process, I learned something new every day," commented junior Joe Gantan.

New members were chosen in the spring of '87 after a series of interviews. When final selections had been made, the new staffers discovered they had landed a spot on the '88 El Molino with a rude awakening, beginning at 5:30 in the morning! Blindfolded and kidnapped, they were given a make-over of costumes and exotic make-up.

The very first week of school, yearbook staff was faced with the task of choosing a theme and cover design. Each member took part in this process. The Wild Life and '88 is Grand, which dealt with the 88 keys on the piano, were some of the themes which were dicarded.

On the days of deadlines everything seemed twice as hectic. Sometimes deadline "packs" were given out to boost the staffers' morale and ease the pressure. These generally consisted of candy and other goodies, along with a special message for each individual. These perks, too good to forget, added to a lively and learning year for El Molino!

LEADERS OF THE PACK—Senior Editors Richard San Mateo, Melissa Wilmot, and Cynthia Cucalon give staff members words of encouragment. All three have been on El Molino since their sophomore year.

Right off the press

Extra! Extra! read all about it. Another Friday and the Cougar is delivered again. Only 1800 copies for the school's 2800 population. After the Cougar was distributed the process of putting together a paper began again.

Before anything else the staff had to come up with ideas for stories. These ideas were usually proposed to Editor Kristen Herrera for a final decision. Although feature topics came from the staff, there were the basic news items which needed to be covered. These "beats" were usually assigned.

Reporters were required to turn in their stories one and a half weeks prior to printing, to allow for typesetting. "The work done on Cougar is an on-the-job activity, a ture course in preparation for life," commented Cougar adviser, Mr. Andersen.

When paste-up and corrections were done the paper was finally printed. "I think working on a newspaper is a lot of hard work, even frustration, and pain, but in the end it gives me personal satisfaction, especially when I get compliments!" exclaimed Editor Kristen Herrera.

Theme issues also added to variety in the paper. "One theme based on the 50's and 60's, took us into the past of our school and various teachers."

Two special features included in each issue were the "Athlete and Artist of the Issue." Featured artist Melissa Wilmot remarked, "It was an honor to be featured in the Cougar. Scott Johnson, who interviewed me, was very personable and professional."

Front—Victor Prince, Quinton Adams, Second—Mr. Andersen, Alex Asher, Scott Johnson, Angel Gonzalez, Wendell Bellazaire, Back—David Elms, Nick Koza, Kristen Herrera, Annie Escobar, Eva Gonzalez.

QUEENS COOPERATE—Friends and co-workers, Eva Gonzalez and Annie Escobar gossip about upcoming events while using their creativity in their stories. Eva was elected Christmas Queen and Annie Homecoming Queen for the 1988 school year.

COPY CATS—Editor Kristen Herrera lectures fellow staffer Quinton Adams while trying to meet the intense deadline. Kristen was also actively involved in Key Club as the Recording Secretary.

EDITOR BLAZES NEW TRIALS—Staffers Angel Gonzalez, David Elms and Scott Johnson gather around Editor Kristen Herrera as she introduces her ideas for the following issue. Angel was also a member of Pep Squad.

A TYPING WE WILL GO—Staffer Alexander Asher sets the computer keys smoking while striving to finish his story. Computers in the Print Shop room enabled the newspaper staff to work with ease.

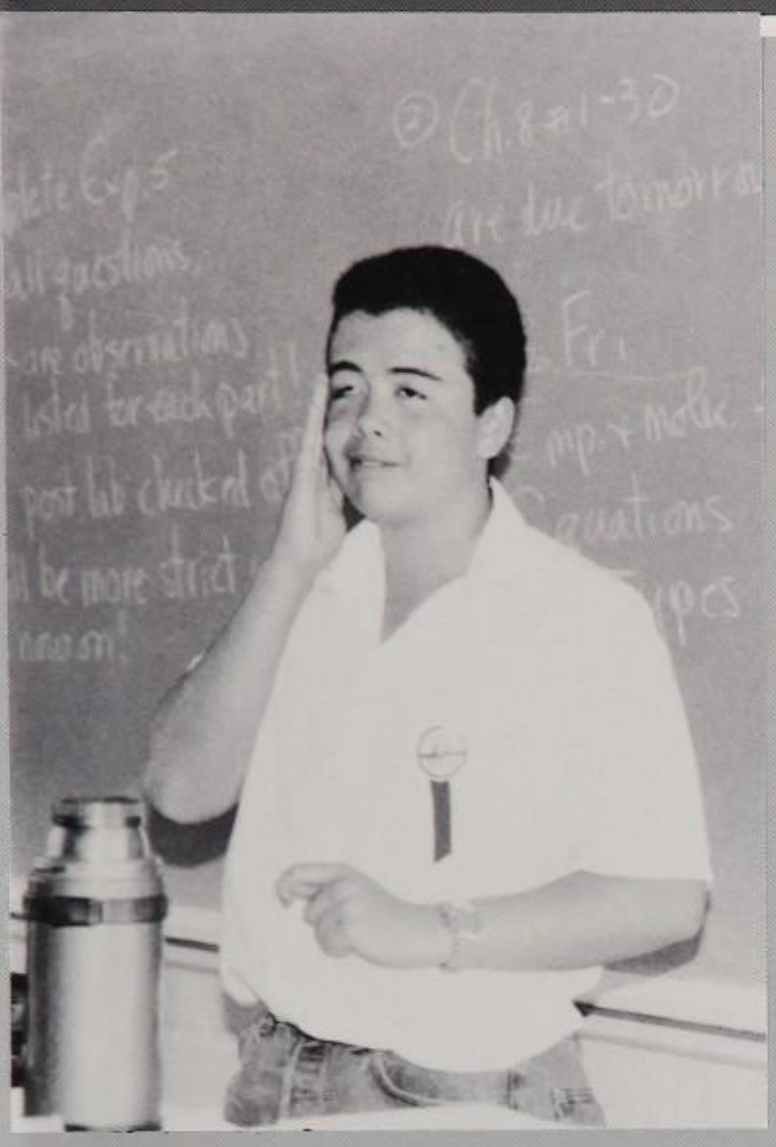
MISSED A SPOT!—Junior Aldwin Lorica shows club dedication by scrubbing away intensely at Science Club Carwash. Lorica was also a member of Key Club.

RECRUITS! RECRUITS!—Perspective club members inquire about activities and functions in the Science Club booth at Join-A-Club Day. Many clubs used this day as their opportunity to gain new members for the school year.



Intrigue fills Prodigious minds

Spherical bubbles filled with gas floated in the air and burst into flames as the student held the burning candle against them. This was not an example of a magician's trick or an arsonal display, but one of the many scientific demostrations and experiments of the Science Club.

To some, the subject of science was nothing more than a graduation requirement, but to others the area was intriguing. To them, the idea was one that invited them to make more discoveries and learn more about the world where we lived.

Led by President David Elms, club members were not treated with boring meetings every other week, but were left in awe by experiments fellow members and advisers Mrs. Takumi, Mr. Moore and Mr. Andrade devised to share with the organization. "I think the club is exciting," said second-year member Regina Degler, "The experiments we do and field trips we have make it worthwhile."

Having a variety of students, a variety of opinions as to the progress of the club appeared. In the eyes of some, the club was an enormous improvement compared to the previous year. Junior Hoa Du stated, "Last year's club seemed as though it was a bunch of Seniors fooling around." Others had different opinions, such as Robert Heinemier, who said, "Last year seemed more organized than this year."

WEIRD SCIENCE—President David Elms wearily prepares to begin a meeting. Elms was also Commissioner of Clubs.

MAD SCIENTISTS—Club members listen avidly to demonstration on the principles of gases. Members and advisers conducted experiments at meetings.

Highway to Heaven

Hornets and Skyhawks whizzed by. Oohhs and aahhs were heard from the spectators in room 7-3. When the video ended, they gave looks of awe to club sponsor Mr. Macha. A typical Aerospace meeting was under way.

To many, the theme to Top Gun may come to mind whenever Aerospace is mentioned, but to the 45 members of the club, it was a completely different association. "I'm planning a career in Aerosapce," commented Mark Withycombe. "The club provided me with different aspects of the field at almost every meeting!"

In addition to building models, watching videos and hosting speakers from the military, at every meeting a raffle was held. Model kits provided by Mr. Macha were raffled off the few "lucky winners" at each meeting. The club also had opportunities to go on field trips as well. The El Toro Base was one of the places visited. There they got to watch some modern fighter jets and bomber demonstrations.

"Mr. Macha is always eager to take us places in order for us to experience what the club is all about!" stated Sophomore Jeffery Griffeth.

During the summer the annual Hawthorne Aire Fair was held at the city's Municipal Airport where the club was on hand selling candy to hungry spectators.

Fancy footwork

COUNT ME IN—Senior Jessica Bautista casually raises her hand for the upcoming ski trip. Jessica was captain of the Drill Team.

REACHING FOR THE STARS—Sara Lozano practices for an upcoming performance. Dance Production practiced during 6th and 7th periods.

A group of skiers tumbled out of their cars and gazed upon the huge white mountain that was to be conquered later that day. These bundled-up mummies weren't professional skiers, but students in the Ski Club with the ambition to attack the slopes on their week-long ski trip to Utah.

Along with the Utah trip, which was held during the X-mas vacation, various weekend trips were planned. These trips were often dependent on the weather. "If there's no snow," commended Kim Miller, "we don't go."

All the fancy footwork didn't occur on the snow; much was displayed on the stage, by Dance Production.

Anticipation permeated the air as the spotlight flashed on the lone dancer beginning her performance. Dance Production's auditions were held at the end of the first semester to help accomodate the crowded fall schedule. New Advisor Laurie Campbell developed a vigorous week-long competition to select the dedicated, serious dancers.

This select group devoted much of their time to practice for the Barefoot Concerto, which was held in collaboration with Leuzinger's dance club.

Dance Production members sold jewelery and candy to help out with the costs of dance costumes and supplies.

Dance Production gave students a chance to define dance in their own way. "Dance gives you a sense of discipline, physically as well as spiritually," commented third year member Sophia Flores.

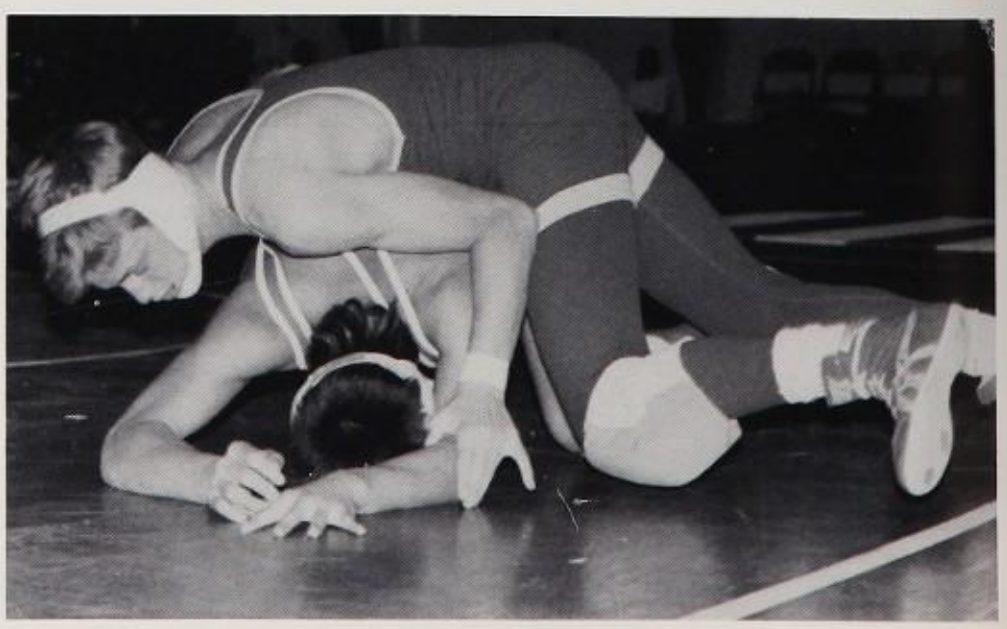
SKI CLUB—FRONT-Robyn Miller, Tricia Waayers, Christy Botero, Jessica Bautista, SECOND-Becky Ryhal, Irma Gonzalez, Michelle Rosenquist, Kim Miller, Trina Hoffarth, BACK-Mr. Minami, Paco Rodriguez, Christian Portillo, Norman Figueroa, David Noya, Rahim Mohammed, Robbie Lelm

FEMME FATAL—Sophomore Laura Brotherton attacks the ball. Soccer players spent hours running and perfecting plays before games.

CLUCK CLUCK!—Solemnly regarding a soccer ball, Derek Espinoza stretches in preperation for a game. Espinoza divided his time between soccer and surfing.

STONE FACED—Soccer coach Jimmy Stone contemplates game strategy. Stone's younger sister Jennifer was a member of the team.

MUSCLEMEN—Wrestler Timmy Williams pins his opponent. Excellence in the sport depended on technique and strength of body and mind.



GOIN' FOR SIX—Clutching the ball, Curtis Conway runs for the touchdown. Conway was South Bay Player of the Year.

FLEET FEET—Whipping around a corner, Mike Casaraz gathers his strength for the finish. Casarez ran cross country for four years.

SPORTS

Too Good To Forget

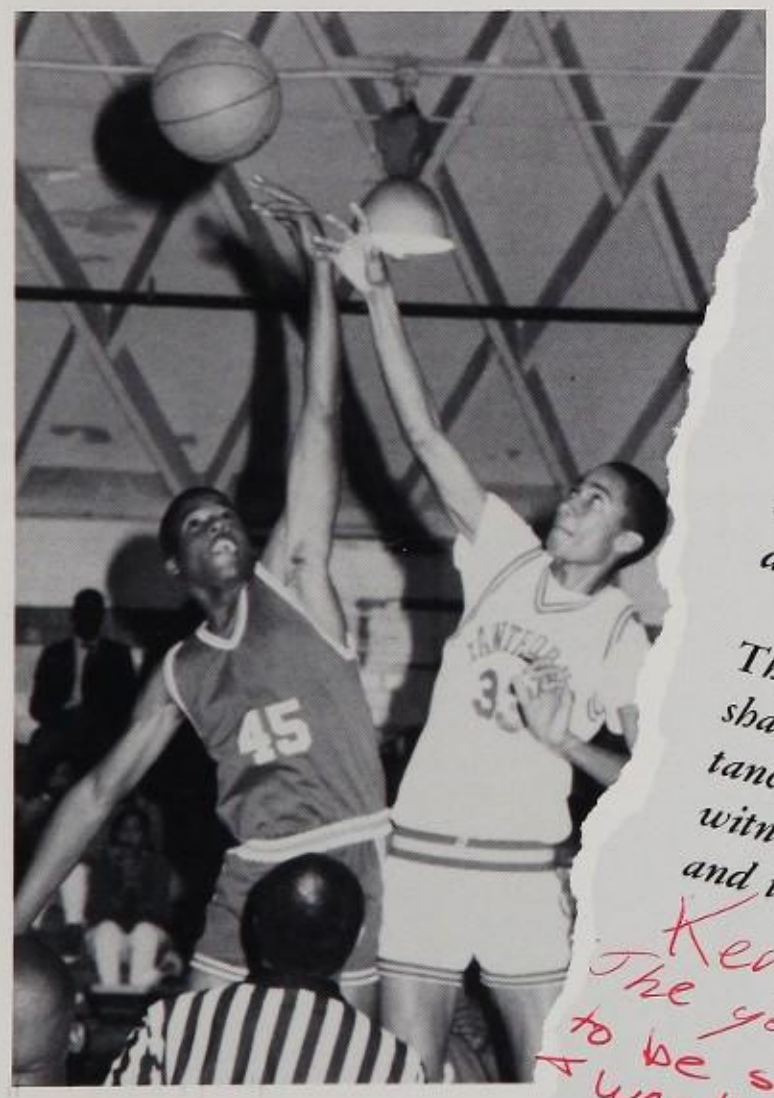
Dear Diary,

Imagine how excited I was as I opened the sports section to see my name, printed under track, for my first place award in the 3200 race.

The thrill of victory, as well as the despair of defeat, lurks about the East and West Gyms, and Hal Cap Field. Friday nights, I can hear the spectators screaming all the way from my house, unless of course, I'm cheering among them myself.

Aside from being good exercise, sports are good for one's social life. I meet some of the most interesting people during competitions!

The best thing, however, is the support of the team. There is a unique bond between members, the result of the shared struggle to win, and the resignation and acceptance of defeat. It is my fellow team members that have witnessed my tears and struggles, as well as my victories, and they're all too good to forget!



BATTLE OF THE BALL—J.V. hoopster Clement Jones leaps to the challenge. This was Jones' first year playing basketball for HHS.

Ken,
The year is over. Now we are one step closer to be seniors! Next year Ken, C.I.F. We got to work + work. I know you have a great Summer → Remember Me, O.K.

BORN TO RUN WILD

Boys striding to be best

Win, win, win . . . what else needs to be said about the Varsity Track team. Coach Kye Courtney, a California Coaches Association Track Coach of the Year, put it simply, "We're the best in the state." The Cougars went to the state finals holding five consecutive state championships.

Travis Hannah and Curtis Conway were the two top runners on the mile relay. At USC's Cromwell Field they ran the fastest time in the nation for the early season.

Practice makes perfect; that's what was involved here, practicing for long hours after school, in their spare time, even during the holiday seasons, athletes could be seen hard at work at the track fields. Senior Leroy Thomas said, "We work and work, that's why we're the best."

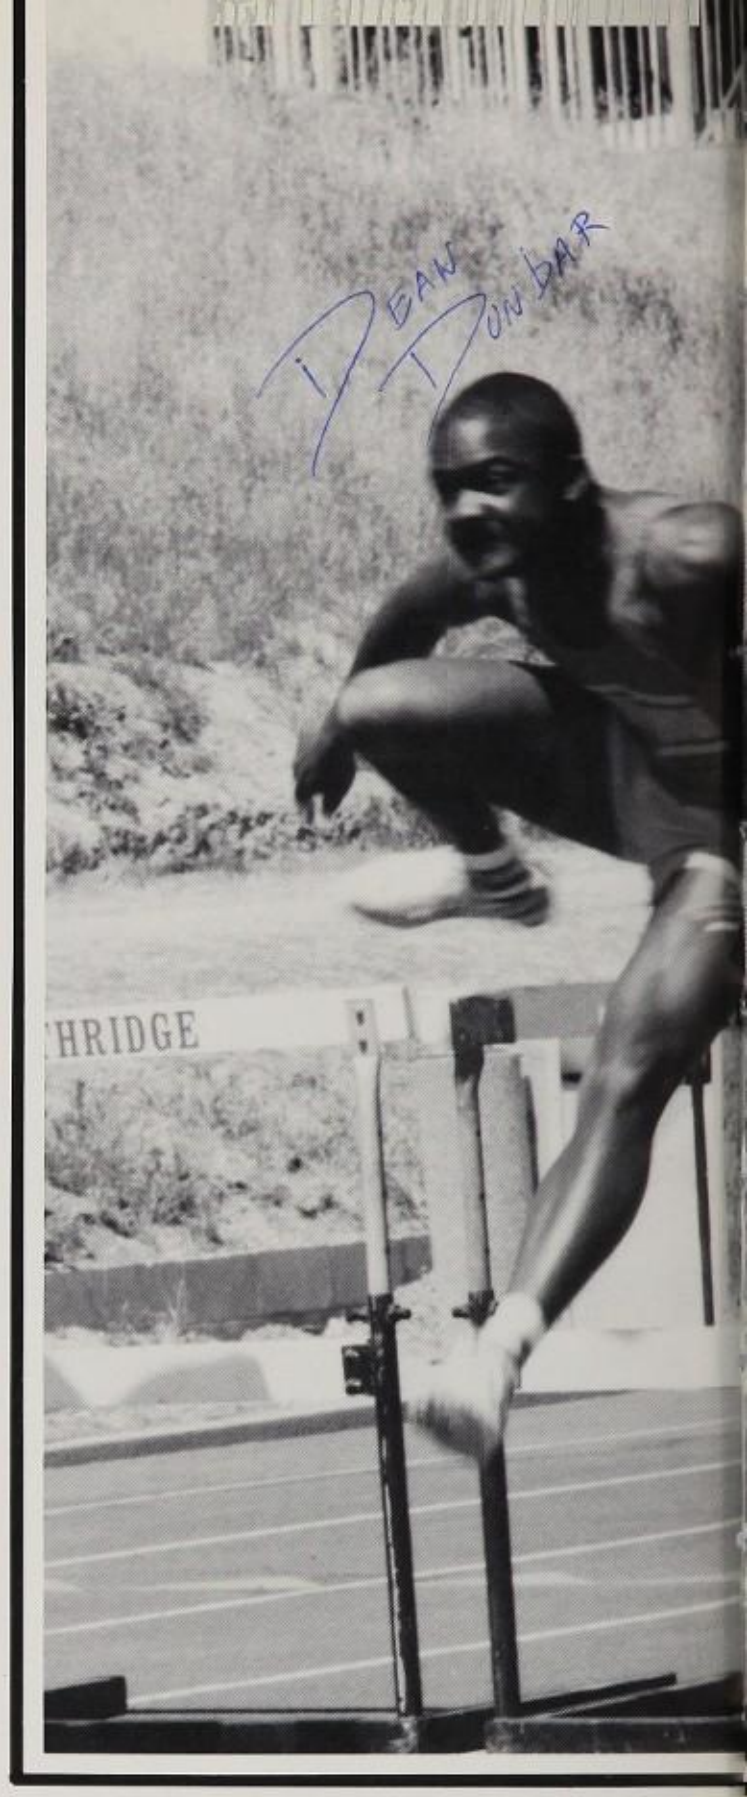
Since August the team had been practicing together, but most of the runners put in extra time during the weekends and holidays.

Upholding the tradition for yet another season with the dedication of true sportsmen, the track team ran their way to a victory. Turning the Sunkist Invitational into their own showcase at the LA Sports Area, they again proved to be one of the strongest teams in the nation.

Junior Dean Dunbar decided to join the team after reading about its reputation in Track and Field magazine. He said, "When we walk into a stadium the first thing other teams say is, 'That's Hawthorne and we gotta beat them.' You go to BE Hawthorne, you are supposed to be the best."

I'm really going to miss practice. Practice was always a lot of fun, especially the bag-attacks with Coach Courtney!

-Leroy Thomas



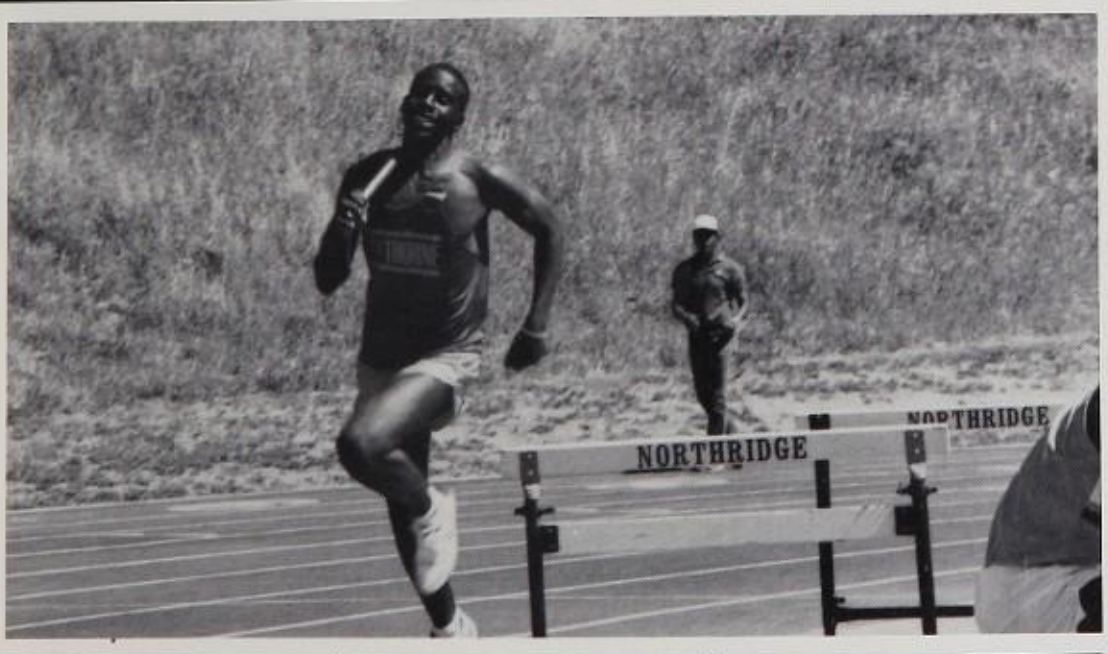
I'M GONNA BEAT YOU!- Junior Dean Dunbar shows off his footwork. Dunbar was also on the varsity football team.

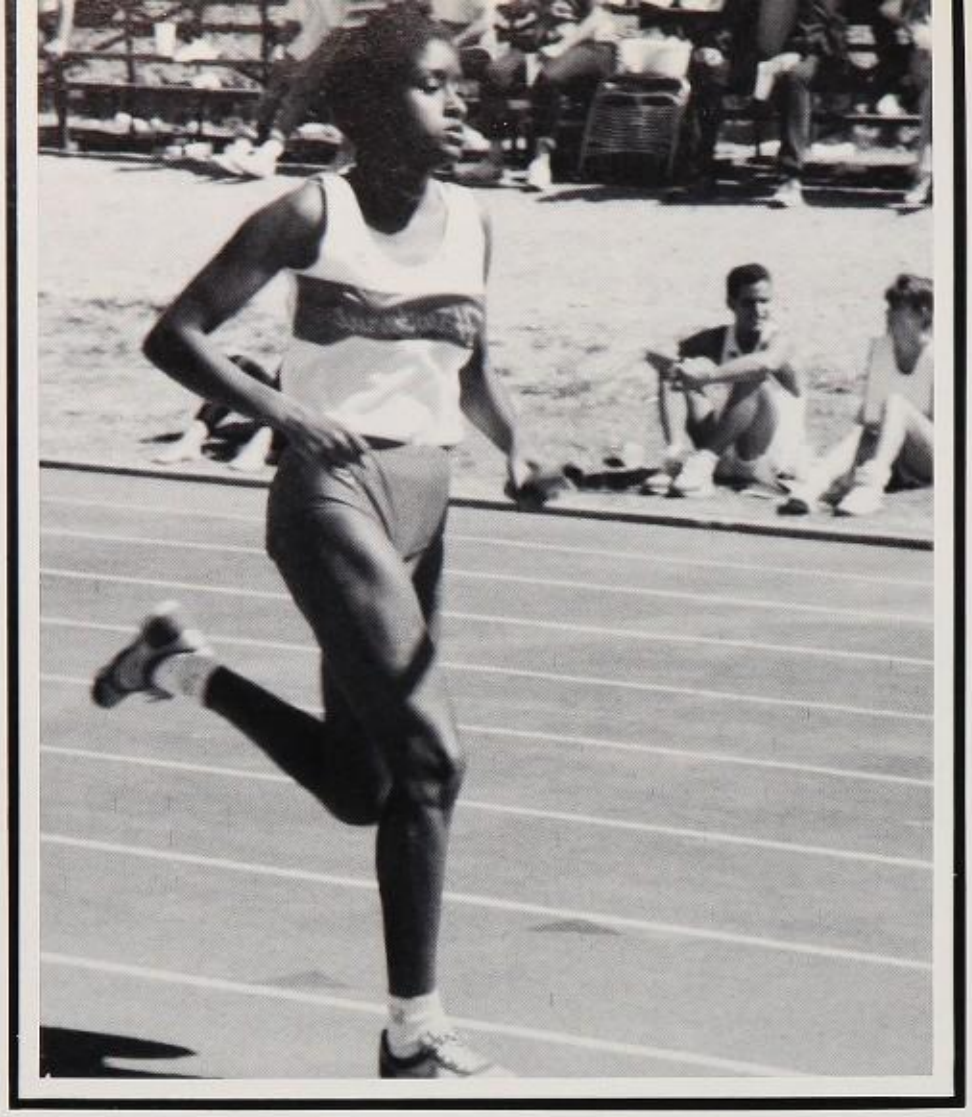
I GOTTA MAKE IT!- Chris Alexander advances toward the finish line. Alexander was also involved in the Knights.

ONWARD BOUND- Keith Pouncey procedes toward to pass the stick. Pouncey also went to Yale Universtiy with selected members of the track team.

COME ON!- "Sabio" awaits anxiously for the stick. He went to run at Cal State Northridge.

IN THE LEAD- Juan Carlos Chavez runs cooly knowing he is in the lead. Chavez was one of the team captains.





HOW MUCH LONGER—Chantal Grayson strives to reach the finish line. Grayson was the athletic commisioner.

'ROUND THE BEND—Angel Fletcher turns around a corner during during the last of the meet leg. This was Fletcher's second year on track.

HOW MUCH FURTHER—A varsity runner sprints faster than her heart beat as she approaches the finish line. Good runners learned breathing techniques.

BEST IN THE WEST

LADIES PROVE THEIR QUEST

"It was an honor to be part of 'the most feared team in the state.' Many memories were made throughout my four years." -Deanna Amy Cream of the crop, leaders of the pack— that was what those 40 young ladies who made up the unconquerable track team were referred to as.

Consistancy is what kept Hawthorne at the advantage over their toughest rivals. "I try to help my team out any way that I can. I feel that my teammates are my family," stated senior hurdlist Kyshaune Henry. "We try to help each other."

All the team members pay special attention to their coach's advice. Coach Kye Courtney stated, "We tried to get a head start, and they practiced till they dropped. We like to keep our habit of staying the best in the state."

These strongly determined girls traveled everywhere and accepted all challenges eagerly. "Racing at the National Pathmark Indoor meet at Yale Yuniversity in New Haven, Connecticut, was a complete honor to me. We raced against the best in the nation. Just being there made us all winners," commented Keesha Adams.

Injuries did occur, but none of them had a major impact on the team. "Much pain was involved when I dislocated my hip at the beginning of the season, but I made a fast recovery," said sophomore sprinter Angel Fletcher.

The unstoppable team proved they were the best by conquering everyone at the Santa Ana Relays. Tanya Chaverri, a sophomore on the team, stated, "It feels nice to be a part of the team. To wear the uniform gave me a feeling of respect."

HERE I COME—Rhonda Kennerson gives it all she's got at a relay meet at Northridge. This was Kennerson's third year on track.

SAY WHHAAAT!!!—Neicy Smith kicks back while listening to the announcer before the next race. Track meets often lasted an entire day.

DRIVEN TO WIN

Track team upholds reputation

Anticipating the outcry of the starting gun, the athlete haunched forward on all fours. Sweat trickled down from cheek to chin as he eyed the long strip of paper which stretched across his path, a destination he hoped to reach first. The well-toned muscles grew tense, anxious to send him flying down the track. The gun sounded, and he was off.

The sport of track and field has certainly come a long way, evolving from mere running games to a conglomeration of highly competitive events. Under the notorious company of Henry Thomas, Travis Hannah and Curtis Conway, HHS has constantly taken top honors in the sport through the years. But why this consistent inheritance of outstanding athletes? Senior runner Kim Bly answered this question. "It seems as though the good athletes with the natural talent are attracted to our school and its successful history."

But a successful history is just a part of the making of a winning team; days and hours of practice also contribute. Many a day have these athletes spent circling the oval track of Halcap Field at full gallop, training for their upcoming meets. Under the supervision and training of experienced coaches, the team looked forward to this season with high hopes. "I think we have some of the best coaches in California", said Hannah, "They train us hard so that we can do good out there."

The success in the school's track team is a result of the incorporation of hard work, natural talent, good coaching, and a desire to win; a drive which has carried the Cougars to endless victories in the sport through the years. As Curtis Conway said, "We all train hard to do our best, and it works. We are the best!"

"Our teams have been looking really good. We look to taking the state championships. The coaches have done a great job in helping us train and work hard. We expected a superb season."
Rhonda Kennerson

HERE THEY COME!—Junior Diana Kim patiently awaits the outcome of a close race. When not competing, runners often entertained themselves with results of other races.

LEADER OF THE PACK—Sophomore runner Ismael Delpino eyes the finish line while in front of his group. Delpino was also a member of the Cross-Country team.

HUSTLE! HUSTLE!—Sophomore Deon Simpson anxiously awaits his turn in the transfer of the baton. This was Simpson's first year on the team.

YOU TAKE IT!—Senior Kyndel Stovall passes on the baton to fellow track runner. The "exchange of the stick" was considered a critical point of a relay race.

I THINK I CAN!—Junior runner Rhonda Kennerson speeds down the thoroughfare, leaving competitors behind. Runners agreed that every race required intense concentration.

ALL IN KNOTS—Two freshmen wrestlers use their skills on the mat. The freshmen team wrestled well during the season.

HOLDING HIM DOWN—Chris Livasy pounces on to his challenger. Livasy ran for Sophomore Sweetheart.

LEAGUE LEADERS

JV Wrestlers Win Ocean League

HHS JV Wrestling versus:

Santa Monica	42-24
Mira Costa	56-0

Clad in red and yellow sweats, they warmed up in the gym. They practiced their moves with fellow teammates, getting ready for the match. Their unique skills were immediately spotted and admired by many of the spectators. These aggressive guys were nobody else but the JV Wrestling team.

By becoming Ocean League Champions, the JV wrestlers showed that they were the best in the area. They placed first in many of the competitions including the Irvine and Redondo Tournaments. The team also came in on top in the Redondo and Hawthorne Quads. "The reason we did so well was because we were easily more agressive than our opponents and physically more together too," said Coach Bree.

Experienced athletes such as Eddie Payment and Anthony Lopez also helped the team's performance. Both freshmen, Luis Flores and Dennis Stone were first year members of the team who helped out considerably.

"My most memorable event was winning the Ocean League Title," said Eddie Payment. "That was when all the hard work paid off." The coaches and wrestlers had felt a great sense of accomplishment after winning the league title. In the Ocean League Finals, the JV wrestlers had more place-winners than the other teams competing. "The Ocean League Finals were the most exciting event of the whole season," exclaimed Payment.

RIVALS CLASH

Wrestlers pin, prosper, win

The athlete stood ready, perspiring profusely and breathing heavily while awaiting his turn to perform in front of the home crowd. The signal was given and he and his opponent rushed onward and clashed like gladiators, strength versus strength, technique versus technique, guts versus guts.

The sport of wrestling was an art that grew immensely popular. "I love all sports," said junior Everaro Gomez. "I think that a time comes when people see how great the sport is. Wrestling is no exception and I think its time has come."

Led with the supervision, discipline, and almost paternal guidance of Coach Bree, the Varsity Wrestling Team had a prosperous and successful season. Daily practices, lifting weights, running laps and scrimmage matches were all incorporated into the schedule. Aside from being physically prepared for their meets, mental preparation was also a must. "Before the match everyone gets psyched with the attitude of winning and doing your best," said fourth-year member Doug Tatara. "I review all my moves in my head so if one move fails, I can hit another."

It is because of their love for the sport that these wrestlers dedicate their time. With the good coaching, the physical and mental preparations, the team looked to a winning season, and got it! As senior wrestler Eric Portegies said, "We're here because we love the sport, and our fans are our biggest inspiration."

LEAGUE CAPTURED

Defense carries team in CIF playoffs

Advancing to the second game of the CIF playoffs wasn't what a team with doubts of winning the Ocean League expected.

After being ranked only third in the Ocean League, even first-year Coach Goy Casillas was surprised with the 9-2-1 record. "I never thought that this could happen because we had so many new kids playing," stated Casillas.

Despite their loss at Homecoming against Beverly Hills, the Cougars managed to blow out Santa Monica with a 45-20 win and pounded off Hal Cap field with the Ocean League title. "We were psyched for the game because we knew that we had a chance to win," stated Quarterback Curtis Conway.

The junior quarterback was the top league scorer in the South Bay with 21 touchdowns, over 700 yards running, and 1,500 yards passing. When Conway wasn't outrunning and dodging the other players with his speed and form, he was connecting with Wide Receiver Travis Hannah.

With the Ocean League title already won, the team moved into the first round of the Southern Section playoffs for CIF. In a close game, which the clock was in their favor, they defeated El Modena with a last second kick by Eddie Korn, "I didn't expect to take us to the second round of the playoffs. I was shaking all over when they put me out on the field to kick," confessed Junior Eddie Korn.

"This team has unbeatable speed," boasted Senior Travis Hannah. However, speed couldn't do it all for the visiting Cougars as they lost to El Toro, ending their season.

"They played to their best ability and we accomplished our goal, the Ocean League title," stated first-year coach Glenn Noya.

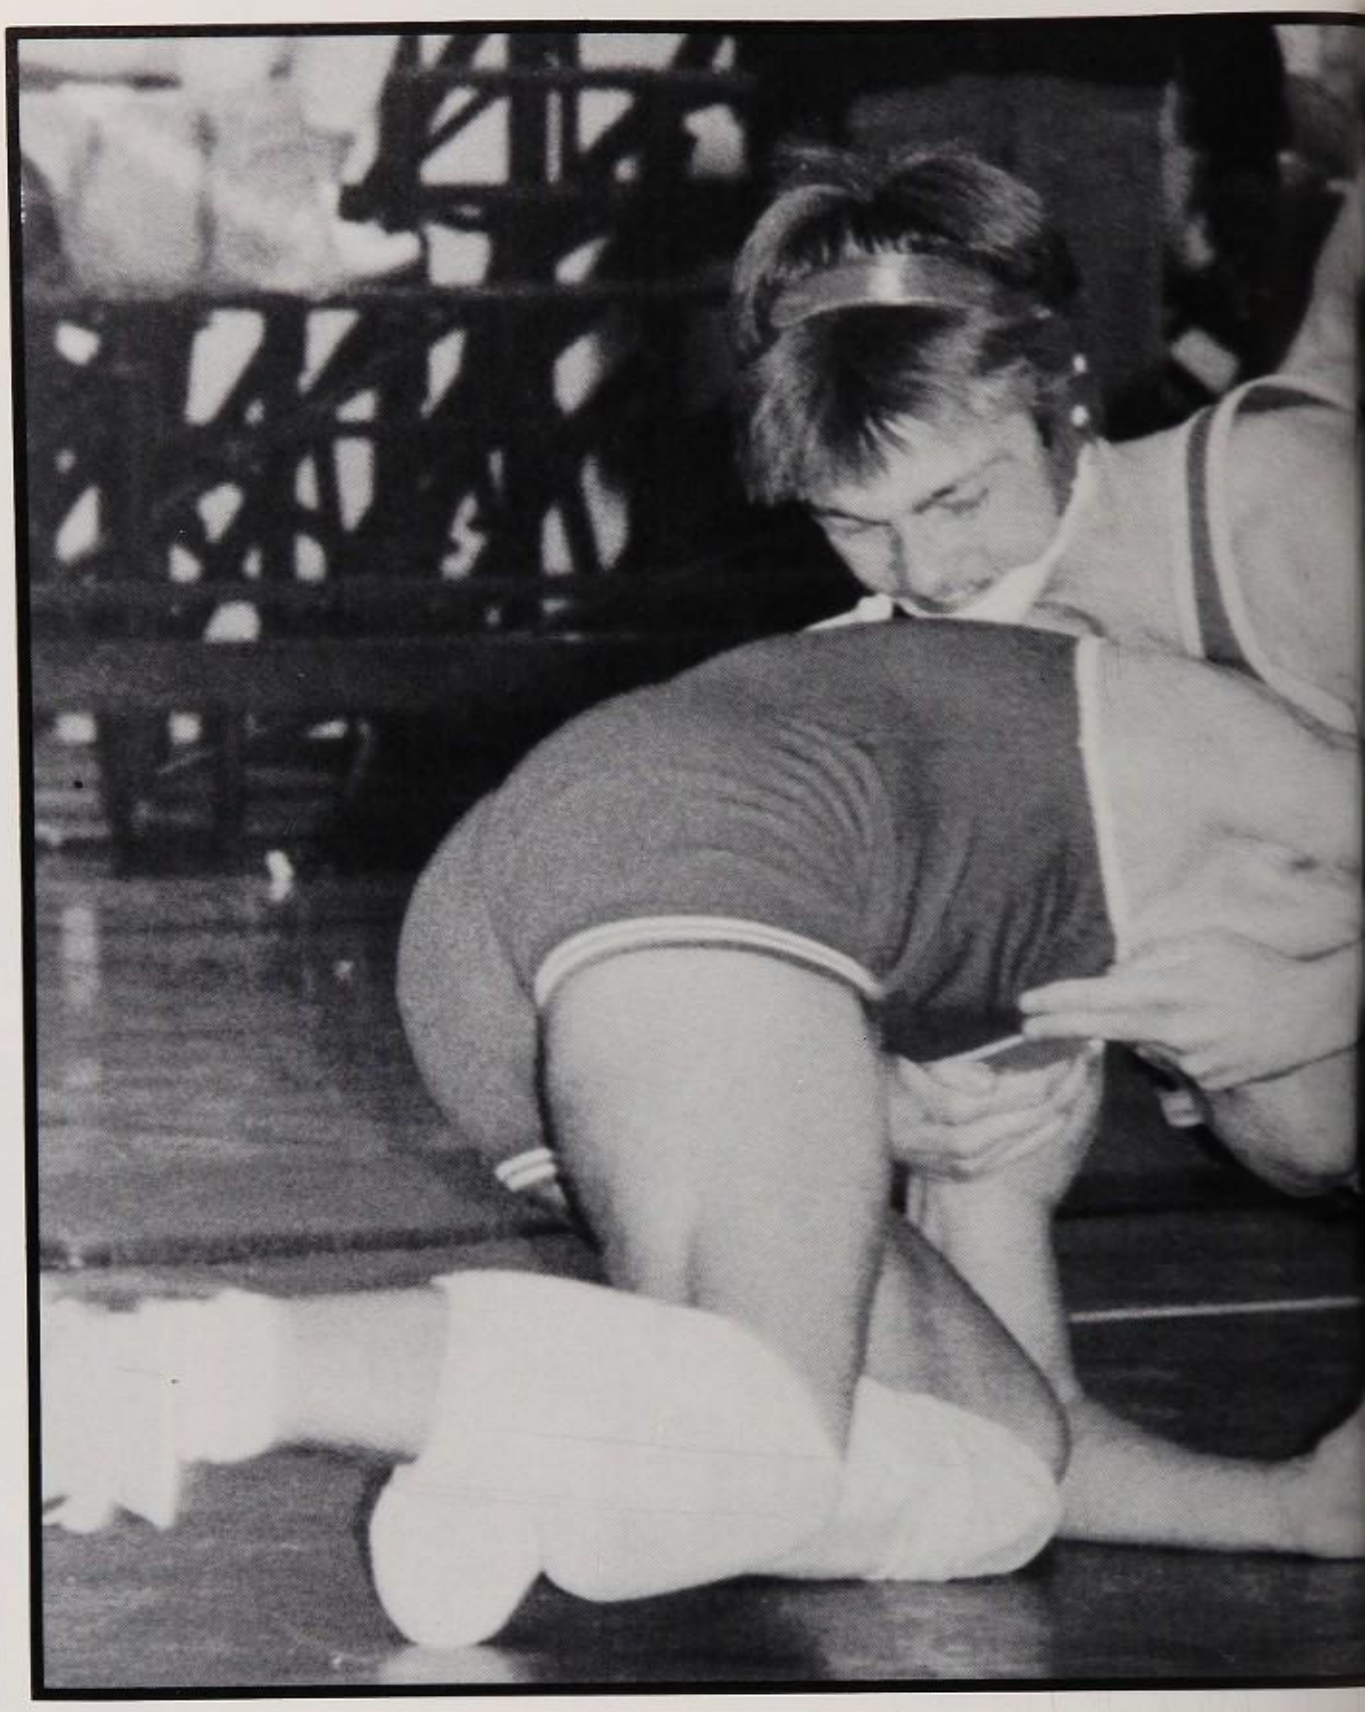
IN DESPAIR—Senior William Fifita anxiously awaits the outcome of the third quarter. The Cougars came back with two TD's to tie Leuzinger.

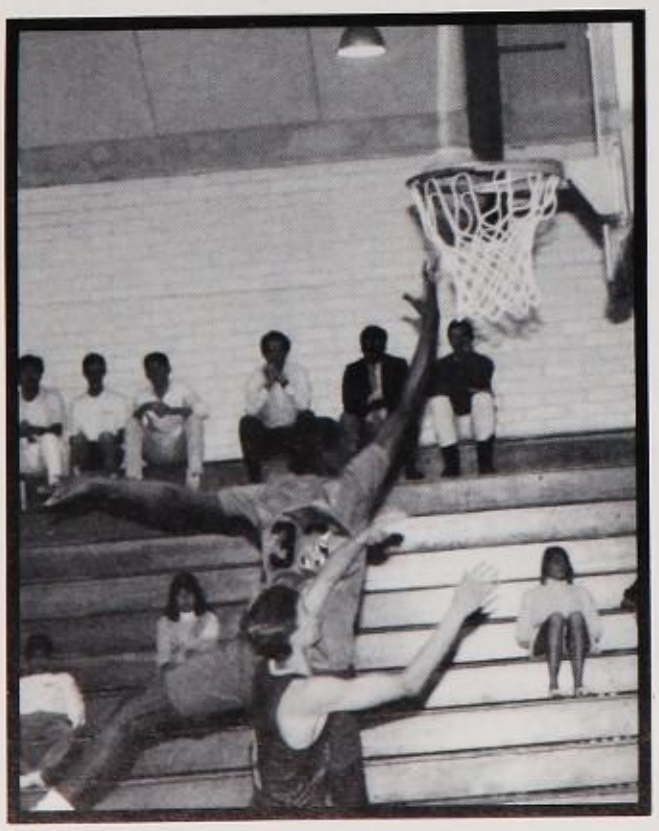
ON BENDED KNEES—Quarterback Curtis Conway gives words of encouragement to his offense. Curtis Conway has played on Varsity for 2 years.

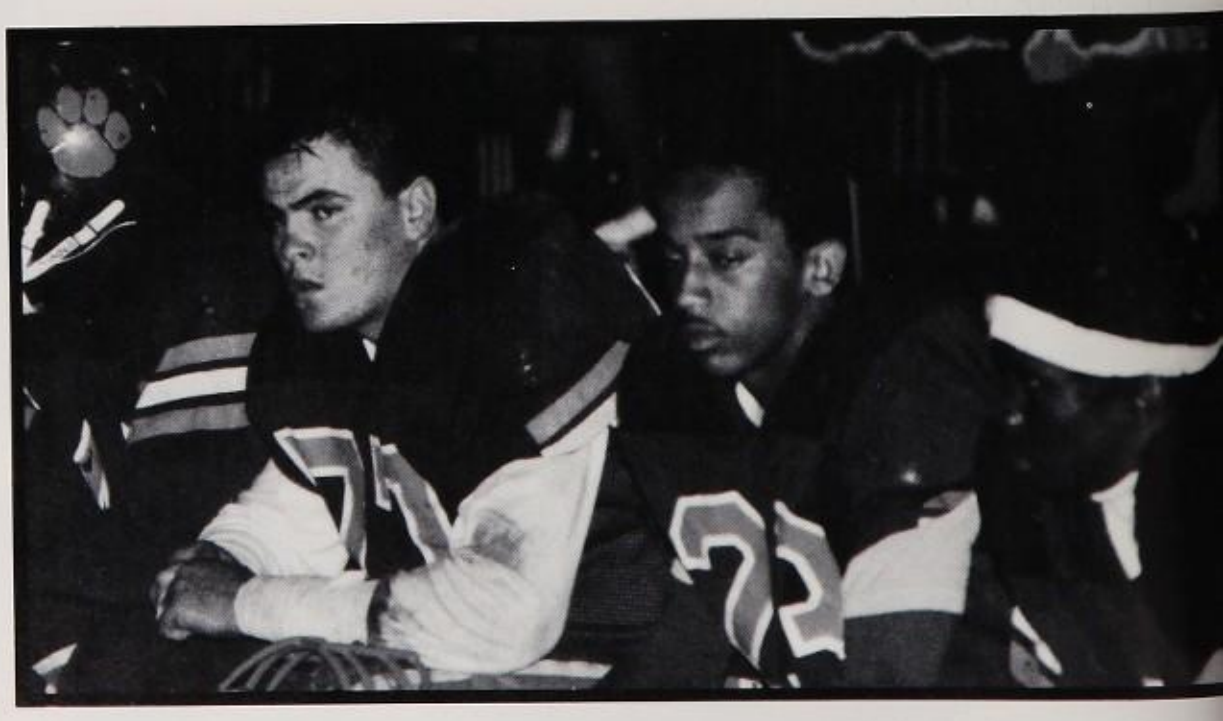
BUSTIN' OUT—Number 34 attempts to gain yardage. Rod Taylor was featured in the Cougar as Athlete of the Issue.

SUPER SACK—Defensive Tackle Robert Erena assists his teammate in a play against Beverly Hills. Homecoming King and Queen were announced during halftime.

OVER THE ROPES—Senior Bernadette Talanoa reaches high to try to block the ball. Talanoa played varsity volleyball for 4 years.







UNLUCKY SHOT—Varsity basketball player number 33 fails in an attpt to make a lay up for two points. The team learned how to work together during practices.

BENCH BOREDOM—Robert Erena, Kyle Lewis, ar Kevin Harris are disappointed by the loss to Beve ly Hills. It was their only loss in league play.

IT'S HOW YOU PLAY

Encouragement uplifts teams spirit

"They can watch their performances on video and it does not lie. What they do right or wrong is on the video. While watching the video we applaud when we see things done correctly and we strive to correct the mistakes and that makes for a better team."

Goy Casillas

Losing was something athletes didn't like. It affected everyone in different ways. Some were upset by a loss, and others tried to forget that anything ever happened. "After we lost, I came home feeling emotionally drained and I would constantly think about the mistakes that we made. I couldn't concentrate on anything," confessed Varsity player Neil Salguero.

There were many different reasons why a team lost a game, but according to Neil Minami, Head Coach of the Varsity Baseball team, everything reverted back to practice. "The way a player practices has a direct correlation to the way he will play during the game."

After experiencing a loss it was often hard to reprogram oneself to think positive again. "If it wasn't for the coach's encouragement I don't think I would've played as well," stated Ken Hashimoto, who was on the Varsity Football team. Each coach had their own unique methods of trying to uplift the spirits of their team. Goy Casillas, Head Coach of the Varsity Football team announced before every game, "The birds are singing, the sun is shining, it's COUGAR weather!" After each game that was won his players received a can of Coke and an apple.

A losing team could very well turn itself around and become a winning team. It took team effort and dedication. But most of all it required the desire to do one's best and WIN.

LOSING BATTLE—John McGauran desperately tries not to lose his balance. John lost his first match of the tournament.

COACHES CONTEMPLATE—Wrestling coaches John Bree and Carl Gormann watch intensely as a wrestler loses. Gormann coached the freshmen.

NEW TEAM, BIG GOALS

Soph/frosh teams merge with talent

Tough and aggressive. That's what these 53 frosh and 38 sophomores stood for. They were different because they had something to be proud of as underclassmen, their ability to play football. The freshmen football team with a 10-1 record proved that they didn't fool around. "The reason for our success was having a large number of talented players," said freshmen Coach Robbins. On the other hand, the sophomore football team ended their season with a 3-6-1 record. Injuries, such as leg injury of defensive player Waymond Powell, affected the team's performance.

Not only did the freshmen team have a strong offense, with the help of quarterback Quinn Merrit and tailback Armando Fernandez, their defense also helped carry them to victories. Freshmen center Mike Sanchez and linebacker Tony Vega kept the defense rolling. "After we scored once, then we got the momentum. The offense continued scoring and the defense kept the ball," said freshman Quinn Merrit. With ineffective offense, yet strong defense, the sophomore team struggled for victories. Defensive players such as Sione Mahe and Cornell Black helped in strengthening the team's defense.

Spirit in these freshmen and sophomores was a factor which led towards victories. The unity gave the players a reason to help out and do their best. "We are all one. There are no individuals on our team, and knowing that helped us a lot when playing," said freshmen Mike Sanchez.

Determination, concentration, and competition. What do these three words relate to? The all-endurant cross country team! These hard working young men began their training during the summer, and throughout the months until November.

Under Coach Bravo's guidance, they ran eight to fourteen miles per day preparing for their three mile competitions.

To a spectator, this sport may seem distant, and easy, but as Jeff Weiser stated, "Cross country is mind challenging just as much as it is physically."

Knee and ankle injuries were common among the runners. Varsity runner Gregg Stevens cheered on his teammates at cross country meets from sidelines in that his season was cut short due to a knee injury.

Cross country was also memorably fun as Phil Limbacher, a senior on the varsity team said, nostalgically, "Invitational meets on Saturdays are more fun than others because they're more relaxed, and everyone is more kickback and not as tense."

Cross country was all about setting goals willingly, accomplishing them, making new ones, and striving to better yourself each time.

Marcelo Vizuette, a sophomore, and first year member of the Varsity team, said, "Though we don't get as much recognition as other sports do, the self satisfaction we do get is just as rewarding."

AM I THERE YET?—Junior Jeff Weiser advances on his opponent, at the league finals. It was Weiser's third year on cross country.

GO BABY GO!—Taking the lead at the finals was Mike Casarez. Casarez took first place at the Agoura Hills invitational.

DASHING HOMEWARD

Team finishes second in league

Perfection. Something every athlete strives for. With spirit as bright as their red and gold uniforms, Varsity and J.V cross country teams were again one step above the rest.

Practice makes perfect, they say, and some days involved running 5 to 6 miles, during all kinds of weather. Varsity girls were again one of the top teams in the Ocean League conference, finishing 2nd in league play.

Varsity proved that endless months of practice paid off. "Team work is the key. Without group effort, we couldn't have done so well!" exclaimed Junior Chantal Grayson.

The disappointment of not making CIF again this season did not stop them from doing their best.

Finishing in first place, Mira Costa's win was not a big surprise, considering their league history. "We'll get 'em next year," stated Michelle Genglebach.

As for the J.V girls, they gave it their all as well. With only one loss to Beverly Hills, J.V proved that they were a strong team. "This was my first year on X-Country," stated Kim Spencer, "I was very proud of being on such an outstanding team!" J.V placed a solid 3rd in Ocean League.

Throughout the season both Varsity and J.V proved that dedication and perserverence go a long way.

NEW BOYS DOWN COURT

Team revived with new talent

"In what we have seen, there has been a lot of good, steady progress. We have kept making good ground. But we wanted to take things one step at a time this year because of one very important aspect, the lack of experience. We were just hoping that enough improvements would win us a play-off spot in the League."

- Coach Wells

Five, four, three, two, one, ring! The buzzer sounded as the flying acrobat soared through the air, and laid the ball into the basket.

This fast paced sport, full of slam dunks, 3-point shots, fast breaks, and wild plays, is basketball. Many people may believe the sports requires little skill and a simple objective of throwing a spherical object through a ring, but not so. As Tony Scott said, "We practice hard and we want to show off our best."

With only one person returning from the previous year's crew, the team looked on with young, eager, fresh, and agile players, full of energy; ready to show their talents through. Being a relatively young and inexperienced team they gained the reputation of being the "New Boys on the Floor." "We didn't really know one another at first," commented Dan Lemon. "Guys can sometimes get bigheaded. But eventually, we learned that this was a team sport and we got along fine."

Led by team Captain Randy Lavender, along with the supervision of Coach Wells and Coach Hutchins, the team looked forward to a fun, successful, and winning year. Dribbling the ball, making accurate passes, and mastering game plays may be the basic fundamentals elementary kids learn, but practice after practice, the team worked on perfecting the game. According to Darnell Gidrey, "The coach has done a good job at practice, and we are excited about our games."

As years pass and conditioning improves so are newer and better players developed in hopes of a good season. The difficult challenges of turning an inexperienced crew of boys into winning caliber was taken on by Coach Wells, who said, "We have seen great progress in our program and we know we will get better!"

SIDE WINDER—Stanley Boyce uses that arm action to put the ball through the hoop. Boyce was also owner of a variety of Gumby shirts.

SET-UP FOR THE FUTURE

Stepping stone for improvements

Bump, set, spike, bump, set,spike . . . to many, the sport of volleyball may be nothing more than the monotonous cycle of basic fundamentals. Not so in the eyes of HHS Volleyball teams. After many days of practice, these girls did not ever go out on the floor expecting to be beat, but ready to battle in fierce competion. Said JV player Joy Brotherton, "We practiced hard so we were ready to play."

Under the supervision and discipline of Coach Wheeler and Coach Smith, the Varsity team ended the season with a 5-5 record and the JV team, 5-5. "This year was more of a learning year, we had a good season, but next year we'll be better," said second-year player Noriko Yufuku.

Day after day, sweating out every practice, the girls did drill after drill, play after play, in hopes of mastering techniques and rules of the sport to perfection. "Being my first year in a an organized sport, it was a different experience; I learned a lot about good citizenship," said JV player Bobbi Ross.

Under the watchful eyes of fans who cheered on their home team, players often received the boost needed to rally themselves back to victory. "I remember the game against Mira Costa," recalled Brotherton, "we all knew they were good and had a good chance of winning, but fans kept rooting us on." It was this type of emotional uplifting which encouraged many athletes to perform their best at games. By doing so, both teams finished their seasons proudly.

In the end it boiled down to one thing: the love for the sport. The almost obsessive desire to win was in the minds of many HHS athletes, and this team of spikers, diggers, and bumpers was no exception. As Bobbi Ross, said, "Overall, we played hard and we had our good days and our bad days, but we had fun!"

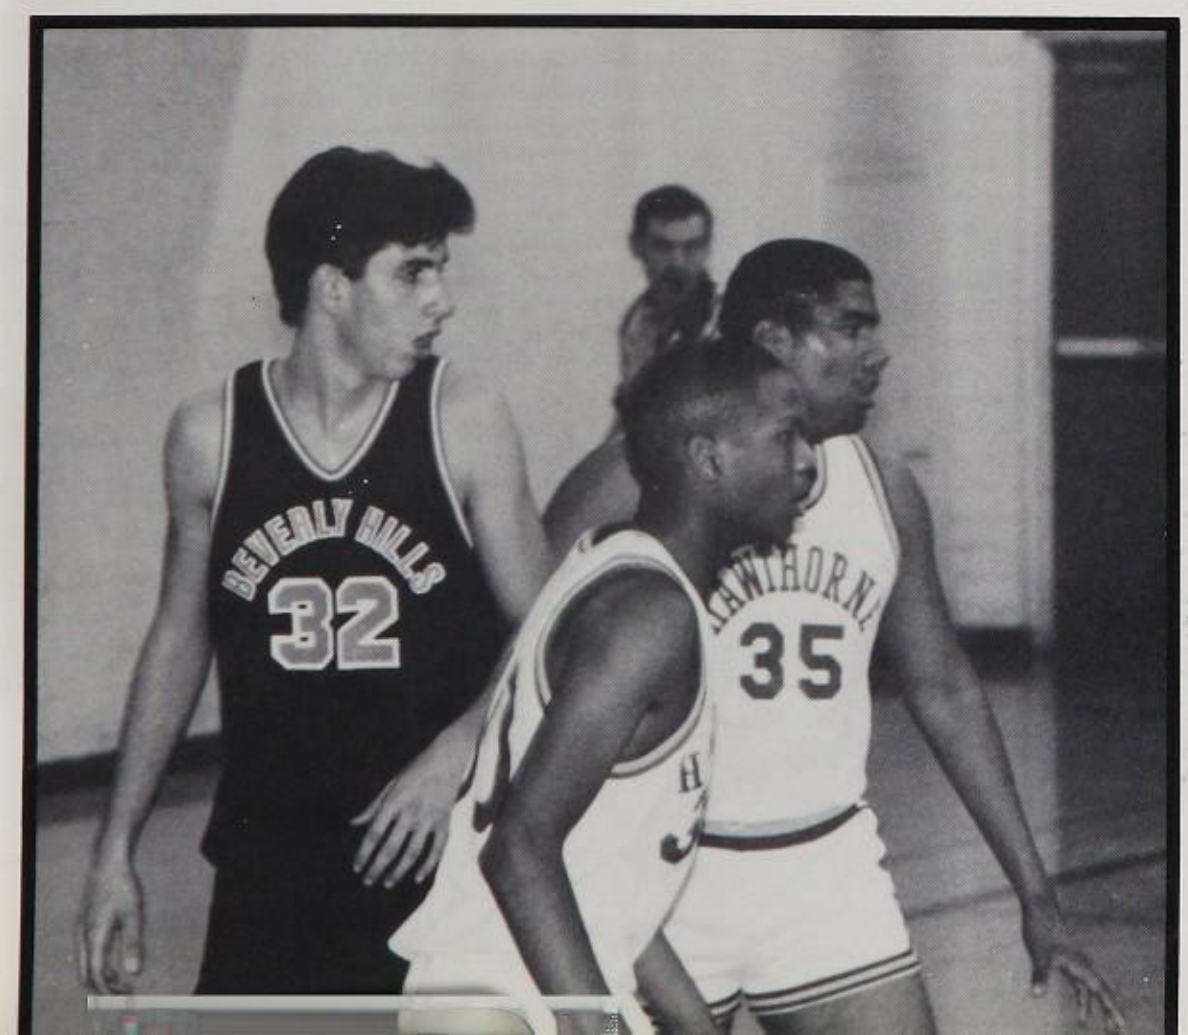
Basketballs thumped heavily on squeeky floors of the Boys' Gym after school. Tall guys dribbled balls up and down the court, sweat trickling down their faces. Many baskets were shot, but only some swished through the net.

Although the JV Basketball team practiced two hours every day except Wednesday and Friday which were game days, they didn't always come out on top. In order for the team to be the best it could be, everyone's effort was needed and wanted. "Our team had a lot of talent, but there was a lack of dedication. We needed to work harder and if we had, we could have been league champions," commented forward Alan Crenshaw. Although the J.V. players exhibited adequate offense and defense, "Overall, the defense and offense was in a learning process. Both needed a bit of work," said Coach Hutch.

Despite this the players had some memorable events. For guard Hijee Jackson, it was the opening game against Inglewood. "I will never forget that game because we were able to overcome Inglewood's strong defense," said Jackson.

For Crenshaw, it was a play he made during a game which will remain as part of his basketball memories forever. "I made a 360° turn and coach told me not to shoot, but I did. It made it too. Another memorable event was the Inglewood game. They were a tough team, and I was able to score 23 points against them," commented Alan Crenshaw.



CONCENTRATING HARD—Junior Sean Stone and teammate concentrate while playing against Beverly Hills. The team had their games on Friday and Wednesday.

COMING ON STRONG

Ladies show talent on court

Tension mounted. The crowd lulled to a hush as they witnessed the comeback of the lady Cougars against rival Culver City team. Down by 17 points at the second half, the varsity basketball team cut it to one point by putting together a rally that would never be forgotten. "I'll always remember that game," said Senior guard Kim Bly, "it was heartbreaking to work that hard and still lose and drop to second place."

With only four players returning from the previous year, the team had lost all its starters, leaving head coach John Wheeler with the task of molding the young newcomers into title-winning caliber. Wheeler set forth to accomplish his goal and finished the season with a 7-3 record. "We all listened to the Coach because what he said usually happened," said third year player, Angela Norsworthy. "We did better than we thought we would because we worked hard and it payed off."

Female talent in the sport of basketball was not only evident within the varsity circle, but also in the J.V. team.

Led with the supervision of head coach Roberta Nield, the J.V. team looked forward to a year full of successful victories. Intense practices and drills made up the schedules of these players when it wasn't game day. Perfecting all their skill and learning to play as a team were keys to a successful season and were what the team concentrated on. Thus, when game day came, all players were anxious to show their talent, as evident when they defeated rival schools after close games. "Pulling together and playing as a team especially when you're losing is a sign of a good team," said sophomore player Alma Rosales, "we practice to play as a team and we don't go out expecting to lose." With this winning attitude set in their minds, the J.V. team set out to do their best at every game, finishing the season with a 9-1 record.

"I think we did as good a job or even better than any team who had lost all its starters would. We learned to play collectively and with Coach Wheeler helping us out, we did our best to come up with a decent team. With only two seniors leaving the team this year, the team will retain most of its players and I know they'll do a good job again next year." -Varsity Kim Bly

"Alright girls!" Coach Jim Stone enthusiastically screamed. "That's the way to go!"

Clad in red and gold, the girls varsity soccer team whizzed by as excitement in the crowd and spectators grew.

Varsity consisted of young but experienced girls. Many had been teammates for years, having played in AYSO (Associated Youth Soccer Organization) together. Junior Anna Rubin stated, "Having played with most of the girls on the team for years helped a lot for the outcome of the season."

Playing a hard defensive game against Mira Costa, varsity still came up short with a loss of 1-2, making it their only loss in league play. "I'll always remember that game because we tried our best and still lost," stated senior Paola Flores.

With a strong offense, led by Jennifer Stone, who had 13 goals for the season, varsity came away with an overall record of 18-4-4.

Under the supervision of Coach Vlaco, the junior varsity girls proved to be number one by winning the Ocean League title. "The girls have improved tremendously compared to last season making games easier to win," confessed Coach Vlaco.

The J.V. team showed great potential in every game. As goalie, Kristi Perkins, boldy expressed, "We worked really hard and deserved our Ocean League Title!"

Kick, block, pass, kick were the basics to the strategic game of soccer. Endurance and skill were the keys to well-trained soccer players. The players put everything they had into their game, making this a good season for the team.

"Making 'goals' and setting new ones for myself are my own rules when I play soccer," commented right wing player, Sergio Medrano, "Good endurance and skill are what enabled us to coordinate as well as we did."

Communication, ball control and passing were basic, but tough skills that the team used to defeat their competitors. Coach Reagan supported and gave helpful advice to each of the individual members. He was indeed part of the team's success.

With strong offense that the team had, they were able to take second place at the Ocean League finals, although the offense was a little bit weak.

Alumnus Gerardo Yepez, from El Camino College, worked with them everyday, and taught them new techniques and drilled them so they gained endurance. Yepez deserved a great amount of credit for the team's triumph in placing second in the CIF Ocean League finals.

"When we won, that gave us our moment of glory, but when we lost, it reminded us that victory wasn't going to happen all the time, so we needed to improve ourselves and work harder," stated Sasha Vanenski. "The enjoyment of victory, and having fun playing the game was what I went out on that field to do."

New player senior David Navas stated, "I wanted to do something special before leaving high school and playing on the soccer team fulfilled my goal."

SPIKING TO SCORE

BOYS WORK TO SET GOALS

Hitting and Spiking. To these 27 guys, these two words were more than a bunch of letters stuck together, they meant Something! It was these two words that made up the sport they played . . . volleyball.

The Varsity and Junior Varsity boys' volleyball teams had their second year of play and tried to make the most of it. Both teams practiced approximately ten hours a week. During these hours, they worked on their bumping, setting, and hitting skills. "Practicing helped me as well as the team by improving our bumping and setting. It also gave us a chance to find more ways to make our plays better," said Junior Steve Johnson.

With the help of players such as Raul Cordero, Alberto Lemeli, Vipul Parmar, and Eddie Korn, the Varsity team won three matches in the Redondo Tournament, defeating South Torrance, Palisades, and El Rancho. "Winning against those teams gave me a sense of accomplishment and all the hours of hard work seemed to pay off," commented Korn. Despite some victories, the Varsity team was faced with a number of losses, including a loss to crosstown rival Leuzinger.

The JV team consisted mainly of freshmen and sophomores. "Playing on the team was lots of fun and it was definitely better than I had expected it to be," said Bao Lu. The height of the team was a disadvantage, but it was overcome by the players' quickness and determination. "When I made a good play, I was really proud of myself because I had helped the team score and win," said Lu with enthusiasm.

UP, UP!!—David Noya and Raul Cordero get ready to spike back the ball. This was Cordero's second year on varsity.

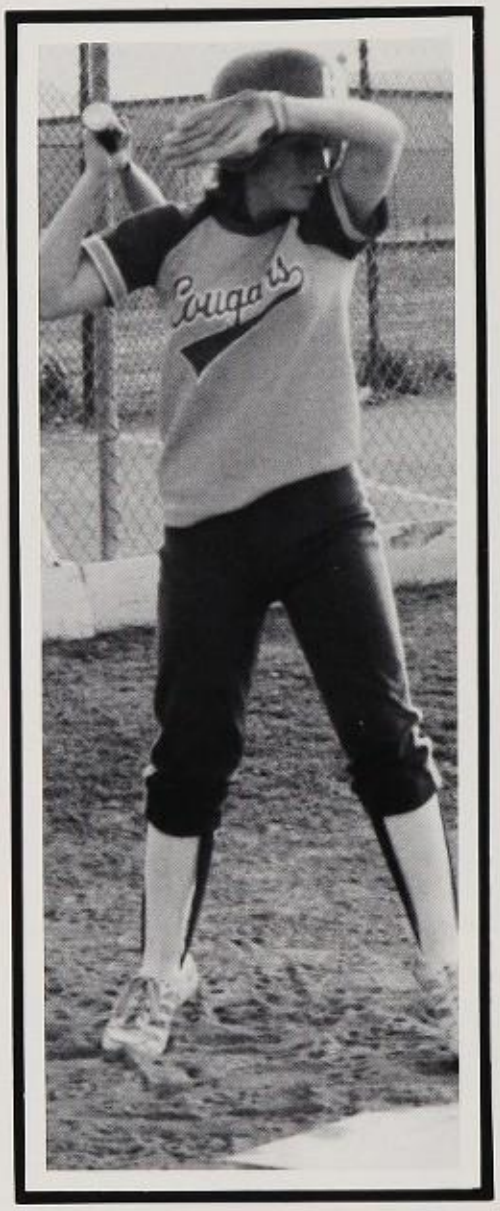
NOT JUST ORDINARY

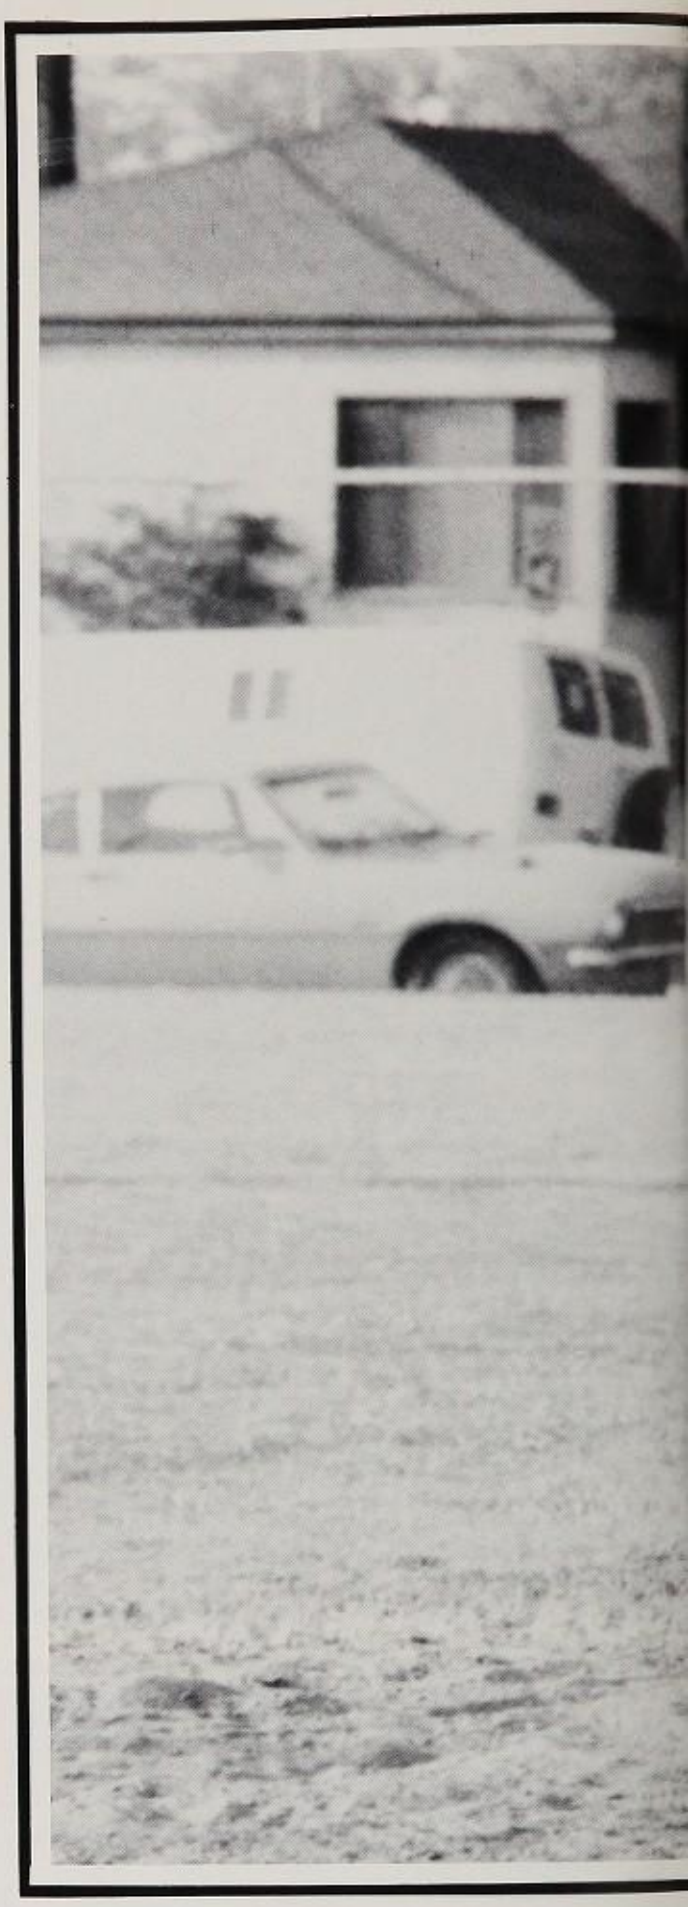
Girls show their super skills

"Strike One . . . " called the umpire. The pitcher threw the ball again and it whizzed by the girl clad in the red and yellow uniform. "Strike Two!" The girl squinted her eyes, concentrating on the ball. The pitcher threw, and she swung with all her strength. The ball floated high into the air, and sailed over the fence.

Both the Varsity and Junior Varsity Softball teams practiced hard all season, building up their abilities in hitting and defense. They worked on a variety of activities, including running laps, stretching out, throwing, pitching, hitting, sprinting and stealing bases. "Practicing helped us get in shape and get us ready for the next game. It prepared us for Varsity, and built up our ability by making us the best we could be," said JV player Geraldine San Mateo.

Unity played an important role for both teams. "The team is cohesive and they all get along well with each other," commented Varsity Coach Noel Smith. The players consisted mainly of Varsity team returnees from the past season and therefore a strong feeling of unity existed between them. This feeling of togetherness supported the players throughout the season. "If you were having a bad day," said sophomore Jaymie Bradford, "everyone was there to support you and to cheer you up!"





DROPLETS OF SWEAT—Lorraine Davidson wipes off some beads as she is up to bat. Davidson was a first-year player.

"We're one year older and that makes a big difference," stated 17-year coach Neil Minami of his varsity team. Longer, more strenuous practices helped his players to mature into a better overall team.

The team's first competitive test took place in early March as the players hosted the El Segundo Tournament. After losing to Long Beach Wilson, a more experienced team, the Varsity team annihilated Lynwood high. Behind the fastball pitching of senior Steve Miller, they had a solid lead of 14-1 after the fifth inning. Miller threw mostly strikes and allowed the Lynwood Lions but one run. With explosive hitting by seniors Tom Jess, Byron Wade, and Victor Prince, their lead was stretched to 19-1 after the 7th, virtually demolishing the Lions.

With one win under their scarlet and gold belts, the varsity team also defeated arch-rival Leuinger the following week. They proved the win against Lynwood was no fluke.

According to Coach Minami, the team's depth was in their pitching staff. "If our starter can't find the strike zone, then I had four other pitchers who can!" exclaimed Minami. Besides Miller, righthander Jess, and sophomore Ted Golden often took the mound.

The many experienced returning players helped the Junior Varsity team, led by Coach Goy Casillas, successfully defeat Leuzinger by a score of 6-4. Their biggest asset was in junior pitcher Francisco Cordova. "Francisco throws strikes and that's what we need in a pitcher," commented Casillas.

KEEPING CONTROL

Games hindered by delays

Talented volleyball players anxiously awaited the first game that would officially start the second annual Intramural Volleyball Tournament. Little did they know that their potential would not be discovered until after a two day postponement. Coach Robbins explained, "the first day of competition wasn't announced and I wanted everyone who was interested to be able to participate."

After the tournament had gotten underway, six teams battled fiercely for three days of intense competition. Each team could have no more than three players from the previous tournament. One general rule of volleyball was altered in order to accomodate the time limit. The games were played to an unusual 11 points instead of the regular 15 points. "Everyone makes mistakes and with double elimination a team could comeback on top," stated participant, Dung Lu.

The tournament was created by Coach Robbins and Coach Boothe to determine the dedication and potential of interested volleyball players. "The players performance in the tournament has no bearing on whether they make the volleyball team or not," confessed Varsity Coach Dan Robbins. However, of the winning team five players qualified for the varsity volleyball team and the other team member, Nori Yufuku, participated in the girl's varsity volleyball team.

The day of the finals teams Four and Three were not able to attend, due to other school activities leaving teams One and Six playing for the number one spot. Team player Eddie Korn from team Six said their strategy of "keeping the ball in control" gave them a sure win. The winning team was comprised of Steve Johnson, Nori Yufuku, Eddie Korn, Harry Ogen, Nopher Soeung, and Tae-Ho.

SCHOLASTICS

Too Good To Forget

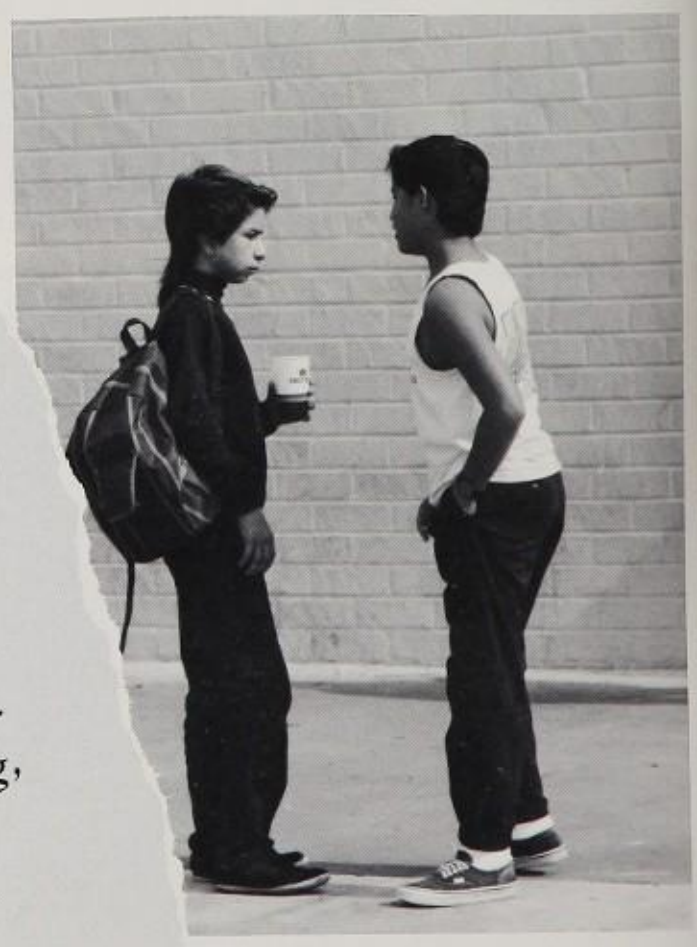
Dear Diary,

Today we tested the bridges we had constructed out of toothpicks in Mr. Moore's physics class. Five minutes and 14 pounts later, my hard labor of three weeks crashed down into a pile of rubbish.

At times, even the best of textbooks can get boring. Events like the bridge-building contest and academic decathalon competition add variety to our education. For those who prefer hands-on experience away from school, programs like HIP and SOROC are available. Some choose to assist in the educational process in ways other than teaching. Secretaries and custodians spend hours doing necessary work outside of classrooms. Several teachers are going to retire this year. I suppose that many years at the same school can get tiring. But I hear they'll be back, helping out.

Plenty of events occur outside of school, however; I read everything I can find about U.S.A./U.S.S.R. relations. Perhaps someone from this school will be president, someday! With such novel approaches to learning, my education is too good to forget!

PICKS N' STICKS—Materials for Mr. Moore's bridge contest assignment never change. Students contributed a maximum of $5 for glue, toothpicks and plywood.



JAM PACKS—Shouldering a weighty load freshman, Hernando Mendoza discusses a algebra test with James Harris. Due to th abscence of lockers, students often carrie many books.

SUPPORTING ACADEMIC TRADITIONS

ACADEMIC EXCELLENCE

Dedicated, ambitious, competitive, and hard-working describe the Academic Decathlon team of 1987-88. The first Academic Decathlon took place in 1968 in Orange County! Since that time it has grown into a nation-wide event.

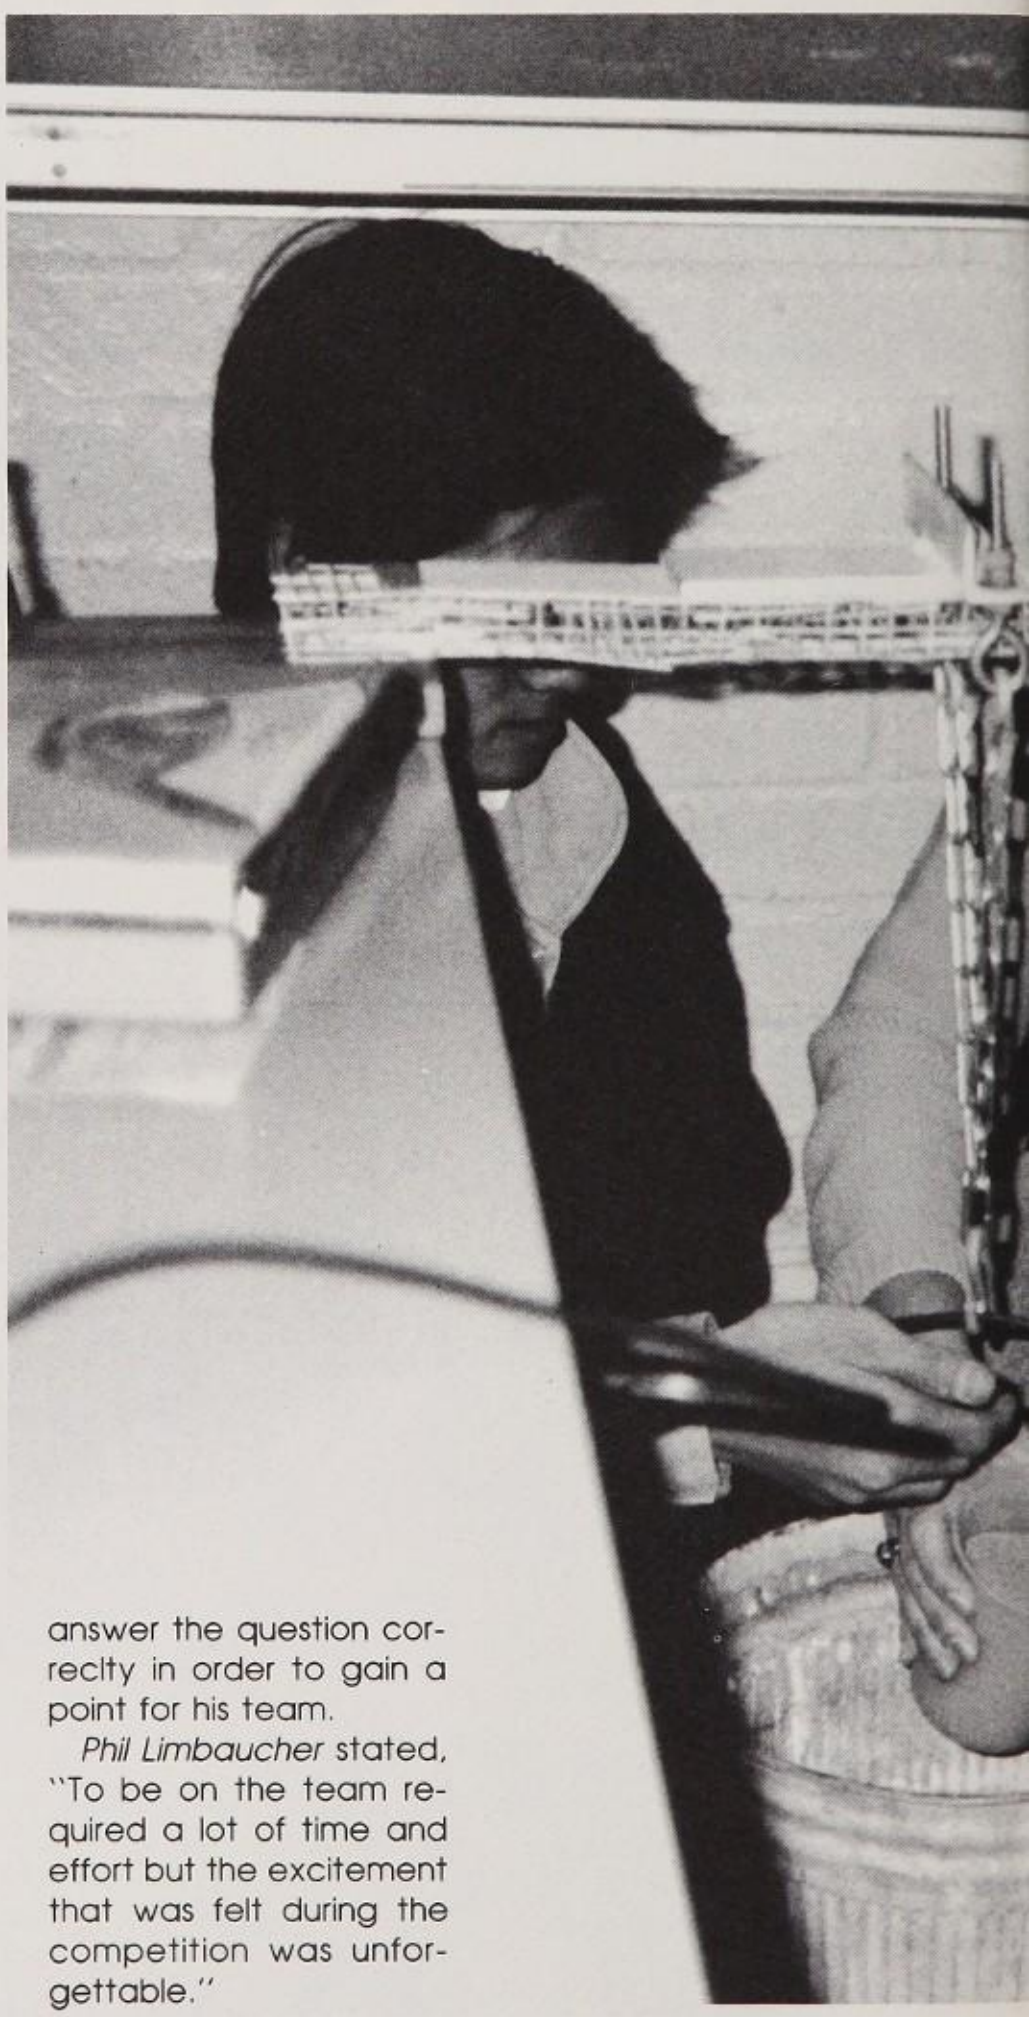
English teacher Ms. Rae began preparing students for the November competition a year in advance. Many of these students attended summer school meetings as well as meetings held at lunch and after school.

Two-year Acadmeic Decathlon member Chi Nguyen stated, "It was a lot of hard work but it was worth the opportunity to represent Hawthorne High School academically." Only six students and three alternates were chosen to compete. These six students included two students in each of three groups (Honors, Scholastic and Varsity) which were divided by grade point average.

The decathlon students need to have an understanding of economics, mathematics, both visual and musical arts, social sciences, language and literature. The students were also individually interviewed and required to deliver two speeches — one planned, one impromptu, and write an essay.

The last event of the day was the Super Quiz. All 67 schools competed at the same time by sending one of their members to the auditorium floor and join the other representatives in answering questions about the history of flight. A question was flashed on a screen and the team member had to answer the question correcity in order to gain a point for his team.

Phil Limbaucher stated, "To be on the team required a lot of time and effort but the excitement that was felt during the competition was unforgettable."



DESTINED AND DETERMINED INDIVIDUALS—Front: Carol Jarvis, Chi Nguyen, Phi Le, Robert Heiremier, Paula Crawford. Back: Mary Reynoso, Ms. Mary-Anna Rae, Adam Machado, Bogard Chang, Richard Lopez, Phip Limbacher, Jason Perry, Tri Tran, and LaTanya Wise.

JUST ONE MORE SCOOP!—Physics student Michelle Willson cautiously pours another cup of sand into the bucket as Dung Lu prepares to catch the bridge, should break. Over 600 toothpicks went into the making of this bridge.

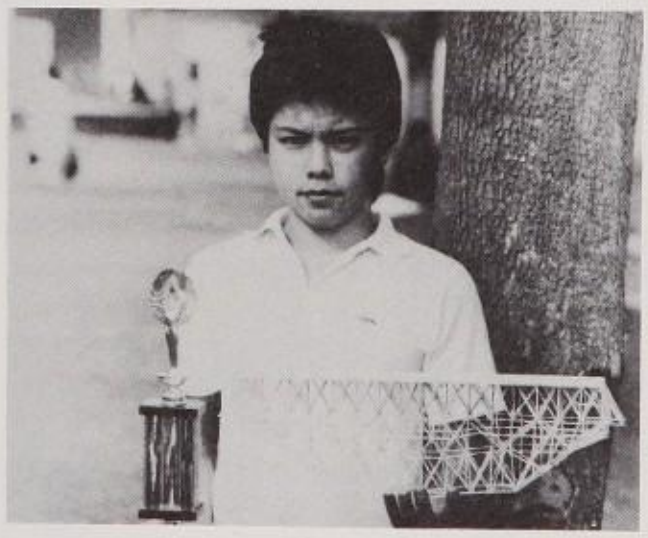
PHYSICAL STRAIN—Physics students Dung Lu, Helen Lee, David Noya and Eleanor Sia discuss bridge building techniques. Lu helped tutor many students in both Calculus and Physics.

BRIDGE BRIGADE

January was the month for building, building bridges that is. All of Mr. Moore's physics students competed in an annual bridge building contest in '88. The winner, Robert Heinemier, was awarded a trophy for his prize-winning bridge, which held 65 pounds!

The contest began in November and the students had roughly two months to design, build, and perfect their bridges. Ann-Marie Sexton commented, "I started my bridge over Christmas vacation."

There were always those procrastinators who waited until the weekend or even the night before to begin construction, as was the case of Jason MacDonald, awarded the booby prize for his design of the least amount of toothpicks used.



The bridges consisted of one piece of balsa wood 18 inches long, one box of toothpicks and 2 small tubes of glue. They were required to hold a minimum of 3 1/2 pounds. The bridges were tested by being placed between two lab tables 18 1/2 inches apart and pouring sand into a bucket suspended by the bridge.

As the bridges were tested, students gathered around the "victim" who carefully and slowly poured sand into his bucket. Cries of pain and excitement filled the room when the bridge sounded the all too familiar cracking of broken toothpicks before the final snap.

Many students spent long hours working on this tedious job and to hear the sound of cracking toothpicks . . . well, ouch!"

ADVANCING TO EXCELLENCE

WORKING FOR THE FUTURE

Data processing, fabrication, technical and clinical work were just some of the opportunities HIP (High School Involvement Program) members had. The HIP Program was available for seniors who needed ten credits and were a U.S. citizen. It provided the students with on-the-job training in over 50 different career paths. HIP members worked with Northrop employees from 1:30 to 3:30, Monday through Friday, for 16 weeks from February through May.

Students could apply for one of nearly 100 jobs in categories such as the fine arts department, computuer work and administration training. HIP showed them how a company was organized, how a product was manufactured, and how new technologies were developed for the future. Although students worked two hours a day with no guarantee of being hired, most participated because it helped make their career successful. "It helped me decide my career, and it was good practice," said senior Karina Velasco.

TEENS MAKE THE DIFFERENCE

Teen Advicate Program was designed to teach high school students to be counselors. These students were taught how to react in emergency situations.

Eleven Knights and Diaconians were volunteer counselors in this program. Students were brought to this program because of the idea that it is easier to talk to other teens than their peers.

Student Counselors could relate to the problems these people were having and could try to come up with a logical answer. The counselors helped one student throughout the year. They became friends and the counselors encouraged these students to be successful potentially.

"The communication between the students and counselors took some time, but hard work pays off," stated Fran Cason, TAP director.

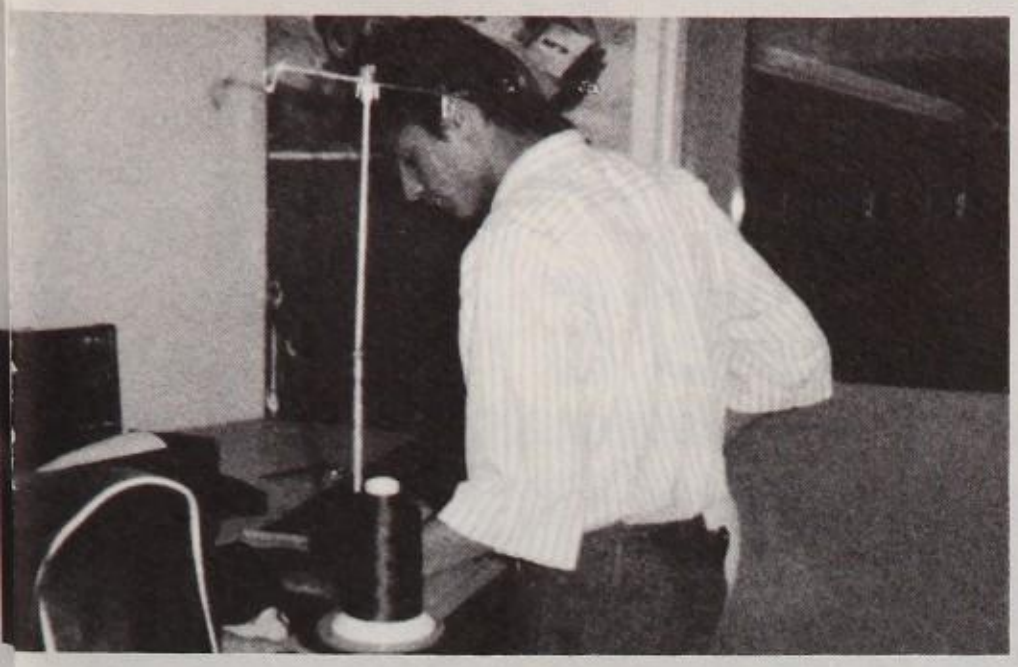
"When my person called me up and said that he couldn't have managed to stay in school without my help, that paid off for all the work," stated David Noya.

Being involved in TAP was totally volunteer and hard work. It was the students involved that needed help, and having a fellow teenager present to understand their problem a lot better than a lecturing adult. This program gave the students the chance to be individually helped, and counselled unlike other "all talk programs". To many students involved, TAP really made a difference.

BUSY BEE—SCROC student, Rudy Escobedo prepares to start on his upholstery work. Through the program he has become adept in Auto Upholstery as well as Auto Painting.

THIS GOES HERE, AND . . . — Buddy Foster works on a car in his Auto Transmission Repair class. After course completion, one will be able to inspect, maintain and repair manual and automatic transmissions.

WIND THAT BOBBIN—Gary Hinojos, a proficient cabinet maker, advanced his knowledge through SCROC. Hinojos has gone far in the Custom Auto Interior business.



WORKING IT ALL OUT

Assessment Planning Programming and Interrention Program was a partnership between students, parents, guardians, and school in which all concerned cooperated to maximize the potential of students.

This four year program that involved incoming freshmen was designed to help students become higher achievers. Counselors monitored grades and caught problems in their early stages.

I guess I am a father confessor, a parent to most of the students. They need somebody to talk to and lead them to success and that's what I'm here for," stated Mr. Chauncey, director of the APPI program.

This program also attempted to teach discipline and self awareness. The APPI program hoped to raise the level of graduating students by the year 1991.

"When Mr. Chauncey started nagging me, the only thing I could do to stop him was to start raising my grades," stated Stephanie Phillips. This program was apparently beneficial to many freshmen. Freshmen dropouts were at a lower percentage rate and school enrollment was higher than was expected.

This program has helped me a lot. I think it has made me aware of college as a possible place for me after high school," stated Beverly Constante.

GOING IN THE RIGHT DIRECTION

When the clock struck four, students began to crowd around the school campus. As the bus approached, students hurried to get on before it hit the road to find . . . SCROC (Southern California Regional Occupational Center).

Students attended classes ranging from Auto/Body Upholstery to Comptuer Operations. Although the class lasted three and a half hours, a fifteen minute break was offered, during which participants ate and talked. "I really don't look forward to my break," said senior Linsey Chow, "The class is fun and I learn more about the basics of computers."

SCROC enabled students to expand their vocational training opportunities in a variety of areas. The program was available for juniors and seniors of six school districts in the South Bay area of Los Angeles County.

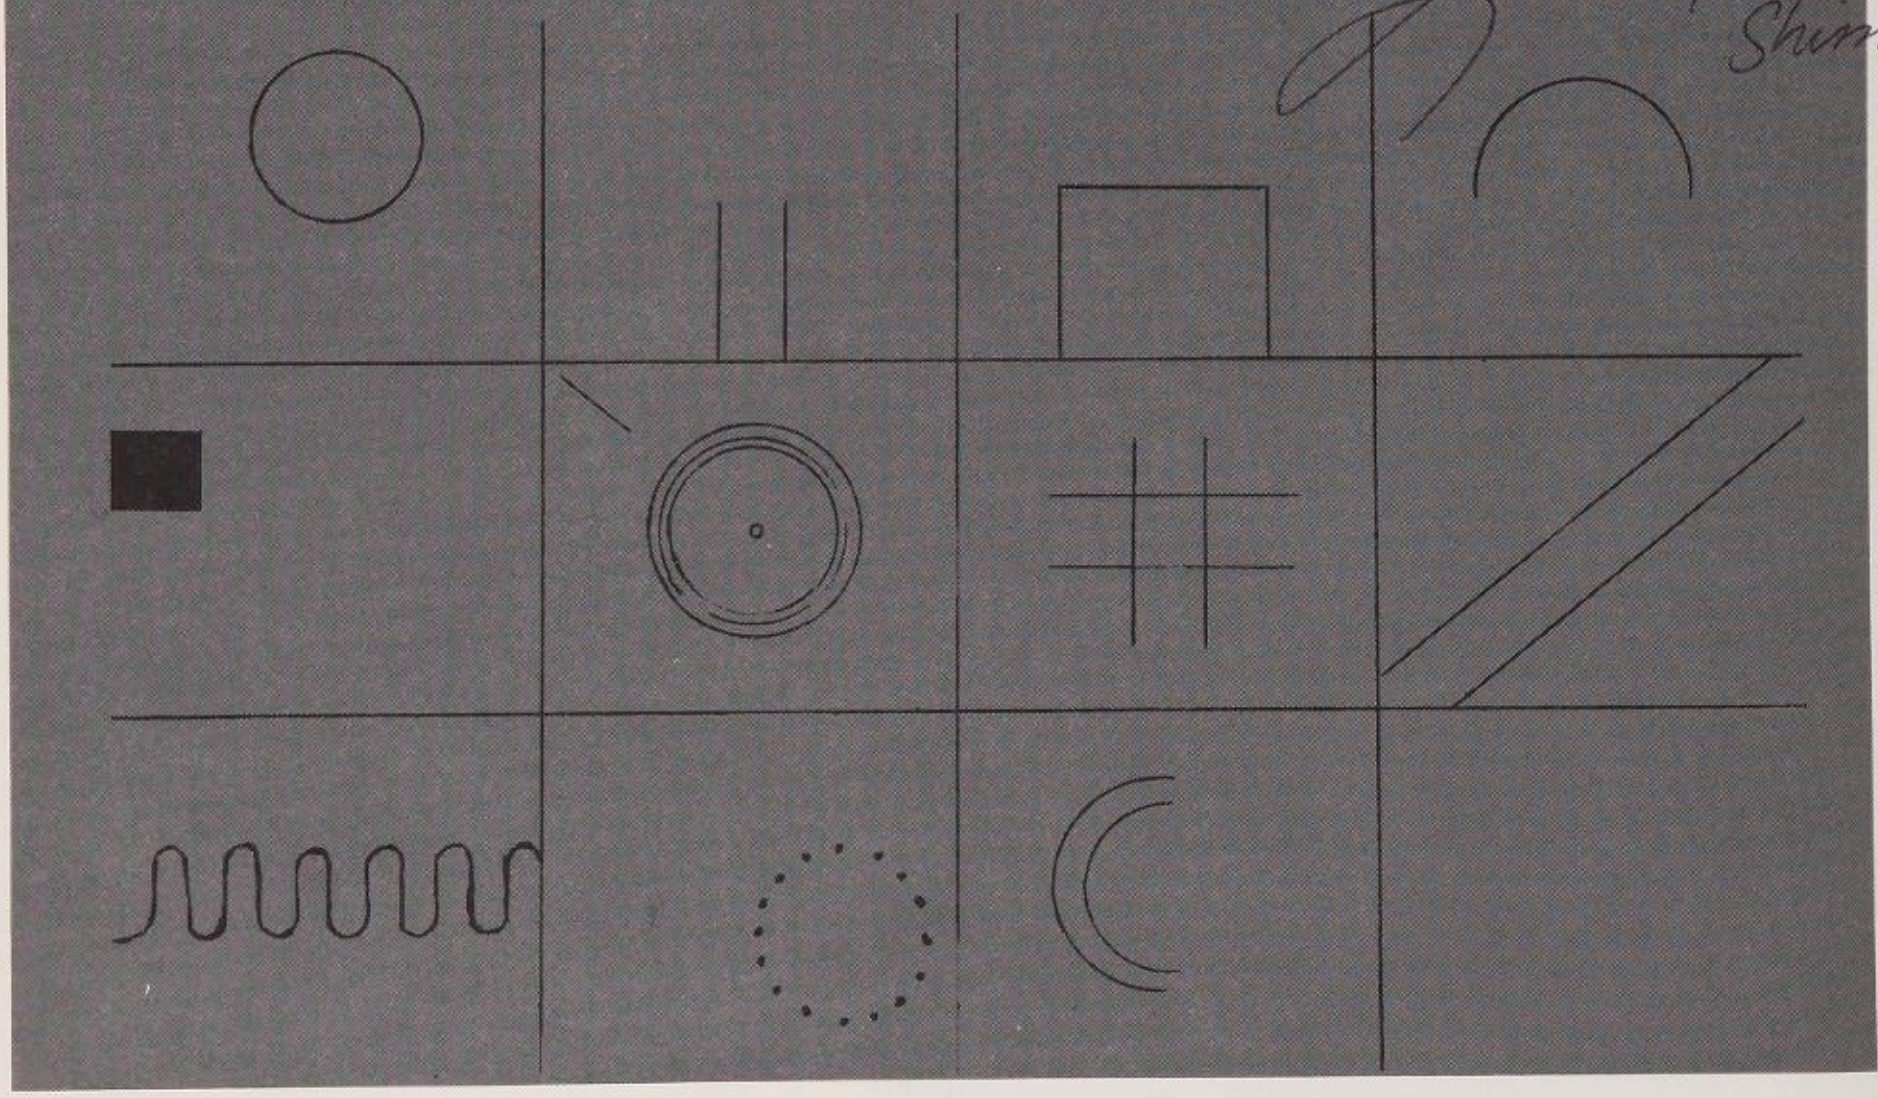
DO IT YOURSELF PSYCHOLOGY

Draw something in all of the boxes and then read the inverted answers that tell you about yourself depending upon what you drew.



1. SELF-IMAGE is good if anything is positively drawn in or about the circle (happy faces, etc). 2. Attitude toward the opposite sex is good if the two lines are connected at the top. 3. HOME LIFE is very family-oriented if you drew nice things in and out of the box (flowers, jack-in-the box, hearts). 4. You ADAPT well SOCIALLY if you connected the two points of the half circle in any way. 5. You lead a very STRUCTURED life if you finished off this box with more squares or lines. 6. ASPIRATIONS are respresented by this target and arrow box. If you connected the line to the center, you know what your goals are and you achieve them. 7. A tic-tac-toe connected means you are very COMPETITIVE. 8. FRIENDSHIPS are important to you if you drew things inside the two lines. 9. CONFIDENCE is high if you drew things above the squiggly line, low if you drew them below. 10. Highly CREATIVE and IMAGINATIVE people wouldn't have connced the dots. 11. Connecting the four loose ends is a definite sign of immaturity. 12. MAIN INTEREST BOX. If you drew books, you love school. If you drew confetti, you love parties. You drew things in here that are your main interest.

Draw something in all of the boxes and then read the inverted answers that tell you about yourself depending upon what you drew.

HOW LONG WILL YOU LIVE?

Here is a smiple test to help you estimate your life span. Start with 72 and add or subtract years of life as designated by your answers.

1. Females add 4, males subtract 3 (women live longer than men.)
2. Blacks subtract 3, Whites add 3 (Blacks have a shorter life span than Whites).
3. If any grandparent lived to be 85 add 2; if all four lived to 80, add 6 (Genetics affect longevity).
4. If either parent died of a stroke or heartattack before age 50, subtract 4.
5. If a member of your immediate family who is under 50 had cancer or a heart condition, or diabetes since childhood, subtract 3.
6. Live in a city with two million+ population? -3. Live in a town with 10,000- population, +2.
7. Desk job -3, job requires regular, heavy, physical labor, +3 (Hard work adds to longevity).
8. Live with a spouse or friend +5, live alone —1.
9. If you excercise at least 5 times a week for 30 minutes +4, 2 or 3 times a week, +2.
10. If you sleep more than 10 hours a night -4 (too much sleep is characteristic of depression and illnesses).
11. Gotten a speeding ticket in the last year -1 (Accidents are the 4th largest killer)
12. If you earn under $5,000 or over $50,000 -2 (Wealth as well as poverty breed tension and stress).
13. Are you generally a happy person? +1. Unhappy? -1
14. Are you intense, aggressive, easily angered -3. Are you relaxed or easy going? +3
15. If you did not finish high school, -2, If you finished college, +1. If you have a graduate or professional degree, +2.
16. Are you 65 or over, and still working? +3
17. Do you have regular examination? +3
18. If you smoke more than two packs of cigarettes a day, -8. One or two packs, -6. One half to one pack, -3.
19. Do you eat pork more than twice a week? -3
20. Overweight by 50 pounds or more? -8. 30 to 40 pounds? -4. 10 tO 30? -2
21. Do you have a drink everyday? -1
22. Age adjustment: Are you between 30 and 40? +2. Between 40 and 50? +3. Between 50 and 70? +4 Over 70, +5.

Now, add up your score to determine your possible life span. If your projected age is 60, you will outlive 26 percent of the population; if 70, 48 percent; 80, 75, percent; 90, 96 percent and if your projected age is 100, you will outlive 99.9 percent of the nation's total population.

Are you too serious or too easy going?

Do you take life too seriously or not seriously enough? People who take life too seriously waste a lot of time worrying about disasters that may never happen to them. And those who are too happy-go-lucky are never prepared to deal with life's difficulties. They are poor planners who fail to see problems building up and are unable to cope with them when they occur.

This fun test may help you know yourself just a little better. Take it and find out the real you.

1. You know you are going to be late for an important date. Do you

WHAT YOUR SCORE MEANS

30 or under: You are a very reliable person, trustworthy and conscientious, but you take life far too seriously. Try not to worry so much especially about things that may never happen.

31-37: You are one of the in-betweens. You are not a worrier, but you're not really light hearted either, though you would very much like to be. You could be lighthearted if you relax some and take things a little more in stride.

TOPPING IT OFF

PASTIME PREFERENCES

Sports, whether played or watched, provided athletes and spectators with hours of entertainment. Pizza Hut installed t.v.'s so that hungry football fans could satisfy both needs at once.

Those students short of funds could find excitement in a good book. V.C. Andrews' book, "Flowers in the Attic" was a welcome relief from Shakespeare, to some readers. Others prefered books based on movies.

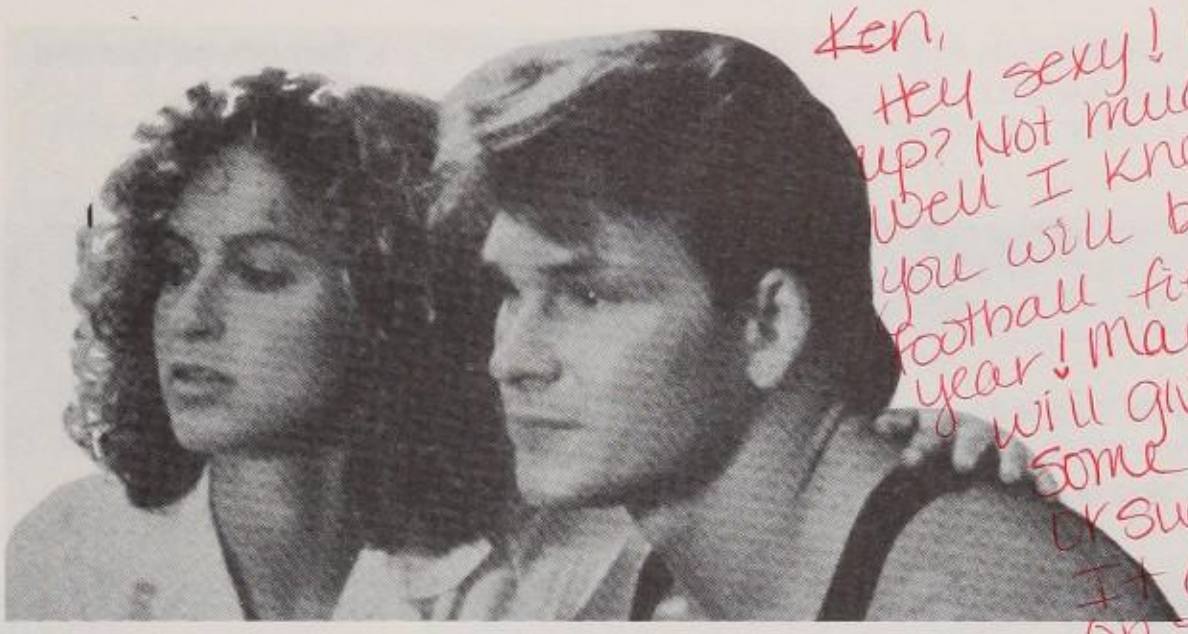
MUSIC AND MOVIES FOR THE MASSES

After a week of tests and lectures, many tossed aside textbooks and went out to seek entertainment.

Music was a major influence in movies such as "Dirty Dancing", which featured erotic dance moves to music of the 60's.

Concerts were popular, when money was available for costly tickets. Depeche Mode catered to synthesizer fans with their latest album, "Music for the Masses", and toes tapped whenever George Michael's song, "Faith", blasted from the radio.

Eddie Murphy used humor to attract fans to his movie "Raw", whole Molly Ringwald posed as a pregnant teen in "For Keeps".



Ken,
Hey sexy! What's up? Not much here! Well I know that you will be on the football field next year! Maybe I will give you some gatorad or super socce It depends on how nic you are to me! Can yo even beli that we are goin to grad next year! Well yo know who will the will

News Reviews

Races. Radio, TV, and newspapers abounded with details on races in the political, athletic, medical, and scientific worlds.

Visitors raced to the U.S.A. Prince Andrew and wife Sarah arrived in February to promote the U.K.-LA. Fetival of Arts. During their stay, American competitors challanged England and other countries in the 1988 Winter Olympics held in Calgary, Canada. The U.S.A. took home 6 medals.

Figure skaters Debi Thomas and Brian Boitano electrified audiences back home and speedskater Bonnie Blair earned a gold medal and a place in everyone's memory of the Olympic Games.

President Ronald Reagan and wife Nancy hosted Russian leader Mikhail Gorbachev and wife Raisa, early in the year. Gorbachev, promising Soviet economic reform, including freedoms in the publication of films, books and theater, agreed with Reagan on the reduction of nuclear arms, thus slowing the weapons race between the two superpower countries.

Reagan in turn, traveled to Russia for another summit meeting. However, many began to question the President's honesty, due to a scandal involving his staff's covert support of the Contra rebellion against the Marxist Sandinistas in Nicaragua.

Colonel Oliver North, one of the accused supporters, pulled focus during the summer hearings, inspiring everything from shredded "Ollie-burgers" to shirts preclaiming "Ollie for President!"

More serious presidential candidates raced to gain public support. By "Super Tuesday" on March 8, the leaders were evident. Michael Dukakis and Jesse Jackson led the Democrats, while George Bush and Robert Dole vied for the Republican eye.

On the scientific side, researchers devoted countless hours in battles against Aquired Immune Deficiency Syndrome (AIDS). The virus, most common in homosexual and bisexual men and intravaneous drug users, became a household word . . . and fear.

Less subtle enemies lurked about the streets. Gang violence and highway shootings terrorized citizens, as did several earthquakes which shook Southern California and caused residents to give serious consideration to the "BIG ONE", predicted for the near future.

Realizing that the future could not be taken for granted, consumers began to cut down on the amount of aeresols they used, hoping to halt the deterioration of the ozone layer. Birth control became widely publicized; condoms appeared in greeting cards and TV commercials. Entertainers and sports figures strove to educate the general public in an effort to insure a better world. Sports commentator Howard Cosell stated that "we must, as a nation, work toward making our schools and colleges the kinds of places where learning is paramount." Most HHS students agreed.

FANCY FIGURING—Fifteen year old Ekaterina Gordeeva and Sergei Grinkov perform an exhibition in Okotos, Canda. After winning the gold medal in the Winter Olympics, the pair gave two one-hour exhibitions in Canada.

Ken, Hello!! I'm super glad we met this year! You're a real cool guy & glad to know I'll be seeing you next year! Don't let that little pest of Dina bother you! J/K But really have a GREAT summer! Love, Gloria GANG BUST—Policemen order gang members to undergo a drug search. Gangs existed throughout Los Angeles and its suberbs, distinctive through their grafitti and logos.

SHREDDED!—Retired Col. Oliver North discusses his testimony with his attorney. North vowed to "fight allegations of wrong doing for as long as necessary".

GLASNOST!—Russian leader Mikhail Gorbachev visits Belgrade, Yugoslavia. Gorbachev made vast changes in the Soviet society.

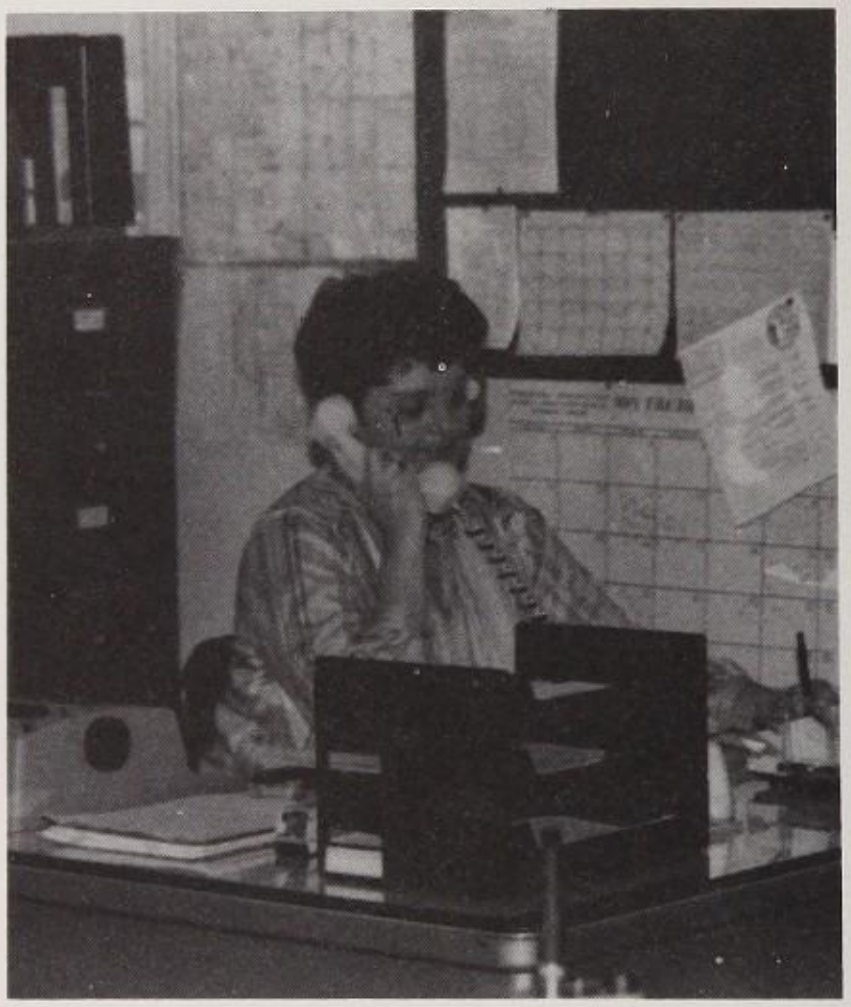
MAKING IT ALL WORK OUT

MAINTAINING ORDER

Security guards have protected the campus in more ways than one, by breaking up the quarrels the students occasionally got into and guiding students to their correct class. Guards generally kept order within the campus. "I like working with kids," said lead guard, Sheryl Powers. "They are usually very cooperative."

The guards were friends to many students, as well as protectors. "Just about all of the students have respect for the security, others don't really care," said security guard Gus Ribera.



ALWAYS A HELPING HAND!

Rrring! As the three o'clock bell rang, many students went home. But many staff members such as the hard-working secretaries in the attendance office had to stay after to finish up extra details. They worked to get that last attendance card filled out, typed the one page left for the weekly bulletin, or sent notices to students who had a series of absences. "I like my job. It keeps me constantly busy," said typist clerk Karen Griffeth.

"Maintaining all the students' absences and attendance records were one of the toughest jobs I was faced with," said secretary (typist clerk) Helen Margolese.

Secretaries weren't the only ones who were busy finishing up work around the office. The student store clerk, Faith Jnes, had to handle many of the school's financial records, keeping an update on the clubs' accounts, making receipts, and selling an assortment of school motors such as notebooks, handbags, buttons and stickers.

NEW PRINCIPAL, NEW IDEAS

Having no principal for nearly six months, students began to wonder who was to occupy the vacant seat in the office. Some 13 candidates competed for the job.

The candidates went through two one-hour interviews with different committees, and an 18-member interviewing committee. After the six month process, the Board of Trustees met on February 16, 1988 to announce the new principal of Hawthorne High School . . . Mr. Kenneth Crowe.

Crowe, who began his career in teaching in 1975 in Olive Vista High School in San Fernando Valley, was a student in the Doctor of Education Program at the University of La Verne. He assisted teachers with instructional techniques and was assigned the positions of Director of Activities and Administrative Assistant under George Mc Kenna in 1979, at George Washington High School. "My goal at HHS is to educate more of our kids at higher levels of instructional competency than we have in the past," said Crowe.

KEEPING IT CLEAN!

Keeping our campus clean, and working on the new bathroom site were some of the jobs the custodians did during the year.

As soon as lunch was over, people with green buckets and miniature rakes began to wipe the campus clean of trash. When a student fell out of his desk during a teacher's lecture, custodians came to the rescue. Although fences around the new bathroom site prolonged students' walks to class, it would eventually be a great benefit.

Custodians got up in the early morning and went home late at night, trying never to leave a project unfinished. "It's a jeopardizing job in a way," said custodian Norris Glosson. "There's usually always a friendly atmosphere here."

SMILING PRETTY!—Secretary Doris Golf talks on the phone. Golf was a secretary to the three principals.

WAIT!!!—Secretary Genie Carter tries to hand someone a VCR form. VCRs were in great demand by the faculty.

STANDING PROUD!—Principal Ken Crowe stands proud after lunch period. Crowe attended UCLA Law School.

MAKE A RIGHT HERE—Custodian Roger Whitehorse empties trash cans. Custodians continuously kept our campus clean everyday of the year.

CENTINELA VALLEY BOARD OF TRUSTEES—(Clockwise from front) Mrs. Ann Birdsall (president), Mrs. Aleta Collins, Mr. Michael Escalante, Mr. Herbert Bartlett, Mrs. Ruth Morales.

DISTRICT ADMINISTRATORS—Mr. Robert Church and Mr. Bernard McQuire (Asst. Superintendants), Dr. McKinley Nash (Superintendant).

PUZZLING PIT—The "Hawthorne Tarpit" attracted many students from all over campus. The pit builders remained a mystery all throughout the year.

REST IN PEACE—Months later, the graveyard was torn down and the construction continued.

THROUGH THE MIDNIGHT AIR

Abandoned arms and legs protuded from shadowed slopes. Silhouettes of tombstones and crosses stood out eerily behind meshed wire. What resembled a corpse-littered graveyard was in actuality the site of the construction of new restrooms.

From September on, fenched-in piles of dirt graced the campus near buildings 20 and 7. The areas were the source of some amusement to pranksters who, calling themselves "the Mashers," erected a small cemetery in the dirt. "This is proof that some students possess creativity, and have nothing better to do on weekends!" commented drama student Ricky Wasson.

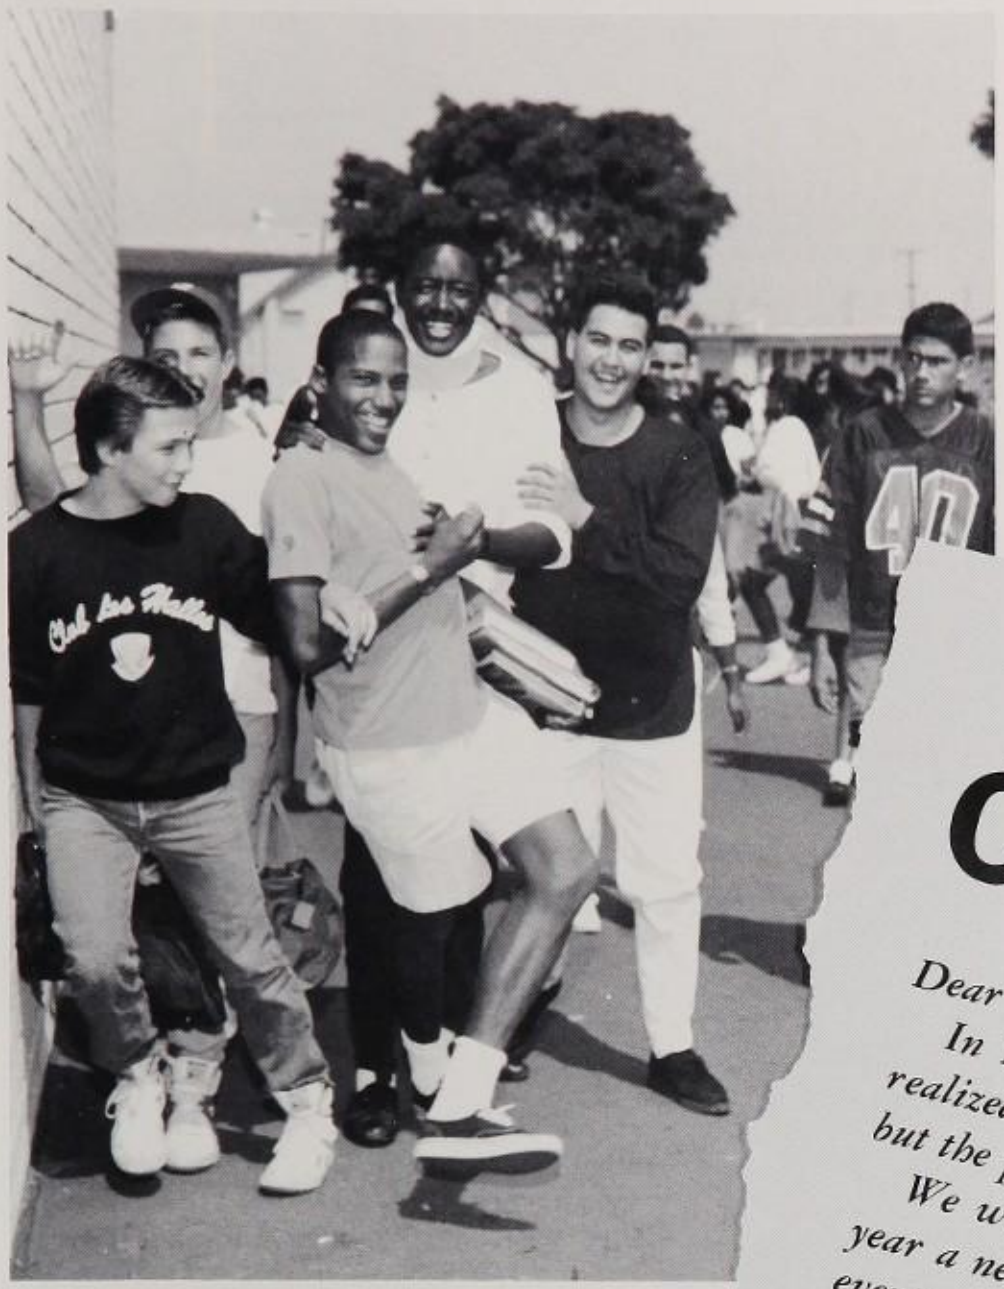
Muslce-bound construction workers eventually replaced the grave scenario. Although fences altered the customary routes to various classrooms, students realized that the result would be well worth the wait.

WHASSUP—"Too fresh" students do a "Robocop" pose for the camra. The "Robocop" dance step was one of the newest and most popular moves.

MY BUDDIES!—Seniors Linda Shin, Richard San Mateo, and Helen Lee take time out for a picture during the Wienie Womp. All three were active Student Council members.

PARTY AT THE "CASA"?—New Principal Ken Crowe and Senior Herendo Mendoza look at a promoting flyer. Crowe was the past Dean of Students.

SHOULD WE DITCH?—Studious prodigies are faced with the dilemma of ditching class. Students savored their six minute breaks between intense classes.



WE BAD!!—Home-crowd football fanatics root their team on with loud cheers synchronized with pom poms. The successful football season attracted many spectators to Halcap field.

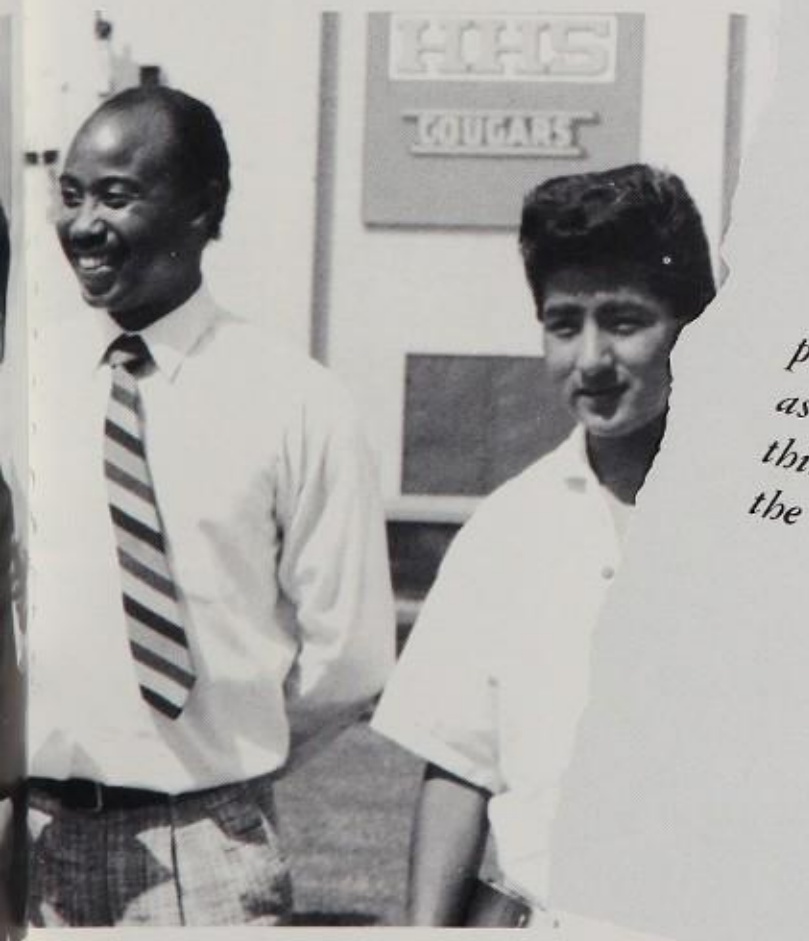
THE COMMUNITY

Dear Diary,

In Dr. Gold's psychology class today, I suddenly realized something. Events can occur again and again, but the people involved make these happenings special. We will forever have a Student Council, but each year a new group of leaders add the touch to annual events, be it an Ice Cream Social that is out of this world, or a free freshman feed.

Yearbooks and Cougar newspapers will continue to be published, the stage in Nyman Hall will be forever graced with performances, and Hal Cap field and the East and West Gyms will resound with competition. It is each writer and performer, each athlete and mathematician who add a unique quality to these events.

We, as students and teachers, are given enormous power. We can change events, that will effect the school as a whole with new ideas and new ways of doing things, that personalize the year, and leave our mark on the school forever.



Years of dedication

Among the HHS teachers retiring who contributed many years of dedication were John Brown, Stan Bosler, Daniel Fix, and Raymond Liles.

"I thought the highest point of my career was teaching Drama," said English teacher Danny Fix. Although many aspects of teaching were different, they all shared something in common . . . students. "They respect the things they learn from you . . ." "seeing my students become successful," and"most of all, setting a good friendship between you and your students." These were some of the teachers' thoughts!

Some had definite plans after retiring. Bosler has decided to pursue the field of genealogy, while Liles opted to become a bus driver. Fix decided to be a "pool boy" at the Waikiki Hotel in Hawaii, and Brown chose to move to Arizona.

"I have always had a goal to give as much knowledge to students as I can," said Government Teacher John Brown. 'Education is the most important function in our society."

"The next order of business is . . . "—English Instructor Dan Fix goes over the day's agenda. Fix was a disabled veteran, and long time drama coach.

(middle pictures)
Who's that?—Social Studies Dept. Head/Teacher John Brown finishes up some paperwork. Brown was a long-time sponsor of the AFS Club.

Never . . . !—Mathematician Raymond Liles lectures to his class. Liles also taught trigonometry and Algebra two.

Fascinating

Faculty Facts,

Want to know what makes a good teacher's pet? According to Mr. Minami it's "a student that shows responsibility, personality," and has "intelligence." Mr. Roberts, however, doesn't like the teacher's pet idea "because it gives an unfair advantage over the other students." Fifteen faculty members were polled on several different questions and some very interesting comments and opinions came out into the open.

Back when they were in high school, Ms. Stiritz, Mr. Preus, and Mr. Bosler could all be caught ditching classes; it's something they don't like their students to do now. One day you might have seen Mrs. Hoy in detention for passing notes, or Mr. Robbins for talking and disrupting the class.

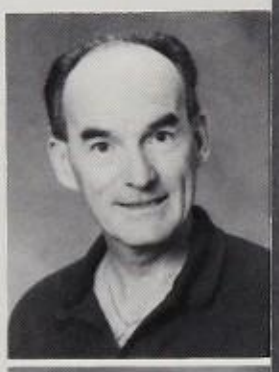
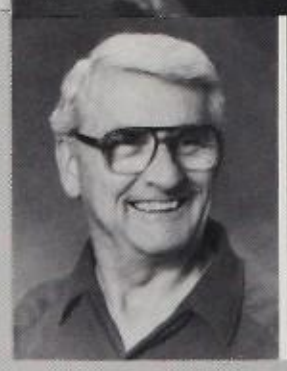
Current teachers might not have had the teaching profession in mind when they were in high school. Ms. Campbell had no aspiration to be a teacher until 3 semesters before she graduated from college. "I have no idea what led me to the Education Department at LMU—perhaps divine inspiration? Maybe all the other department offices were closed."

There were teachers such as Ms. Rae who discovered they wanted to teach when they were in high school. "I took an elective lit. class my senior year where one of the projects involved teaching a work to the rest of the class. I found myself getting excited about the discussion I was leading, and the teacher passed me a note that said, 'You will make an excellent teacher.' I'm still working on excellence and I love my job!"

Some people judge teachers too quickly. The idea of being a teacher should not be thrown out the window, so easily. Don't think that just because you "never thought about it," like Mr. Plum, doesn't mean you won't get the "divine inspiration" later in life.

Over 50% of the El Molino Poll responses were from English teachers.





PROMOTIONS—Popular Principal's Secretary Elda Pilj gets regular messages from the U.S. Navy-and not from Captain Richard Allen! Her son is a submarine officer out in the far Pacific. She was promoted at mid-year to the district office. The recently promoted Captain was just named Commanding Officer of USS Kitty Hawk, USNR unit.

Educators Enjoy

Extra Curricular Activities

Teachers are people too. Many students never realize that their teachers also enjoyed a personal life in addition to their 7:05-2:45 teaching jobs. Because students rarely had the opportunity of seeing their teachers outside of a classroom setting, it was hard to imagine their Math or Science teacher cycling down the streets of Manhattan. But our active teaching staff at Hawthorne High had some interesting hobbies to share.

English teacher Ms. Rae enjoyed flying, gardening, volleyball and her most recent acclaimed sport of basketball. She also took pride in her rare stamp collection from the United Nations and the United States. Mr. Ladin was a popular pianist who liked to bike ride and exercise. He was also a member of the Teachers Film Association, which viewed movies on a regular basis. Ms. Campbell spent much of her free time dancing and acting. This past summer she played the lead role in the Torrance production of My Fair Lady. And few people could top Biology teacher Mr. Andrade's bowling average of 190!

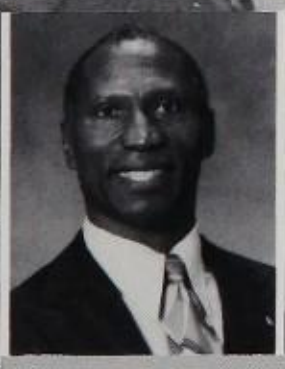
Like students, teachers had a wide variety of interests. To discover them, one only needed to ride down Manhattan . . . or ask.



JUST KICK'N IT-Mr. Wyler spends a beautiful day relaxing on his boat. Aside from sailing, Wyler enjoyed cycling, jogging, and surfing.

Behind

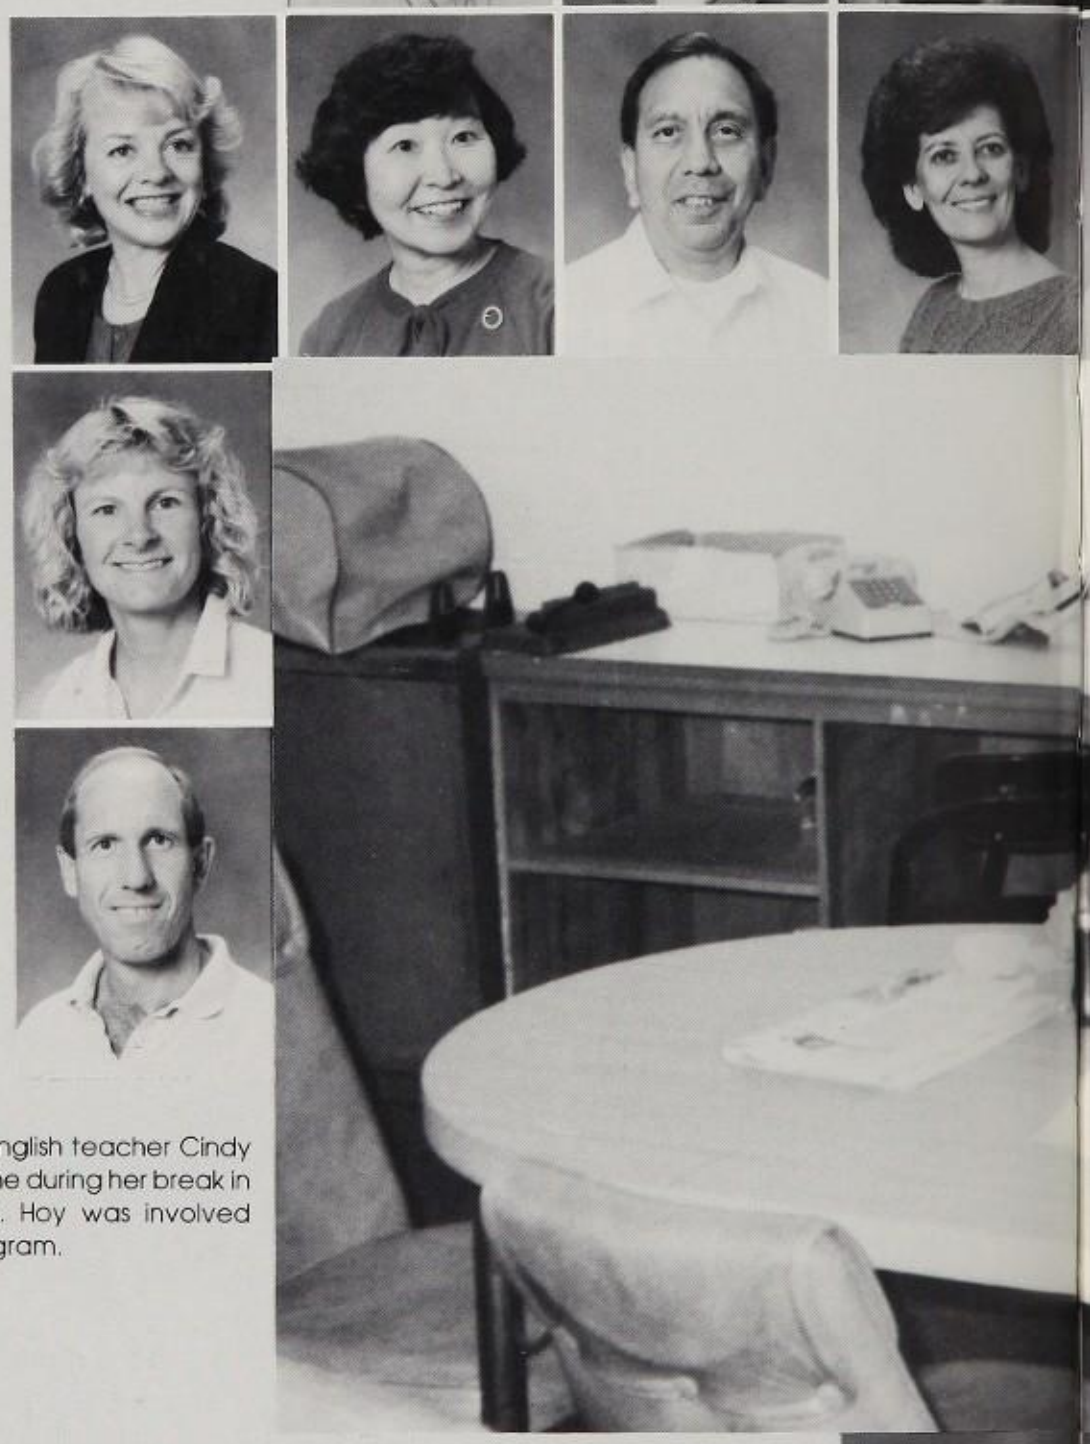
The Scenes

"Where do you wanna go to eat breakfast?" many students asked before an upcoming faculty schedule. While students had an hour on various Thursday mornings, the faculty and staff were required to attend the meeting, during which teachers discussed a wide range of topics from attendance policies, such as what to do when students have a long period of absences, to new District Policies which included the Truancy Abatement Program.

"I think it's good that we could discuss current issues and things that are going on throughout the school district!" exclaimed English teacher Cindy Hoy.

Teachers could take refuge in the teacher's lounge, however. During their breaks, teachers ate foods ranging from Lean Cuisine to cookies and a hot cup of coffee, and talked about such things as situations at home and what to teach in the next class. Although the teachers' lounge wasn't the most luxurious place in the world, it did satisfy the teacher's needs.

"I'd rather eat in a garage," said Miss Campbell. "But the warm people make it comfortable, although there is only one microwave for 120 teachers, the refrigerator goes on the fritz, no heater, and a Pepsi machine when nearly everyone prefers Diet Pepsi. Despite that, it's a place that I can put my food down, and rest." Teachers usually sat with friends in the faculty lounge, according to their common interests.



JUST FINISHING UP!—English teacher Cindy Hoy gets her work done during her break in the teachers lounge. Hoy was involved with the G.A.T.E. Program.

Freshmen come alive! That's exactly what happened at the scene of the Freshmen Barbecue held on January 22. The Barbecue was exclusive to the class of '91. Fifty ninth-graders gathered in the cafeteria for the free food and the free admission to the 7:30 Varsity Basketball game against Mira Costa.

When asked why they came, Zanetta Taddesse said, "I want to get involved and show the school that freshmen have spirit!" Robin Miller said, "It's sociable!" Lori Sciortino and Andrea Morton said, "We came here for the extra credit!"

All of the teachers were offering extra credit points for those who were going to the Freshmen Barbecue. It was reported that Ms. Link was offering up to 100 extra points.

The idea was brought up by Mr. Karella when Student Council decided to do something special for the freshmen class.

The members of Student Council prepared hot dogs, nacho chips, and chili. They also made banners to advertise the event. During the feed they made sure everyone was having a good time, and went around getting to know freshmen. Student Activies Director Dan Karella said, "The Freshmen Barbecue was our way of welcoming the ninth graders to Hawthorne High School.

. . . 'CAUSE I'M HUNGRY!—Andrea Morton eats her barbecued hot dog. Morton participated in many of the school's activities.

Perplexing Problems

WHAT WAS YOUR MOST MEMORABLE EMBARRASING MOMENT?

TIM LOVELACE— I wet my pants in 7th grade, while I was saying a speech in the auditorium.

KENDON CARLSON— When I went on stage to receive an award, I tripped and landed on my face.

CHRIS NERBITT— Flying through the mud in front of half the school.

SUZANNE READ— I tripped over a rope and fell on my date in the lunch area at Magic Mountain.

TYMME PRICE— Being drenched with water by a passing car.

BRANDY FERATE— Being asked this question and not knowing what to write.

GREG ROBERTS— Having a conversation with a complete stranger on the phone, thinking he was my best friend.

KENLA JOHNSON— I made a touchdown in the 8th grade. Did I mention it was for the wrong team?

YOLONDA ROBY— I dyed my hair blonde and it turned out to be orange.

PAT NIGHT— My dog followed me to school and sat next to me in my English class.

BLUSHING BLUES — Alexa Brown shys away from the camera as her picture was being taken. Brown was a member of Key Club.

Hectic Homework

"An average of two and a half hours of homework per week shall be assigned in each class."

The Governing Board believed that homework played a vital part in the total education of students. So, the above district policy was drawn up. Has enforcement of this policy been effective? Do teachers have a grip on students to encourage them to do homework?

Surprisingly, many teachers did follow the homework policy in their own different ways. Some felt that two hours was sufficient since homework was not favorably given on weekends. Others felt that two and a half was adequate for college bound freshmen.

Freshmen class was the best way to start students with good attitudes and study habits. Opinions whether too much, enough, or too little homework was given varied greatly. "I get a fair amount considering I had more in junior high," remarked an honest freshman, April Rivera.

A common attitude was to just do the assignment, get the points, and move on. Teachers felt that they were out of reach with students at home, where interest was lost and homework forgotten. But no matter what amount was given—"It only works for people who are motivated and want good grades," said freshmen teacher Mr. Chichester.

WHAT DO YOU WANT NOW??—Teachers Aid Steve Shapiro is hard at work correcting Freshmen papers. Shapiro was also active with the Knights.

Money Makings otives

Faced with the problem of not being able to work how do you obtain money to go out on the weekends, buy lunch, clothes, etc?

Gisele Cacho
"In order for me to obtain money I sing in my group called Chucquieux. We sing at parties and hope for the chance to become popular. I'm in chorus to learn more about the art of singing."
Hilda Guerra
"My sisters give me money because I take care of my little nieces and nephews."
Luis Flores
"I help friends, neighbors and a carpenter who lives across from my house. He pays me for helping him measure carpet."
Jean Harrison
"My mom has an account in the bank and whenever I want or need money we go to the bank."
Brian Baker
"I have garage sales at my house on Saturdays to earn my spending money."
Staci Shapiro
"I get money from my parents for lunch, but I save it and usually eat at home."
Celia Gonzalez
"I get money for my clothes from my mom or my sisters."

TACO TIME—Freshmen Bao Lu spends his money for lunch at Taco Bell. Taco Bell was a popular place to eat at.

Contracts control heating

The teacher stood at the front of the class, her eyes scanning the array of students.

With the self-motivators always getting good grades and the low achievers getting the special education they needed, people often asked, "What about the middle class?"

Centinela Valley Union High School District Superintendent McKinley Nash responded to this question by initiating a program for incoming freshmen entitled, Assessment, Planning, Programming and Intervention (APPI), designed to help what Nash called "The Forgotten Middle". APPI, devised in a contract form, was based upon the cooperation of the student, the parent/guardian and the high school. In signing the contract, the student agreed to go to class, be attentive and follow directions. The parents had to provide a quiet place of study and monitor the student's progress. In turn, the school had to notify the parents of students progress every five weeks, and counsel the student whenever necessary.

With the initiation of a new program, mixed opinions arose, from the students, who were major contributors to APPI. Arlene Cormier was one of those students, who said, "To me the program doesn't serve a purpose, it is supposed to help students get higher grades, but most of the people within the program are already the high achievers."

HEY AN "A"!!—Freshman Sheila Sid shares her improving grades with friend Orfa Tampan. Sia was also a member of Drill Team.

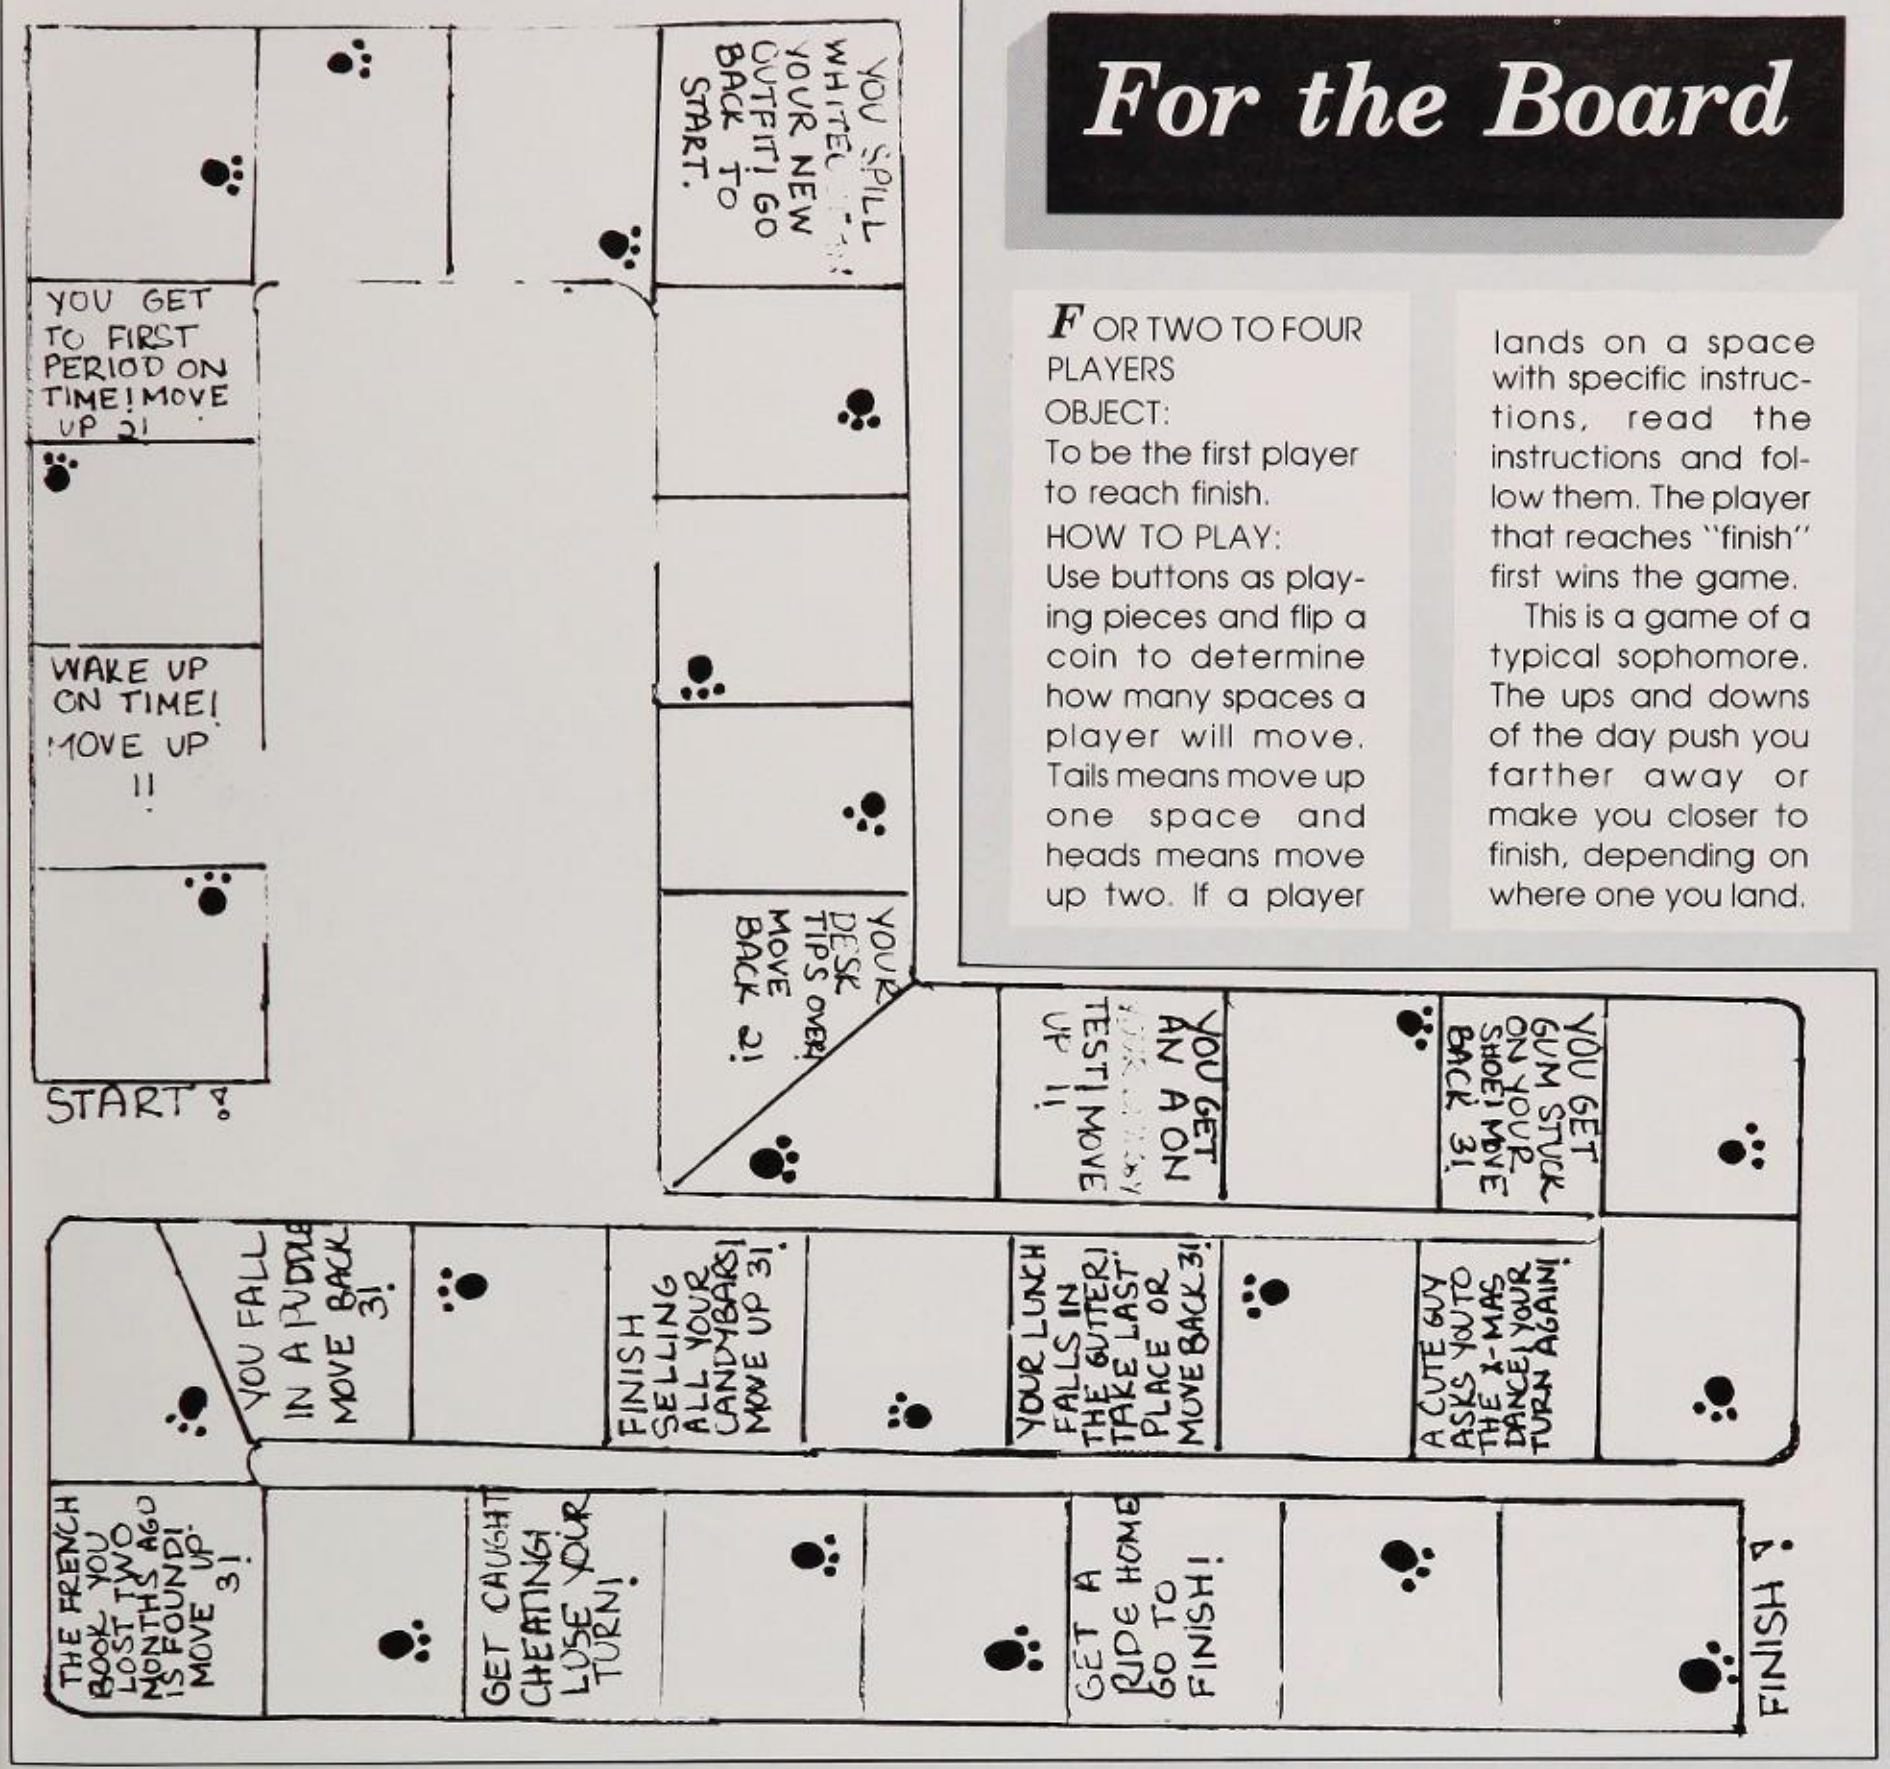
For the Board

FOR TWO TO FOUR PLAYERS

OBJECT:
To be the first player to reach finish.

HOW TO PLAY:
Use buttons as playing pieces and flip a coin to determine how many spaces a player will move. Tails means move up one space and heads means move up two. If a player lands on a space with specific instructions, read the instructions and follow them. The player that reaches "finish" first wins the game.

This is a game of a typical sophomore. The ups and downs of the day push you farther away or make you closer to finish, depending on where one you land.



START
WAKE UP ON TIME! MOVE UP 1!
YOU SPILL WHITEOUT ON YOUR NEW OUTFIT! GO BACK TO START.
YOUR DESK TIPS OVER! MOVE BACK 2!
YOU GET AN A ON TEST! MOVE UP 1!
YOU GET GUM STUCK ON YOUR SHOE! MOVE BACK 3!
FINISH
A CUTE GUY ASKS YOU TO THE X-MAS DANCE! YOUR TURN AGAIN!
YOUR LUNCH FALLS IN THE GUTTER! TAKE LAST PLACE OR MOVE BACK 3!
GET A RIDE HOME GO TO FINISH!
GET CAUGHT CHEATING! LOSE YOUR TURN!
FINISH SELLING ALL YOUR CANDYBARS! MOVE UP 3!
YOU FALL IN A PUDDLE MOVE BACK 3!
THE FRENCH BOOK YOU LOST TWO MONTHS AGO IS FOUND! MOVE UP 3!

Puppy Love

Love at first sight, young love, first love.

What may have started out his way often became a long lasting, meaningful and romantic relationship.

Many couples broke up because their friends felt neglected over other friends' new love, and threw away what could've been, because of a meaningless arguement.

There were a few fortunate couples that managed to stick together and solve their problems.

Terri Perez and Eddie Acosta were together for five months. "The wonderful bond between us consisted of love, trust and caring. Compromising and reaching mutual agreements also, helped us reach conculsions when we disagree on something," answered Terri, when asked how they'd stayed together so long.

TRUE LOVE—Allison Booth and Mike Abamonte share their love. Both were members of the soccer team.

CUTE CUBAN COUPLE—Sophomore Terri Perez and upperclassman boyfriend Eddie Acosta stand by a tree. Many sophomores had upperclassman boyfriends.

"One day I'll look back and remember my high school years. The one thing I'll never forget is Mike, my first true love. What he has meant to me, I can't express in words. He's just so special," said Allison Booth.

Raging Fury

A lot of people on this earth have to deal with various moods and emotions, for example: Love, hate, jealousy and happiness, but that major killer of people, mankinds most dangerous and uncomfortable emotion is ANGER. It is though, something we all must deal with. "When I'm mad, world look out!" said Ruth Betru. Anger is not only throwing tantrums or screaming, stated Danny Hiett, "some people get into major fights." Fighting is one way of letting out your anger, but only at your body's expense.

What kinds of things made you angry?

Bonnie Nolan-What makes me mad is when people talk about others, and especially when they're just jealous.

Krystene Secord-I usually stick my face in a pillow and scream my lungs out. My friends are the ones that are affected when I get angry, they try to keep their distance from me so that I don't blow up at them too.

AAHH!—That's what sophomore Darko Cako seems to have on his mind. Darko was in Honors Geometry.

"I get so angry when people, teachers, parents and other family members nag me. I just wish they would leave me alone because they wouldn't like me at all when I'm really angry!" commented Frank Munguia.

Groups 'n Troops

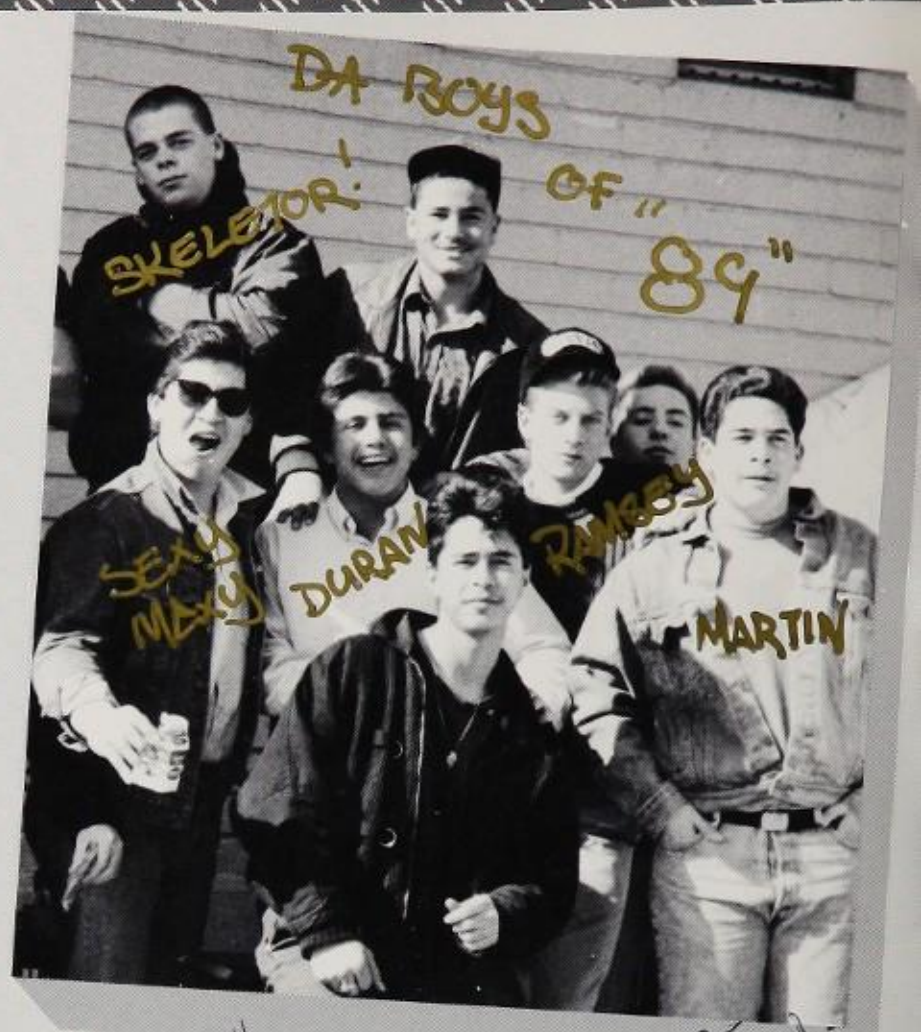
Lennox, Insanity Boys, Cubans, these names belonged to gangs, and their members who went to high school. Sound serious and scary? Well, it wasn't to those who knew about gangs.

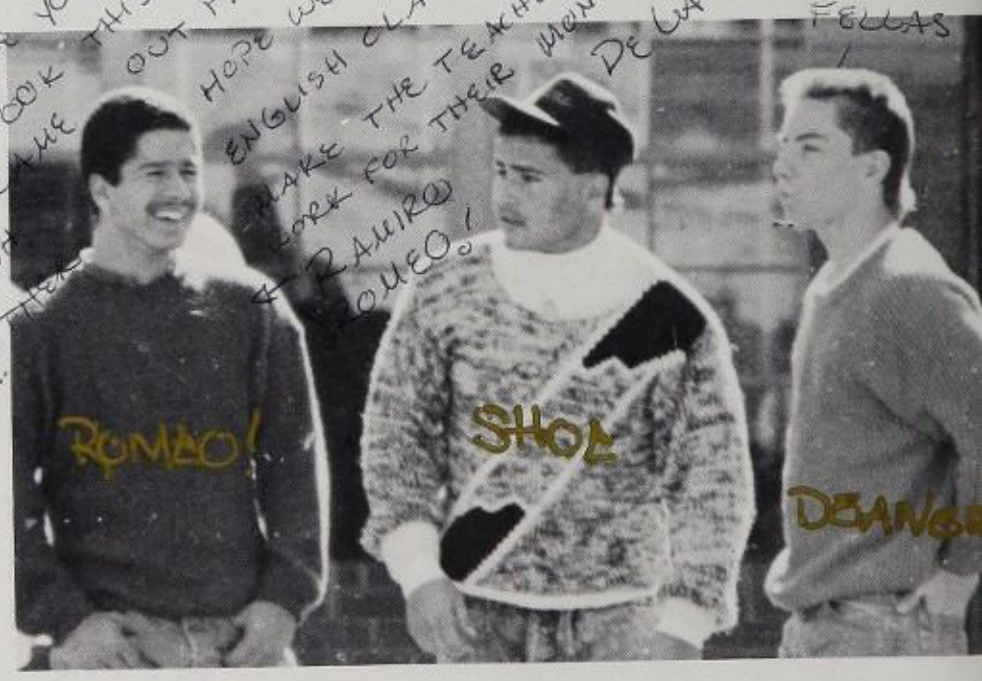
Day in and day out, you saw the same groups hanging around together. Some considered sportin' the Fila's, Adidas, or Guess that sagged and lines shaved on the sides of their heads to be "hard". Yet others thought wearing Gotcha shorts, and Maui shirts with flat tops were the "raddest".

A gangmember whose nickname was "Sleepy" commented, "We look at other people just as they look at us. We are all strangers in this world."

Girls also have their own different "cliques". A girl with hairsprayed, spiked-up hair wearing enormous baggies and a crop top turtle was no different than a girl wearing a cheerleading outfit.

A gang was a group of people who shared a strong bond between them, a common interest, they were a team. No matter what they listened to, or what they did for fun, they were all alike in some way.





WE'RE BAD—Gerardo Usquino, Manny Lopez, Carlos Ramsey, and Danny Rizutti pose for a shot. All were involved in sports.

JUST HANGIN OUT—Jamaal Shafani, Ramiro de la Cruz, and Dean Addams hang around at lunch. Addams was on the wrestling team.

"Our WS Cuban family expresses togetherness and pride. We also show unlimited caring for each other, which has helped us stay closely united and bonded together now and for years to come," said Qubie Vazquez.

Where's the Beef!

"Vegetables!" Can you imagine eating vegetables everyday? It may sound strange to some, but many people organized their dietary life around vegtables!

Vegetarians regard the flesh of all animals, including that of fish and poultry, as meat. Most vegetarians avoided eating meat because of health or moral values. They believe it is wrong to kill animals for food. Many vegetarians also think that eating meat was unhealthy.

The Indian culture doesn't eat meat and many others who aren't of that culture have built their daily dietary plan around vegtables.

"Since I've grown up not eating meat, I don't really care for it, meat gives me no sense of satisfaction," stated sophomore Rupam Soni, who has been a vegetarian.

Most vegetarians have strong beliefs on the subject, but say they never got tempted to eat meat.

"Once you don't have it you don't miss it," said Ms. Moon. She has been a vegetarian since college when she determined that red meat was not very good, and potentially hazardous to her health.

BANANA RAMA—Rupam Soni indulges in her favorite snack. Soni was also an active member of Diaconians.

STUFFING HIS FACE—John Bortz tries to eat a hamburger. Hamburgers were the favorite fast food.

"It's bad enough being on a diet, but actually imagining life without hamburgers, hot dogs, and especially pepperoni pizza can be murder. I don't know how vegetarians can do it!" commented Christal Napahaku.

Burdened Peers

E at this, smoke that drink this . . . AAAAAHHHHH!!!

What could you do? It was often your friends that were telling you these things. Your friends pressuring you into things that you didn't want to do. Just to feel like you were in the "in" crowd. What was this pressure called? It was called Peer Pressure.

Yes, peer pressure existed at every age. Sex, drugs, alcohol, etc. were often considered to be the main peer pressure points of a teenage life. "I've been pressured into a lot of things," stated Robert Estrada, "but it all comes down to the important values of life, drugs are stupid!"

It wasn't only drugs, but the things your friends might pressure you into doing. Break that window, fight him, drop her! These were often your friends talking you! So what happened if you didn't give in to the pressure? Friends didn't treat you the way they used to? They called you a flake or nerd? It was best to live with it than to lose respect from your true friends.

NO I DON'T THINK SO—Sophomore Tina Abrego declines the "Pressure" from her peers Tara Freeman and Gina Wilvang. Tina, Tara, Gina have been best friends for four years.

HHEELLPP!—That is what sophomore Linh Lu seems to be thinking. Linh was a member of Drill Team.

"I try to put it out of my mind, but if they really were my good friends, they would understand that there are times when I don't want to do certain things, and that I should be left alone," said John Bortz.

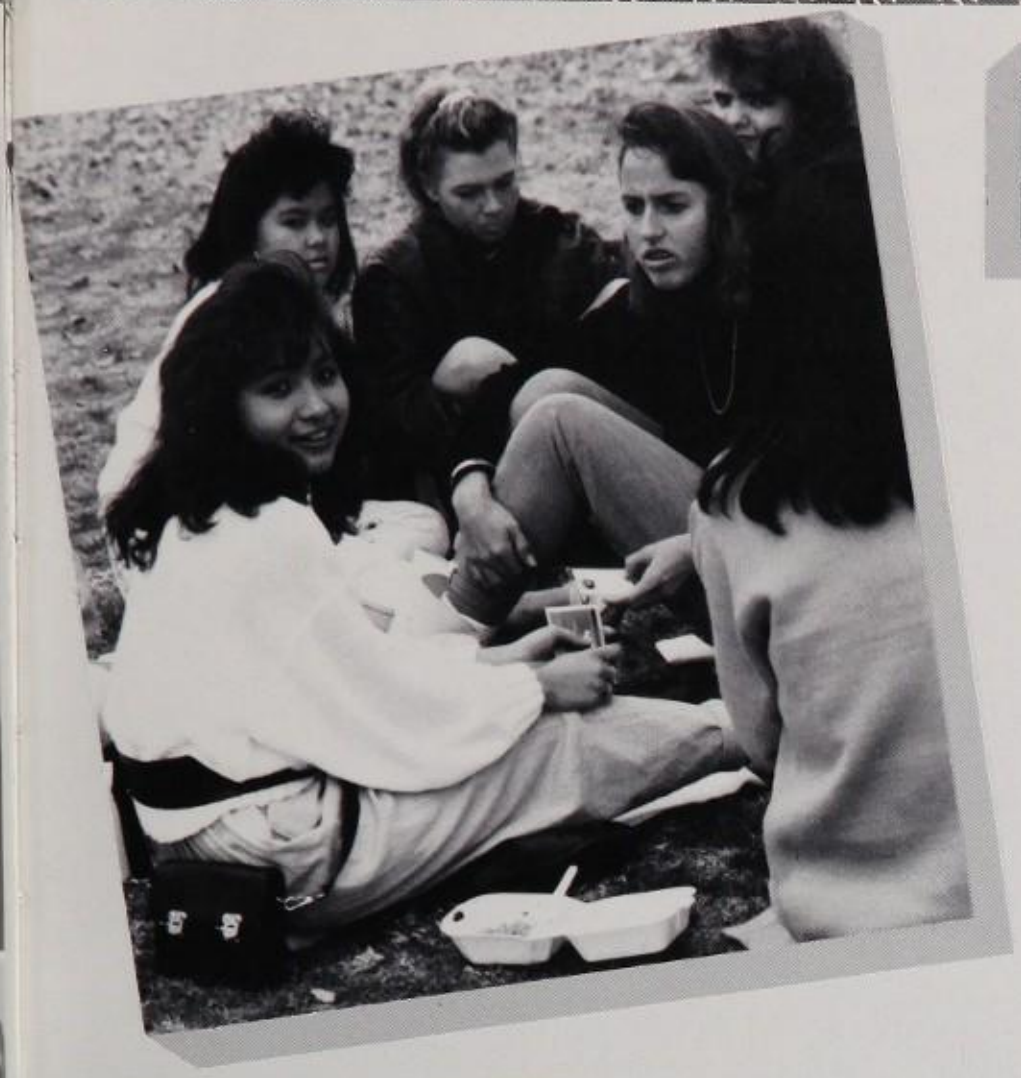
More to Munch



Lunch, Lunch, Lunch! Sophomores couldn't hop into their cars and go eat at far away places. They had to make best of the opportunity provided to them. They were fortunate to have two new restaurants, El Azteca, and China House open in the El Segundo Plaza.

"It's not the Bonaventure hotel but it's better than eating at the cafeteria," stated May Del Cruz.

The Chinese and Mexican restaurants provided quality food an affordable price. The Mexican place had a lunch special for $2.00, which contained a big tostado and a drink.

The Chinese restaurant had a variety of Chinese cuisines. Many students also enjoyed the fortune cookies, containing surprises the day held for them.

"I live for the sweet sour chicken. That is what gets me through fifth period," said Sue Ngyuen.

Managers of the Chinese and Mexican restaurants said that it is a pleasure to serve the students of Hawthorne High.

"They are really lovely children and I don't mind them at all," stated the manager of the chinese restaurant, Amy Cheng.

HEY LISTEN—Yita Heydinger tries to carry out mature conversation with Sue Nguyen, who is caught checking out guys at her favorite lunch spot. Lunch was the time to catch up on gossip.

LUNCH BUNCH—Rocio Diaz and friends dig into their lunches. Pizza Hut was a popular Place to eat.

"I'm so happy with the enthusiasm and liveliness that fill the students of Hawthorne High. School today. They are all so special in their own unique way. They are all like my little babies." stated Gloria, owner of El Azteca.

Aids Strikes

Aids. Everyday we heard about this deadly disease killing people, from movie stars to young children. Day by day, the acquired immune deficiency syndrome spread to all corners of the world. Scandals of letting students carrying the Aids virus come to school were becoming a common event. Even though some were allowed back to school, they were treated as outcasts by some of their classmates because they carried the Aids virus. How did sophomores feel about letting students with Aids come back to school? Listed below are their thoughts about this situation.

Eric Kunitake-I really don't care as long as they aren't around me. If they are, forget it. Even though my chances of getting Aids from them are probably one in a million, I still wouldn't take the chance.

Eun Song-I would treat them the same way I treat good friends.

Denise Macedo-They are at school to study, not to harm anyone!

GEEEE—I didn't know that! An anonymous couple take time out to read about Aids. The disease was mostly spread through sexual intercourse and homosexuality.

HMMMM—Two students make an important phone call. Many students used the phone for various things.

"I think students with Aids should be allowed back to school because they are only worried about getting an education, and are not concerned about spreading it to other people," commented Bobby Brady.

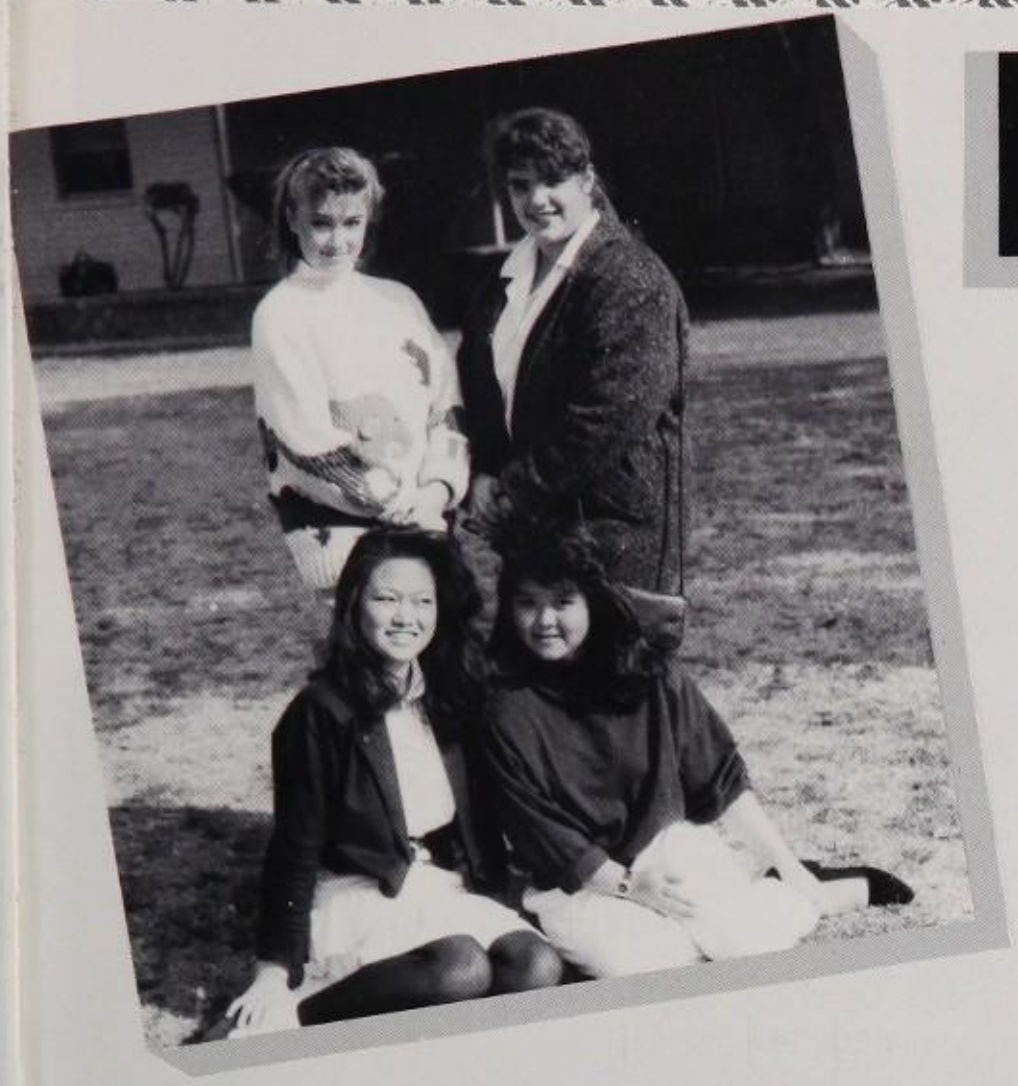
Touch of Class



*R*rring!!! The bell tolled and four sophomores rushed through the crowds to room 18-1. They quickly deposited books on a desk and found seats. More sophomores filed into the room and waited patiently for the meeting to begin. What was going on that attracted so many second year types? What else but a sophomore class meeting!

Led by President Gloria Fajardo. Other cabinet members included Vice-President Lynne Healy, Treasurer Eun Song, and Secretary Tina Ngo. The cabinet was held together by a unique bond of friendship. "We are friends outside of school too, and that keeps us closely united," said Gloria.

With three slates running for sophomore class pres./vice pres. second semester, the sophomores proved that they truly were involved with their class. With a lot of competition, Robert Estrada and Eddie Horcasitas pulled through to win. They campaigned by putting up a number of posters all around campus. "Robert had told me that popularity doesn't cut it, word of mouth is louder. He proved this point," said Eddie.

FUNNY FACES—Cabinet members Gloria Fajardo and Tina Ngo kick back during lunch. Both were members of Diaconians.

"To make our class, the class of '90, number one, we are willing to work hard and give up a lot of time and effort. All of us are enthusiastic about our class, and will do anything to make it the best," said Eun Song.

MUSIC TO YOUR EARS?

Sex! Violence!! Drugs!!! Suicide!!!! These four words connected much of the time with the music teens listened to. Not only did those topics blare out from the radio, television, and music videos, but teen literature was saturated with them. Did music, videos, and magazines truly influence teenagers actions in 1988?

Ray Camberos— I think practically everything influences us, especially music and movies. The mood of the music one listens to is the mood one will be in.

TOUGH WORK— Judy Sammora takes a break (Yoga?) Music played an important role in the lives of many students.

Colleen Aylward— The media plays up to the teenagers because we're their best customers. They make books and movies that relate to our actual situations and kids that can't cope just follow their lead.

Aracely— I don't think music and TV influences anyone in their right mind. The people who try to commit suicide do it for personal reasons and not because the radio told them to.

Eric Mullins— Sure it influences us! I know sometimes when I hear my music I go a little crazy. I would never kill myslef, but I get kind of wild. A person would have dumb to do that.

Do You Call Them?

Companionship, one's horiscope, the latest in soaps, and a conversation with Woody Woodpecker. All that and much more could be found at the end of a telephone receiver.

A person could call a 976-number for a $2.00 charge and toll, if any, and talk to a prerecorded tape about the future, Days of Our Lives, and Cinderella.

Of course the phone company offered some more useful numbers as well, such as weather, the road conditions, the surf report, and the latest in sports.

The newest edition to the 976-numbers was the 976-chat, a party-line where one could get hooked up with three or four people and talk about anything. In that case talk was not a bargain, the price here was two dollars for three minutes. For a not-so-cheap thrill the talks varied from the latest movies to sex and drugs.

One controversial factor having to do with the phone service was kids could call without their parents' permission.

"Once I got blamed for calling 976-love; it was a number where some lady talks dirty. All along it was my little brother," said Junior Gloria Magana.

OH REALLY — Linda Shin made regular phone calls to the 976-numbers. At $2.00 a call phone bills could be quite expensive.

THIS BUD'S NOT FOR YOU— These little twelve ounce killer cans were around.

Tipsy Isn't so Terrific

Friends, family, school, grades, girlfriends, boyfriends, these were only the beginning of the tremendous list of problems and pressures that teens face. One so called "solution" to all these problems was probably the actual cause of most of them.

Many Friday nights after a football game, a large number of students went to house parties where they would find the inevitable kegs of beer and various kinds of liquor.

"Alcohol puts a lot of pressure on people and totally blinds them from reality," stated Chris Wu.

Addiction happened fast and easily. Anyone could be hooked on it before they even realized what was happening.

According to Dr. Weldon of Alateen, an association for alcoholic teens, seven out of ten students drank habitually, in other words five to six times a month, on a regular basis. The statistics rose higher and higher each year.

"Realizing what your motives are for drinking, and making the effort to avoid the temptation, would be the first step to making a drinking problem a bit less difficult. Then after facing your problem, you seek help," advised history teacher Mr. Goode.

Energetically embracing closely, a lovestruck couple hug and kiss each so passionately that they forget they're the center of attraction to hundreds of wandering eyes during passing periods.

Showing affection towards one another was natural, but some considered it a bit tasteless to engage in public displays of personal affection on campus for everyone to witness.

"They should at least find somewhere more private to do their thing. People don't really want to watch two people make out while they are having lunch," snapped an angry, innocent bystander.

Some feel that they are the ones who are in love and should be allowed to happily and freely show their emotions.

"Why not! It's a free country, if you feel like making out on campus, make out, but it is at your own risk," said one junior.

Mrs. Johnson, a teacher aide to Mrs. Brown, commented, "If I see a couple 'making out' I simply ignore them, though if it is a couple that I know I will kindly ask them if they wouldn't mind finding somewhere else to continue their business." Both Mrs. Johnson and Mrs. Brown agree, "Affection tastefully shown is wholesome," but better done in private.

SMOOCH, SMOOCH—Erenie Sia and John Hyduke show their deep emotions for each other. John was a Varsity wrestler.

Clinic Causes Confusion

Sex, a word often heard in the 80's, became very popular discussion matter in high schools. All over the country the issue of having health clinics in high schools was strongly debated.

These clinics would distribute birth control and advice to the students of its school. However, students had to have parent consent before receiving condoms or birth control pills.

PROS

A. Students would have some one to talk to about sex when their parents aren't around or are just too embarrased to talk to them.

B. With birth control available teen pregnancy might decrease.

C. Students would know more about sexualy transmitted diseases, and how to play it safe.

CONS

A. It might violate some religious beliefs and values.

B. More people might go out and have sex because they figure if they are getting birth control it's okay to have sex.

"A lot of students are sexually active and not using birth control is stupid and can be costly," stated junior Monique Bell.

The Right To Write

To not be able to print one's opinion in the school paper, or to present a school play because of the content of it, or to go to the library, look up a book, and not find it on the shelf, these and other things are known as censorship.

In Panama City, Florida, censors had already struck. Mowat Middle School located in Panama had one of the top English programs in its league until one parent objected to a book read by many students of the school. This was just the beginning. In the summer of 1986 the community was divided in two, those who objected to certain literature distributed by Mowat Middle School and those who supported the English program. Teachers lives were threatened and a few attempts to take teachers' lives were made.

Could this happen at Hawthorne High? Some said no. "Hawthorne is too democratic to let something such as this ruin our school and community," stated junior Juan Soto. Some said yes. "It already has started. Plays and scenes presented by drama have to be viewed by one of the administrators before it can be performed or taken out for competition," said Author Martinez

What About the Schools?

Do schools really win? Lottery as advertised, claims that "schools win too". Only 34 percent of the money raised is given to the state superintendent and is divided up to all California elementary schools, high schools, and colleges, with the elementary schools getting the majority of the funds.

The money the schools receive cannot be used for teachers salaries or construction of schools but rather for extra materials needed in the classes.

With the news assuring lottery money will benefit our public school system, it is the fine print that isn't emphasized. As Junior Angie Monllor said, "This program was designed to help us, but yet nothing's been done!"

Respect and pride were often the reasons behind the reciting of the Pledge of Alligence. Every day, students across America were asked to stand and pledge their alligence. Was that an unreasonible request?

Gregg Stevens—I think our Pledge of Alligence should be trusted to last more than one day. It's unnessasary to do it everyday, it loses it's meaning. If we could do it once a year it would make it more memorible.

Jil Miyahara—By saying the Pledge of Alligence five days a week, it becomes monotonous. We need to make it more special than just some dumb words.

Patty Perez—I think we should pledge at least twice a week to show respect. It's important!

Puala Flores—I think it's really important. If we stop saying the pledge it won't be long before people forget what it means and what it stands for.

Joseph Gantan—I think it's unreasonable because at times we have more important things to do. Don't get me wrong. I respect the flag, but everyday?

Ricky Wasson—When I do it I feel patriotic. It's only the respectful thing to do. We're just lucky we're not in some communist country! Saying the pledge is really no price to pay to be in this great country.

SHOW THAT PRIDE—Joseph Gantan shows his respect for the American Flag during the Pledge.

Crowding Me Out

"I feel I can't express myself," said junior Susie Reynoso. Overcrowding classrooms can affect students in many ways. Students claimed they tend to feel left out and out of place. With so many People in the class, students feel there is not enough attention devoted to them. As a result some felt that missing an assignment wouldn't matter in that huge pile on the teacher's desk! Teachers were also affected by classroom crowding. "The supervision standpoint makes things difficult," stated Science Teacher David Chichester. Seatwork was a learning tool for students and a management tool for teachers. With overcrowding some of this control is lost. It was pictured as a health hazard in many classrooms.

California had the highest average class size in the nation. Each year the class sizes seem to get worse. School boards are trying to fight the problem of overcrowding. Some, including L.A, have suggested year-round schools. Could all of these decisions affect the education system of tomorrow?

ELBOW ROOM—Students found it hard to work in a room with so many people and so little space.

Tons To choose From

Religion. A topic not very often discussed, yet one that lived within each person's soul. Our values, morals traditions, and overall lifestyle revolved around our religion, or lack of it. It was the foundation of the way we loved, and the type of people we were.

Our school had as many religions as one could think of. From Roman Catholics, Muslims, Hebrews, Buddists, to Islams students religions differed from person to person. One's ethnic background was often what determined one's religion.

"I feel that the type of religion is not important, but that special relation of learning to trust in God and putting all your dreams and goals in His hands to let Him guild your every step is what matters," commented dedicated Christian Leslie Grajales.

Some religions were strict, but others weren't so demanding. Husna Mohammed, explained her religion, "We have Allah as our one and only god, and every Friday we meet at our Mosque, that is to say our "church". we unlike the Muslims are able to eat meat, but only a special kind.

Within us all, there was someone that we believed in.

88 HOUSE

"DA BOYS" OF EIGHTY NINE "89"

CLASS Attends DUTIES

Pride and dedication were revealed as the senior class attendance at meetings tripled in comparison to previous years.

Before the meetings ever began the planning was started. Fundraisers were scheduled to help defray the rising cost of the prom bid. Carwashes, candy and flower sales were among many methods used for raising money. Not all the projects planned were to benefit the budget. There were also events held for seniors at which they could relax and enjoy themselves. These included the Senior BBQ, Senior ditch day, and the ever-traditional prom.

Early planning was necessary for Historian Patty Rocha. Patty had the task of arranging a Senior slide show, as well as capturing the memories of the class of 88 for the historian book.

Elected late in the year, Secretary Trina Hoffarth got cracking with her pen and paper soon after the second meeting at which she was elected.

After four years of hard work, the class of 88's senior year drew to a close. "I really felt confident with our officers," stated Maria Obregon. "They were experienced and knew exactly what to do in order to make our class the best ever!"

BIG BROTHER IS WATCHING-Bursting with knowledge, John Portela guides a lost freshman. Contrary to popular belief, seniors were often known to help and even befriend freshmen.

SENIORS

What advice would you, as a senior, be able to offer to an incoming Freshman?

Linh Hashimoto-Do the best you can in school, don't fail any classes, and don't ditch too much!

Tran Tran-They should try for the best they can because they've just started their first steps toward their future and career.

Vera Lelea-Try your hardest and enjoy being a kid, remember have fun!

Jason Monzon-Admit you're a freshman, everyone was once a freshman.

Chi Nguyen-Keep your studies up (Keep doing your best) even though times may be hard. Participate in a wide variety of activities and get into school spirit.

Loan Tong-Don't take advantage of all your new privileges and responsibilities because someday before you know it, it will all catch up with you. Just kick back and enjoy the years yet to come.

Phi Le-Don't fool around in your classes, start off well and don't be lazy. Have fun, but take school seriously.

Hazel Gutierrez-Get involved with school spirit and join as many clubs as you can.

Darrell Ward-Don't be stupid and try to be cool, you'll just look like, well, freshmen.

STATE Governs FRIENDSHIP

"I'm so happy we became friends, I'll miss all of you," said Helen Lee as she left Girls State.

"Later man," said Mark Reynoso as he left Boys State.

Helen got everyone's address and planned to write to them, Mark and his friends all decided to meet at San Luis Obispo in a couple of months.

"I told my new friends things I couldn't tell my best friend," said Helen.

They both passed ordinances and elected governors. They both did things like kidnapping a counselor and taking her to breakfast in her pajamas, and making lawbreakers do community services of cleaning up a sick mayor's regurgitations.

Although State was designed to educate young men and women in the ways of their government, they discovered ways to amuse themselves. At one point participants passed an ordinance prohibiting the use of community furniture.

For Helen Lee, Girls State meant long-lasting friendships. For Bogard Chang, Boys State meant winning the ping pong championship. And for Mark Reynoso Boys State meant some friendships, some fun, and some education. But for all, it meant an increased awareness of the world they live in.

LOOKING FORWARD—Maria Moncado wonders what life will be like after high school. She planned to work.

SENIORS Bound TO BELONG

For most of us the question, "What will I do after high school?" was solved with one word-COLLEGE. But what about the others?

Some still wanted to continue their education and decided that a trade school would be best for them. A trade school offered training in specific fields such as modeling or accounting. "I want to go to the Fashion Institute because there's nothing that college has to offer me," stated Linh Hashimoto. There was an abundancy of trade schools in the area for students to attend.

Possibly the most popular alternative after high school was to join and serve in the Armed Forces. Advantages of serving in the military included earning money while going through training, lower tuition cost with the G.I. Bill, and early retirement with good benefits. "I chose to go to the Army because of its advantages and so I wouldn't be lazy for the rest of my life," stated Neil Salguero.

Another alternative after high school was to join the working force. There were many jobs available to students who graduated with a diploma. A college degree wasn't always necessary. "I plan to work after high school because I want to rest for a while," stated Maria Moncado.

GOING Military STYLE

Soaring through the cloudless sky at three times the speed of sound, in an SR-71 Blackbird, across the U.S. in less than half an hour, may seem farfetched to some, but to certain graduating seniors, it would be a dream come true.

Honesty, belief in yourself, dedication, and the drive to be a better person may seem too much to ask, but for Kristen Herrera, Dan Lemon, Phil Limbacher, and many others, these were qualities which they hoped would get them accepted into the Army, Navy, Air Force, or Marines.

"My ultimate goal is to fly off a carrier in an F-14," Mike Harvey revealed. While many seniors were still unsure of what the future would hold for them, the services were already enlisting such students as Eric Blunt, Shauno Dunnick, and Jorge Ulloa. Whether it was an influencial relative, a persuasive speaker at school, or just a desire to serve their country, these seniors trained themselves either through the reserves, the ROTC, athletics, or just on their own. Their goals ranged from becoming a pilot in the nation's top aircraft to working for the government as secret service agents. When asked why he decided to join the Army, Jason Difelice said, "To be all that I can be!"

GOD'S GIFT TO GIRLS—Candidates flash kingly smiles as they greet their public. Ten of the nominees would go on to be in the Homecoming Court.

CANDIDATES

SPIRIT

Campaigning for Homecoming . . . it was sitting on the bleachers with a pounding heart. And it was all of the pictures and posters and publicity beforehand.

Though many nominees such as Shauno Dunnick felt they "knew which ten candidates would make court," this did not slow the rush to prepare for the elections.

Some nominees pooled their money and pens together for a joint poster party. Overnight, posters both hand-drawn and computer-printed appeared everywhere!

Drama nominee Annie Escobar explained that she "put posters everywhere and talked to people both in Spanish and English." Verbal campaigning, as well as the distribution of flashy buttons and candy were popular forms of advertisement.

The 12 guys and 15 girls running were required to present themselves to their voters on the outdoor stage, where they were hailed with cheers. "It was embarrassing," admitted Honors Math IV nominee Michelle Willson, "but people got to know me better."

Whether or not they made court, the 27 seniors gained a place in the public eye. A.F.S. nominee Steve Shapiro concluded that "it was an honor just being nominated."

BIG MAC ATTACK—Senior Bruce Keus takes his time and savors his Big Mac. Seniors infected with Senioritis usually left 5th period to buy their lunch.

DISEASE

Plagues

SENIORS

"What do you have this period?" a typical senior might ask in a persuasive but subtle manner. The answer: any class, as long as there wasn't a test. But if there was . . .

Senioritis! According to Eleanor Sia,"It's a superiority complex that seniors get, causing them to make fun of underclassmen."

The main symptoms are an abnormal readmit card due frenzied ditching, or five periods of excuses accompanied by violins on why homework was not done.

Who did it affect? Any senior with a car or friends that owned one. "I don't know whether or not I have senioritis, because I've been ditching since Freshman year," said Loan Tong.

Even the seniors who had never ditched might also be caught in the donut shop third period. "I never ditched in high school until this year," said Tina Fernandez.

Where did one get it? The answer to that depended on the situation. If it was a growling stomach, that senior wouldn't hesitate to solve the problem at Piggie's or Rick's.

Senioritis might also have landed one in the office. "I found myself sitting in the attendance office when I got caught ditching," explained Luis Delgado.

LIFE'S Mix UPS

What would "YOU" think about a Caucasian guy dating a Black girl? Or a Korean and a Mexican?

"To many parents it was a nightmare come true. My mom freaked out!" said Jason MacDonald(Caucasian) because he had brought home his Black girlfriend. Those who strongly opposed the match were usually kept uninformed by their kids of the relationship. As in the case of Steve Shapiro(Caucasian) and Eleanor Sia (Filipino), the parents may have encouraged the mixed match.

Just as important as parental support were friends' support. Sometimes they said "Go for it!",or left the couple to themselves. Tommy Jess said, "That's fine if other people do it, but it's not for me."

With such an ethnic community it was common to see couples of different races hand in hand. But these different relationships could have difficulty. To Dan Lemon (Caucasian/ Vietnamese) and Hazel Gutierrez (Filipino), it was a relationship that demanded understanding and willingness to accept new values of a different culture. "It's easier for Chris and me now since it's becoming more common," said Helen Lee about herself and her Black boyfriend.

FIRST COMES LOVE—Couple fondly embraces at a restaurant. As students grew older, they became less inhibited about displaying affection.

SHARING Intimate DETAILS

Sex. The word evokes giggles. The action evokes responsibility and major decisions.

More than half the student population will have engaged in sexual activity before graduating, according to recent statistics. However, the swiftly-mounting fear of AIDS and other life-threatening diseases caused many to back away from casual sex and to think twice about the consequences. "We chose to wait and just enjoy each other's company," explained Danielle Waters of herself and her boyfriend.

Though some students such as Bruce Keus considered sex to be acceptable in high school as long as love was involved, others disagreed. "No one could be in love this young," stated Sandra Torrente. "A lot of kids think it's just no big deal, though."

Birth control was an added responsibility. With its recently televised publicity came a new awareness of the risks of pregnancy and disease. Much controversy developed due to the issues of abortion and homosexuality.

Many teachers became quite open about the topic of sex. Math teacher Mr. Moore advised that "people should use discretion about whom they are with and how they protect themselves."

STUDYING Common ANGLES

Great minds think alike. Students placed in the Honors program soon discovered that they had been born into a family of great minds.

Mark Reynoso explained, "Having the same people in your classes for four years, you really get to know them." Students in these classes agreed that it was more like a family than a class.

The origin of this family dates back to its freshman year, when an energetic teacher, Ms. Kathy Adkins, created an unusual math class with songs, stories, and even pictures to help them understand the fundamentals of Algebra. Students were drawn together by weekend trips, and "study parties" learning from others' strengths and weaknesses.

Trips to the L.A. Art Museum and the Will Geer Theater educated and united students and teachers. Honors English Teacher Mr. Sloan commented, "I love it! I can deal with a lot of abstract forms of teaching that wouldn't be found otherwise."

The Honors students of '88 learned more than polynomials and poetry, they learned the importance of supporting one another. As Robert Hinojos said, "It's amazing how a group of talented kids who hardly knew each other, could become so close in such a short time."

STANDING PROUD—Employee Patty Gonzalez shows her pride in Stouffer Hotels. Gonzalez planned to major in hotel management after high school.

WACKY Workers AT WORK

On a Saturday morning in August Seana McKinney boarded a bus headed for Los Angeles. After a quick half hour ride the bus stopped at Crenshaw Avenue and Hyde Park, Seana got off and walked the rest of the few short blocks to Ms. Francis Sides' house. Seana found her to be very friendly. Little did she know that she would soon be working for this 47 year-old woman.

Seana was hired by Ms. Sides. She did housework, cooked meals, and anything else that she may have needed. Seana found her job very rewarding. "I enjoy helping people and making them happy." Flexible hours allowed her to arrive at any time on Saturday, but she always promised to return the next week.

Wearing her uniform of a white blouse, pink bow tie, a black skirt, and black comfortable shoes Patty Gonzalez began work. Hardly an ordinary job considering that she worked at one of the finer hotels at L.A.X.

Having worked at Stouffer Concourse Hotel for a little over a year, Patty had already moved up to cashier and a waitress in banquets.

"What makes my job unique is that it's always a party atmosphere," exlcaimed Gonzalez. By having experience working in a luxurious hotel Patty decided that she wanted to major in hotel management.

SCHOLARS

Can numbers determine the future? They mattered a lot in the lives of college-bound seniors!

One particular Saturday morning, scholarly seniors dragged themselves from their beds and into a classroom in which they would spend the next four hours . . . taking the Scholastic Aptitude Test.

Most colleges required a score from the S.A.T. Divided into six sections of math and English, the test was created to demonstrate an individual's knowledge. Some students, such as Dung Lu, protested. "The S.A.T. does not test us only on what we learn in school," he complained. "In order to score high, we must study on our own."

Many students pored over thick books and took extra classes at night in preparation. "I knew I had to do well, so I studied the Macgruder's book," explained Anne Marie Sexton.

Others battled the test with no preparation except a sharpened number two pencil.

A score above 1000 was considered good in the eyes of the college admissions departments. Many were dissatisfied with their scores. "I'm going to take the test two more times," said Darren Holland, "and hope I get a 1300."

HAPPY Golden YEARS

Money makes the world go round.

Money needed for the senior class prom. To accomplish raising this money, numerous fundraisers had to take place.

So many candy sales, car-washes, and dances to plan in what seemed to be such little time.

With the desire to have the best prom ever, the senior class got on the ball. The Sadie Hawkins dance started the senior account with a boom along with a cracker jack sale that followed.

Still the digits were too small for the unsatisfied students. The money-starved class of 88 intended to end the year off with a product that would keep them at rest over the summer. It was the infamous Virgin Pina Colada. The forever loved drink would make its debut at Carnival Day. Being a hit, it racked in more money than expected, so it became a tradition.

The year started and the digits got bigger and bigger. Adopting the Valentine's carnation sale was the smartest move the class had for it was the most profitable of them all.

As the years went on, the account got fatter and fatter making the seniors the richest ever to graduate from H.H.S.

THE COMMUNITY

Too Good To Forget

Dear Diary,

At times, it brightens my day to see the woman at China House smile, as she ladles out fried rice! The owners of the local stores and restaurants are so nice to us, giving us special discounts and scholarships.

Occasionally however, they tire of us, as in the time we all got kicked out of Taco Bell for being too rowdy. I suppose it was a bit childish to shoot straw wrappers at the windows.

In years to come, I know I'll look back at the city I've grown up in, and remember all that happened. Malls and theaters will be haunted with mischeivous ghosts giggling in the corners. Halls will echo with cheers of victory and sobs of despair.

It's all part of what makes this time so special. The memories we collect of laughter and tears shared with friends and family, no matter how silly, all make up the vast scrapbook of our lives, which is too good to forget.

Well it's time for me to say good-bye to dear old Hawthorne High. It's time to put away the security blanket of high school & move on toward the unknown. So I bought this ad just so I could say a few words to a few friends that would always be remembered. MR. MOORE—It was fun being T.A. for honors Math 4 & don't forget you're "Hostess Ho's." Thanx for listening to me complain & for being a friend as well as a teacher. MR. ATKINS-Thank-you for being a friend as well as a teacher, there's not that many teachers like that. You're one in a million. MIKEY-What can I say? How about going to Burger King? ha ha You're the greatest. You've made a big difference in my life & I LOVE YOU. JANEL- I don't know what to say except "Want to eat it at Rick's?" JIM-Even though you're far away I had to mention you. The class of '88 isn't the same without you. VI-VI-McD's, the library the beach, all those times when we were supposed to be somewhere else. Love ya cuz. JEN-Don't forget those crazy summer months. Summer would've been boring without you. DARREN- We've had our differences especially over the summer, but we managed to stay friends. WAYNE-E-KINS- How cute! No more "third degree" okay? HONORS MATH 4 It's been a blast! MOM & DAD- Thanks a bunch! I love you both. Good Luck and Good-Bye. Danielle Waters

Best Friends Forever

I Will Be Your Friend-Sade

I know that lately things haven't been so good. I always said if I could ever help you I would. I love you for a thousand years. I'm here to wipe away the tears. I will be your friend till the end of time. I'm here to make you smile. When you're falling apart, I pick up each piece & build a wall around your dreams. The punches to your heart melt away when you never thought they'd heal, so trust in me, these are the words I give to you. If Hercules can't pick you up, I will. I really am true. You've got so much to give. I'll tell you just what you need to know. I'll get you out of it. I'll pick you up when you're feeling low. So here's my hand, trust in me, I really am true. you've got to understand there's nothing I wouldn't do. Come on & take my hand when you're falling apart. Oh you've got to understand. I will be your friend till the end of time.

From Freshmen to Seniors, how time flies. Goodbye Hawthorne High School, you've given me so many memories. I will never forget them. If I had a choice I'd do it over again. I've got some special messages for some special people JOANNE- Thanx for those wonderful times since 7th grade. 227 right? LINDA- Sneaky aren't you? . . . We've shared lots of laughing times; don't be a stranger, give me a ring! SONIA- Remember 7th grade? Huh . . . you should because I'll treasure those memories. HELEN- You are the greatest person. We had fun in the squad. You'll always be in my heart. I love you! LISA E.- Mischievious, crazy person. You're really something. Always on the run. FIA- Hello stranger. Always late for 6th period. Huh? I'll miss you lots and lots. KRISTEN H.- We'll see each other in the channel 7 newsroom someday right? TRINA H.- Bells, bells, and more the right choice, don't be embarassed to buy those books! MICHELLE & ANGELA- Gorgeous two-some. Always together under the hot sun. Don't tan too much. Remember art class. RICHARD- Shine . . . dud . . . favorite words huh? "I won't ditch again", don't forget that. PATTY, ALEX, SANDRA- 3 musketeers . . . Never forget Jr. High, and Pizarro's class. EVERYONE IN PEP SQUAD- Thanx for all the fun, exciting things we did. It was the greatest experience being in it. Always remember me. DRILL TEAM- Thanx everyone, you've sure the memorable people one wishes to keep. M.J.- Don't forget the booze K. I'll miss you lots. LOAN- We finally did it!!! Where are you headed? ALICE, HAZEL, ELEANOR- Hi, I didn't forget you gals, smile always. ANNIE- When is your B-day? Thanx for all those wonderful times we shared. We'll still keep in touch! BRUCE- Science class, P.E., those were ker-azy times . . . You'll be someone in life, just go for it! DAVID- The next president of the U.S. You're amazing!! SHARON, MARY, MARY DEAN - Thanx for all those breaks you gave me. I love you all. MS. MOON- Thanx for all your help. How can I say goodbye, it's going to be hard, I'll miss you. Most of all I want to thank my parents for being there and understanding. To all my friends I didn't mention, I didn't forget you all, but we will keep in touch. Thanx H.H.S. Angel Gonzalez

Well Kris. This is it. Our very last year at HHS. Here I am at our favorite place, the Beach. The Beach has been our favorite place to come & spend quiet moments together looking over the sunset, listening to the waves pounding on the shore. I don't know how to express myself more than to write it to you to show you how I feel for you. You have meant & still mean a great deal to me, all these years of sharing so much with each other. You have been a very special friend to me. I shared everything w/ you & you shared everything w/ me. We spent such beautiful moments together. Spending time w/ you means a lot. We have been to so many special places I have never shared w/ anyone else! Yes Kris, I have done some foolish things, but I never forgot about you at any moment. This letter is from me to you from deep inside of me. Love you, George Hernandez Nov. 17, 1987

Our friendship has lasted for four years and still our love will grow. Yesterday lives forever in our tears for today's seperation has come. We will journey unto a world in which we can not deny. For it will get rough, but sure enough, our strength will get us by. So remember, my friends, this is not an end but a big step to take. Our time has come and we must go on . . . this is no mistake. Yet to H.H.S. we owe so much, for it gave us you and I. I'll never forget when we all met, here at Hawthorne High . . .

Well, it took us five years to finally decide to be friends. I am glad we did. You are someone that I can count on when I need anything. We still have our differences at times but we always work them out. If you ever need me, I will always be here for you. I wish you the very best in life. I'll see you in my law office as my accountant in a few years.

BEST FRIENDS

Dear Mish,

Where should I begin . . . oh gosh. We've been best friends for so long. Next year will be our best and last year, watch out H.H.S! Thank you for putting up with so many things, my constant crying over you know who, god that must have driven you nuts, but you never complained. We've had so many good times, too many to count. Just think of all the good times yet to come! Remember sea anemones forever! F.B. forever, for me. For you . . . "The Man" or "The Terminator", who will it be? Long live the "Kerry Days." I can't wait till next year. We're finally seniors!!Remember when we first met? Hello Kitty and braids! Ha . . . Ha . . . Thank you Mish, for everything, and for the good times yet to come. 89 is the BEST!

Love you, Best Friends FOREVER . . .

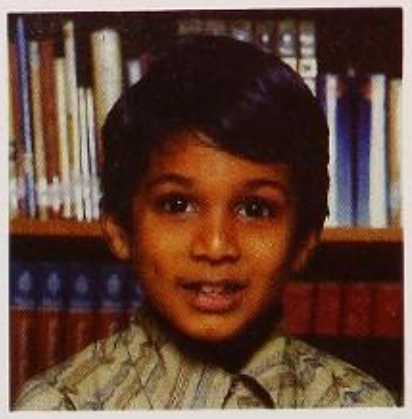
Anita

Dear Anita:

Since the sixth grade, we've been best friends. You mean soo much to me! I know we'll stay best friends forever! We've been through so much! How could we separate? Impossible! We've done soo many crazy things together. I could never ask for a better bud than you. Well, we still have one more year to go at good ol' H.H.S! This year was so much fun, but just wait until next year!! CLASS OF 89! We'll get thru it, just like every other year,together!! I LOVE YOU!!

Your sis and Best friend Forever,

Mish



Hey, Babe! "I've known you for two years and you never tell me anything." Ha! Ha! This year I think we have gotten closer than ever. Thuy, I will never forget all the fun times we've had together. Remember last summer all those times I was at your house and you were at mine. What fun we had, huh? Since school started you've been the only one I keep my eyes on. Those cute little cheeks and that cute smile. Boy, do you turn me on. Well, it's this time of year to say good-bye, but I don't want to. Thuy, I don't ever want to lose you. I have no idea of what I will do without you. I love you Thuy and this love will never be lost.

LOVE,
Rajen Mehta

Sag- Oops! I mean Johnny. Well this was our last year together ever (in high school that is) It was fun while it lasted. We both know how we really feel though, right? You are & will always be very special to me Karen- Well babe, you know we'll still k.i.t. Thanks for everything! Seriously!! You helped me through so much, & made me see things differently. I'm glad we got to be so close. Well someday we will find "HIM", & who knows it just might be them! Thanks for the double earthquake, did you feel mine on March 3rd? Dang, was that a good one. J/K Don't forget all of the good times we've shared. Especially bagging on everyone, don't forget she DID break your finger, don't forget "THE FLY" YUK!, THE parties, our little friend (get it). Especially when it hit me at Patty's party. Hey, tell "MITCH" I said HELLO. I love you Karen. Myrita and Karc/f/4/eva! Victor- HI PIMP! j/k Well Victor our Senior year is over. Will you still keep in touch? You better. Well, you've changed a lot since I first met you; you're doing good. Listen I know you still care for M-! Give it another shot, and show how you feel this time because talk is so cheap. Take good care of yourself. I love you Brother. F/Always. MANSON BOYS- The cutest guys of the c/o of 88! Stay sweet, and try to stay out of trouble. Calm down on that stuff. K.I.T. too, or I'll miss you all. Alberto- Whats up 'OM-BOY? I sear I'll never forget you! Remember: now, no wait, now now!! Don't forget our KB times. Our long old Handshake, that time we were all zombies at the beach, and you broke your leg, dumby. I'll miss you, NO I won't cause you know you're gonna K.I.T. I love ya Dog. F/F. Fia- Hey woman. YOU NERVY! MAN, we've been frenz for awhile. I'm always here for you. Calm down on you know what! I love ya. FRENZ always. Shanda, Sandra, Lori, and Alma- Shanda good luvk with JERRY, I'll miss all you guys. K.I.T. okay? Alma and James 4/ever. Erika, and Amy- E.M.-Take good care of your self. A.S.-you should model. Don't forget "Bentleys" I love you guys so much. K.I.T. Sonja-Hi my love. I'm sorry about DOM,but you do deserve better. K.I.T. Good luck in everthing. I luv u. Victor P.- Now you can read this. You are so fine! Remember in the 10th grade, "I lub you!" Eloy-My big bro. Please take care, and K.I.T. I'll miss you. David and Richard- You know U 2 will be on the top. Take care K? Jonathan and Richie-Listen you two are the finest freshmans'. Richie-you'll get'er some day. Jonathan- Don't worry about her. There's a lot of girls out there for you two. TAKE CARE. Michelle-Hola Mitch- Well, we've been through the same-I'm surprised we all aren't related. He does care though. Don't forget to smile for me. I know we'll always be close friends, so I don't have to worry about the K.I.T. part right? Don't forget all these silly times: Flavs party:"more Michelle?", our long old walk back and forth. At Patty's party, all the bull Mr. Ouha said. "MAX huh?",Paola's shirt, "oh no, she found out!" Don't forget all the other great time w/ all your FRENZ. Please take good care of your self! Thanks for always being there. I love you!! c/f/f SYLVIA-I;m glad we're good friends now. You're a very special person to all of us, you have your own mind, and that's GREAT. Don't forget all you rad parties you gave. We BETTER K.I.T. F/F and I love ya! Flav and Paul- my bro's. I know you were always playing around. Willie-Hey stuck-up! Remember BAJA REEF? "10""10"!! Dud! Thought I'd write more Huh?

Myra

Dear Iris,

Wow- You made it! I hope you know we're all really proud! No 5 yr. plan for you. Good luck in everything you do. Gosh it seems like yesterday that we were these little girls in the picture. Now you're an alumni. I remember that kindergarden pagent were your teacher wouldn't let me be with you during the show & I cried . . . Next year it'll be that again . . . Who's gonna give me a ride to school? It's a big world out there, so take care of yourself, and go for it all. Us Benitez's deserve it.

Love

30-60-90 Theorem

"Symbols of inclusion, innermost first."

It began in Ms. Adkin's class, with songs and posters on the ceiling. We got A's on tests, and we learned how to sell candy bars.

Sophomore year, we proved that we were the top, in Mr.Liles' algebra two class! Trips to Magic Mountain lessened the pain of parabolas and hyperbolas.

Onto Mr. Caldwell's class and the fascinating world of trigonometry. We lost a few buddies that year, but the survivors pulled together with the help of calculators and good friends.

At last, we were big seniors, and we got to clean Mr. Moore's lab tables. Occassionally we'd do something called calculus, but mostly we'd talk about LIFE, and have math parties in which the goal was to derive new methods of cheating.

And all the time you thought we were SMART!!

I don't know how to begin to reach you . . . . . Perhaps I should listen to how you reach me.

Can 1/8 page in the allmighty El Molino capture the tears laughter, and the beautiful, terrible insanity that was my four years at H.H.S.? I can only address a few necessary memories that refuse to be pushed aside. First, as always, dearest, bestest friend. Cyndra- no problem a movie and a pizza can't cure. Richard- my main stork, ski-partner, it's a farce. We'd have lovely kids. Tan, blue-eyed and theatrical. No accountants! M.J.-It's a grave situation . . . who gets the first Oscar? I'll meet you on Broadway, Bonnie. I love you, tons! Alexander- It's delovely, it's amore! Thank you for bike rides, for hours on the phone and for being my Billy John- My favorite runaway, forever! Is there an Oscar for "Best Character Actor?" You'd get it! Karin- Mom, I feel the need, the need for a HOAGIE! Pattywatty- in ten years, we'll scam on S.A.'s butt again. Until then, take back your mink. Tweety- I only wish you'd go to USSC, too. But I think you've found at least one of your dreams. Tricia- babystork, this book is not gonna get done by itself! Good luck! Meesh- Remember, SILENCE IS GOLDEN. Tell that to Moore! Ricky- Opera on the bus bench! Carry on in drama '89, but leave the fire extinguisher alone! Arturo- Take me to bed, Baby Huey. Jim- Checkmate! Sir Evelyn- Surf's up? I'll meet you there, if you don't get seasick! Lastly, my family, who I owe everything to. Mommy- Do slugs have object permanance? Jenny- Sis, in spite of phonefights and socks, you're wonderful! Kay- My favorite aerobics instructor and confidante. Dad- I'll always be Daddy's girl! Mark Wilmot- I'd do anything . . . Last but not least, Fang, my gatogrande and the CHEVYNOVA, Turlock! To those I did not mention by name. It was not lack of affection, merely lack of space. Oh, Ms. Martinez, did you think I'd forget you? I owe you and that too-small theater so much. Do you really think I can act? Thank you to everyone who has given me support, love and inspiration. Through writing or acting, I shall make you proud of me. I love you all . . . so much. Never compromise your dreams. Goodbye, but I shall return victorious . . . a Santa Cruz banana slug! (What grand aspirations.) Love, Gloria Rasputin/Jean McCormick-/Hope Harcourt . . . and most importantly, Melissamarie

Those school girl days of telling tales & Biting nails are gone, but in my mind I know they will still live on and on but how do we thank someone who has taken you from crayons to perfume. It isn't easy but I'll try If you wanted the sky. I would write across the sky in letters that would soar a thousand feet high "to you, with love . . . " The time has come for closing books and as long last looks must end. But as I leave I know that I am leaving my best friend. A friend who taught me right from wrong, and weak from strong. That's a lot to learn, what can I give you in return? If you wanted the moon I would try to take the stars But I would rather let you take my heart. "To you with love."

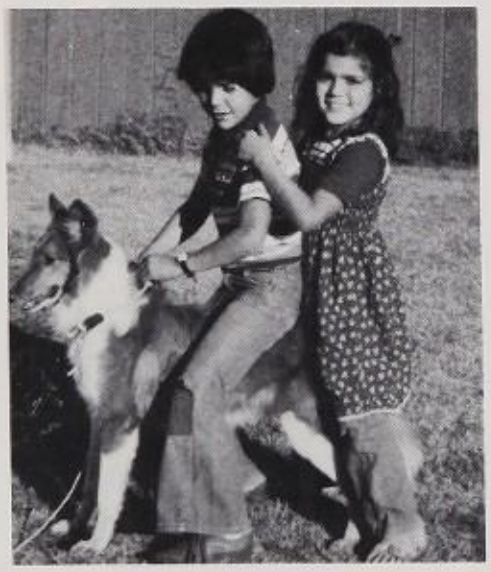
Outgoing with friends- she always was hopping

"Go clean up the house","Well I'd rather go shopping"
Oh, yes on her clothes she preferred the big sizes

Even borrowed her brothers, naught did surprise us
"Let's go out and eat- Chinese food sounds just great"

Vi-Vi'd con all her friends and she'd clean off her plate
Into the world- out of high school at last
Reading, writing and 'rithmetic- all that is past
As you go on your way- from your big sis-congrats!

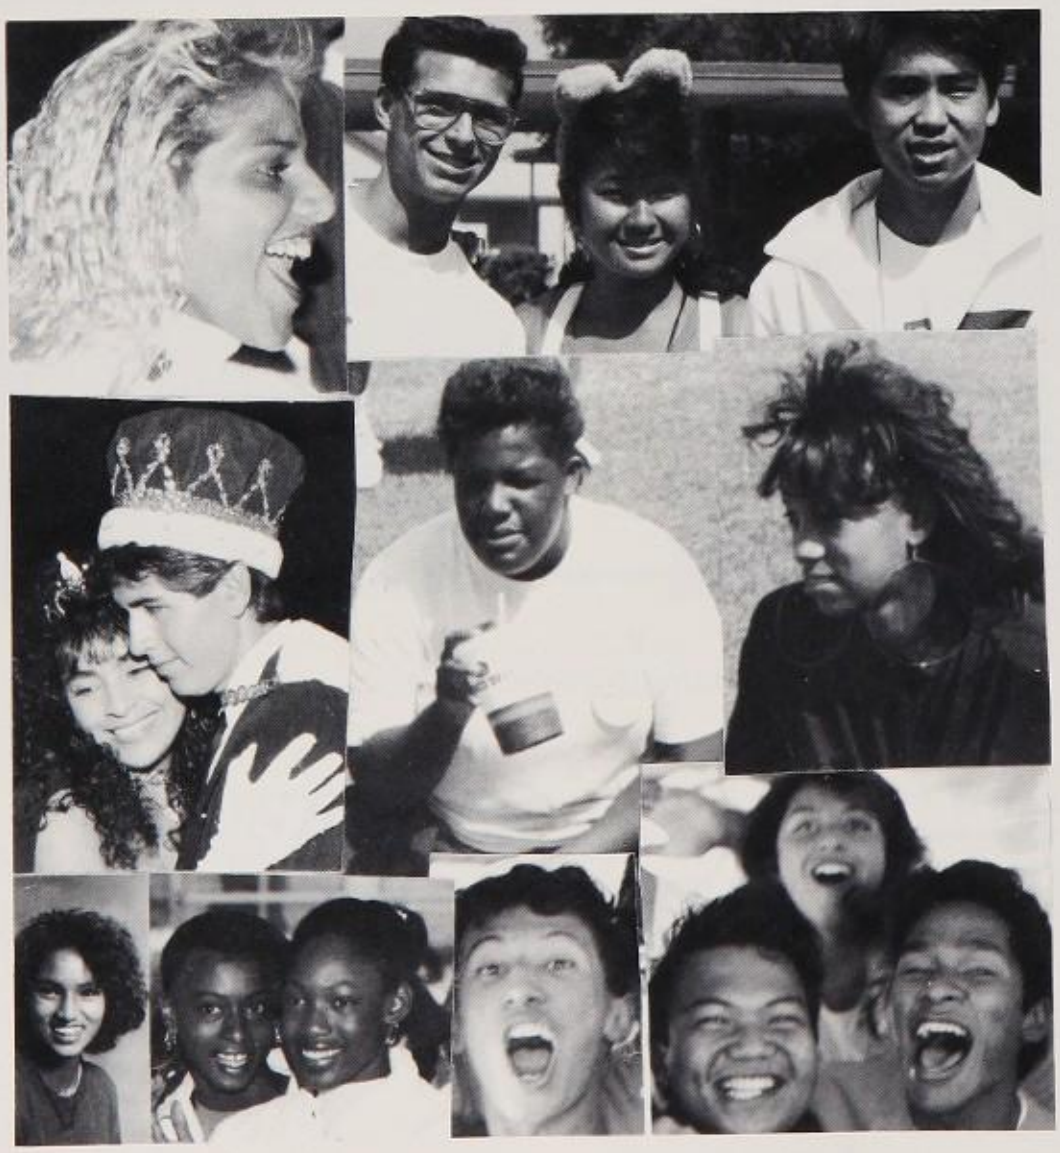


Flavio and Paola
You have shared laughs and tears, happiness and sadness, love and fights. All that has built a bond so strong that will keep you together through your life. We are proud of you and we will always be there when you need us. We love you guys,

Mom & Dad

THE CUBARICANS

There is no such thing as staying the same as you are. Either striving to make yourself better . . . or allowing yourself to get worse.



Pick me up when I'm down, help me see the light. Guide me through my fears, deep in the night. You're a friend true blue, I'm taking this time to say I'm gonna miss you.

The times we've had at H.H.S. have finally come to an end. RICHARD, HELEN, DAVID, LISA, it's been 8 long years. Thanks! ANGEL, ANGIE, & ANGLEICA- Stay super sweet Also all those talented folks: CRYSTAL, RUTH, SHARON, RICKY, MELISSA W., JOHN ALEX, KYLE, BOGARD, CHI, & PHI & MIKE thanks for the inspiration. CHRIS P., MARK R., NANCY, ANDREA, ELENA, & HUSNA you guys are crazy, but I like it, I like it. NICOLE, TAUNSHAWN stay best buddies. GEOVANNI, JACK I love you guys just the way you are, so never change. LAURA, MELANIE, MYRA thanks for helping me out when I needed it. You too KENDRA. STACY, MARIANNE, JANE, BLANCA & SHAWN M., keep the school spirit. BAND and CHORUS you guys are great. To all the TEAMS out there I'm always cheering for you. Oh, Jesse, and Juan Carlos, stay weird. You know I love you all, but I really got to go.

Thanks Mom

Love, LaTanya Wise

Best of friends — Sk-E-O + Tee-na

Dear Ken, Wh to m m Sp I+ ha ne te S yo

Our memories of school will last all our lives
The sadness of leaving, brings tears to the eyes.
Our moments of sharing,
the laughter & fun,
It's now a new beginning,
a new chore to be done
We'll miss each other next year, as we go on apart,
But we'll always be felt,
in each others heart
Our friends that we've made,
the crazy things we've done,
Is all a part of our school lives,
now's time for more new fun.

Thanx to everyone for the memories, & the special times we've had. RICHARD-What do you haaave this period? But keep the turtle neck on Linda. Shut up Erenie! No duh, David!! Leave that Sushi at home Helen. Cyndi, survived any parties lately? Slow down Mr. K., I can't catch up! Good luck Crowe, you need it. We passed Mrs. Takumi's, the 30 rolls of paper towels paid off. Where are we going for 3rd per. today Sameer? Times to remember & times to forget but always Zung Zung!! Love you all!

"You've come a long way baby!" I'm so very proud you're my daughter. Keep that sincere smile & wonderful personaltiy & you'll make it! My love for you has grown like you have!

I'm so proud of you & hope that all your dreams come true. We have been more than just brother & sister . . . we've been friends !!! Love always, Walter

These years have been great. We've gone through so much & have gotten away w/it all! 4th per. luncheons have been so much fun. We've got good times to look back on & hopefully more to come. Even if we go our separate ways we'll always be friends & our times together. The future holds our dreams- here we come! Good-bye H.H.S. Thanx F/F C/O '88 Vera, Thuy, & Jackie HELEN- My twin, buddy, "true friend', China Doll, etc. Where can I begin? U have been there 4 me through thick & thin. It doesn't seem like we're outta here! All our undercoverness in our freshmen yr. to our important happenings of a Senior! We've been through it all! Not as a 1/2 but a whole. I know we're going far in life & U deserve the best! All the skeleton bones in the closet only the China Dolls could know it all. I love U lots & thanx 4 everything. We're gonna have the ultimate 'pad" in the Marina, so get ready 4 more DIRT! ZOILA- My other "best friend" Where have U been amiga? We've been together 4 12 yrs. & we have so many memories! But I never xpected a little one! Adrian I love U! Please be careful & remember from sushi to beans we've been a pair! Then, now, & 4-ever! I love U! Rose & Michelle- since Jr. High we have been buddies. We have 2 go out more & don't let nothing come between us. I'm gonna miss U York girls but please stay in touch! SYLVIA, MYRA, FIA- The other part of our gutter gang. You guys are wonderful! TALANOAS- My favorite Islanders. Stay away from all those gorgeous Samoan men! Aloha! SANDI & MIKE- Stoners, lovers, fighters, whatever the 2 of U R. U must B meant 4 eachother. Remember how sneaky we were in our sophomore yr.? Shame on U Sandi. BIBI, MONICA, & TRICIA- Well now U guys R the freaks of the school. Don't drive the guys 2 wild & Bibi U R 2 sexy 4 me! NEICEY, DEANNA, DEE DEE, SHARON- 2 my 4 track buddies, U guys R always the buddies & I love U guys. KAREN & JESSICA- The 2 Drill Team beauties. Eventhough I don't see U 2 much U guys R my special friends. B good! ALFED & MIRIAM- The Ultimate couple! I can't call U "fassy" no more because U've been married 2 long! Good luck & invite me 2 the wedding! MELANIE- Keep on dancing Sade. And we do have 2 continue in Westwood, Paradise, & all the live West L.A. parties. CARLA- Well lil' one you've stuck here w/all these fake people. Good luck! Just remember it's jealousy! Stay cute & take care of the boys! MONICA- Pepa, what's happening'? Thanx 4 all your help w/Kevin etc. U R de' buddy. Remember the men all pause! SHEILA- County! One day you're gonna get caught! But until then, more power 2 U. Don't be flied as me! JIL & LAURA- I love U two! Chicken & rice go good 2-gether. Have fun on squad! MR. K.- "Daddy K" Thanx 4 everything these past 4 yrs. U're the best! MS. MOON- My chinamom- it's over 4 me! Thanx again & I'm still waiting some wedding ivnitations. Hint! MR. & MRS. HOY- U're the greatest! I'll be back 2 visit! MR. CASILLAS- U did a great job but w/the help of a great T.A. Ha Ha MR. MINAMI- Thanx 4 being a wonerful uncle! To the c/o '88 we're outta here & we are the best! Thanx 4 all the memories & be good! To the rest good luck - Peace! Mom & Dad- U 2 R responsible & I couldn't have done it w/o U both. I love U & remember words can't express all my thanx! I'll be good! TO MY BROTHER- Us 2 2-gether trouble! U R the best! I love U! U're a super friend! Thanx. TRAVIS- One of my favorite bro's. We're finally done w/this yr. & we outta here! U R so special & U deserve only the best. Don't let any of these fake people get 2 U cuz' U gonna B big time one day & they not gonna B anything but still fake! I'm gonna miss U so much, but keep in touch w/your favorite "China Doll". DAVID & RICHARHD- Since intermediate we've been buddies. U were my true friends & we definitely have 2 remain 4-ever friends! Love U. TONY "POOH"- Where can I start? U R a very special person 2 me & I hope the best turns out in this relationship. Good luck ballin' and watch me when I'm a Laker Girl! Stop smackin' & don't B so sneaky, cuz U will get caught! R.J.- My fa-vorite person who needs an affair I still owe U a dinner at my house & a lecture w/my father. Be good. VICTOR- Trick! Hey we've had R ups & downs but U got that special something that keeps us going! Keep all your girls happy. DOUG, SHON & TIM- The 3 stoners, please stay healthy & U better stay in touch. CARLO & RANDY- U guys were ballin', keep all those girls off your tip, & where's my reverse! BYRON & CHEPELL- The undercover lovers, U guys aren't that sneaky it must have benen the luck of the Sentra & Honda. One at a time pase. BOO, ERIC, TOAD- Wrestlers, well at least Eric, ha ha! The other 2 try stayin' in class & learn to wrestle. It's been fun! "LOW DOWNS"- U guys weren't as fresh as U thought, & only one's left, Zachary! LEMORY- Hey big guy! U have been one of my true friends & believe me I appreciate it. There's not 2 many true people around here & U deserve the best! LEROY & CONWAY- The 2 track superstars, don't B as fast as U are w/all the girls. Remember C-Loc & Lee Loc - RUN! HOP, ALAN "SHAW", & TONY- White boy & China- Man B good & stay out of trouble! CHRIS- When U finally become a Senior, U're gonna B the star athlete. B careful of all the girls & please pick a "righteous one". Stay cute & out of trouble. LUIS, ROBERT, & ELOY- ¿Que paso? Es mi- Chinita, hey U guys R 2 cool remember Oreintals R better than Latins.

Dear Jason, I know I'm hard to live with, but you seem to be able to put up with me. Thank you for making me happier than I've been for a long time. I'm proud of you. I love you Jason, Marianne P.S. Wanna get married today?

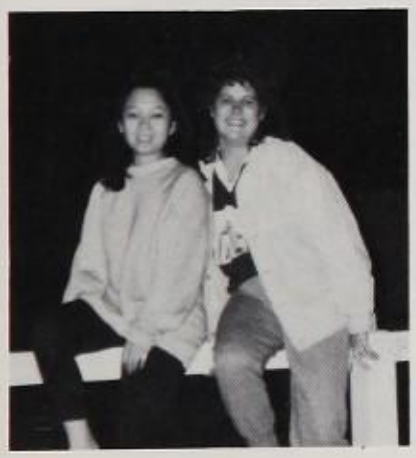
Don't forget that I love you. Don't forget the times I kissed & hugged you. I'll always stand by your side . . . can't let you go, wont' even try. I know this time baby it's true. I'll always be in love with you.

Lindsay Allen Class of 2001



So much laughter, so many tears. Our friendship has lasted 8 long years. All the accomplishments & disappointments we've faced. Those fond memories can never be erased. Each time I needed someone there was you eager to listen & to make the gray skies blue. My dear friend thank you for being a part of me. You've made me realize how true friendship should be. From 5th grade brats to high school Seniors, look how far we've come together.

Thanks everyone for putting up with me. Love ya.
PATRICIA MARIE PONCE DE LEON

Sis, You've been the greatest friend! You're very special to me & I'll never forget our special friendship. Thanx for all the times you've been there for me. I would've never made it w/o you. Love ya lots Tweeter! Thuy Vi

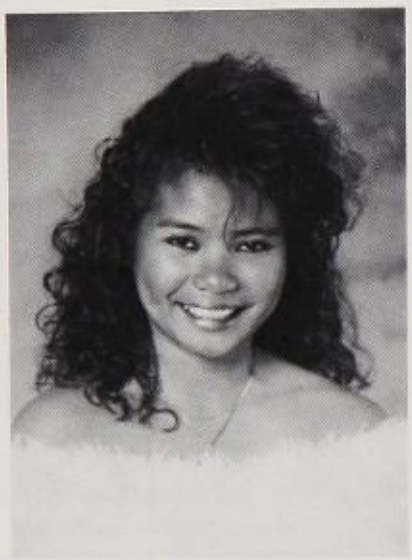
Sweet sis, These past few yrs. we've loved, laughed & lived. We both know how rough it can get. How bored you must've been by my little stories of incidents. But what is a sis for right? Hugs & kisses. Friends & sis always, me

THESE ARE MY FRIENDS & THIS IS MY LIFE
LOANER- Remember that 1st football game! Then came the scooter rides, the beach fest, Mexico, the bunkers, Halloween, hot tubbing, wow, there's just too many crazy times to list. We mustn't forget the jailbirds. That was one time of many. I can't think of anyone else I'd rather get in trouble w/but you. You always make it more fun. You spontanious thing you! I'm too serious & you're tooe easy going, but together we even out. BEV- Hey sis! You most likely know me better than anyone else. Anytime I need gutts I think of you or better yet I'll call you after a bad night at 9:00 in the morning. You're the one that keeps me going. You are my strength. Remember they're all jokes. Well blow my hair back. RICHMAN- I saw you looking out the corner of your eyeball. Level!! You sly devil you. Our friendship went over the toughest obsticle course one could, but the bond still lives. Oh no!, more evidence, aaah!! The defense is down. Let me burn all the yearbooks. Remember, some of my best friends are dumps! They'll never know the real story will they? We're just friends . . . JOHNNY P - The jokes on you. Hey mooney! Yah got a sailor handy? Fix the violin already. Better yet fix me up. I've been laughing non-stop eversince I met ya 4 yrs. ago. Can I draw a smiley on your butt again? Well, dad & mom have to be going now, but the drama family will live happily ever after. MEL-ISA WILL NOT- Okay babe, are ya ready for some guy talk? I'm bored let's go visit a moselium again? Thanx for all the insightfulness. I needed my fix. Are ya ready to drive off of Manhattan Pier? Naw, we have to go hiking this weekend. MRS. M- My good friend that just happens to be my teacher. You have inspired me to do so much. Why do you have so much faith in me? I have learned so much from you. I have never met a more beautiful, genuine, one of a kind person & I don't think I ever will. Can I drive your car again? Hey, let's do lunch & talk dirty Thank you, thank you, thank you! I love you & thanks. MICHELLE- Hey girly! I've got to say you are truly a wonderful actress. Hey we can relate, eh! We've been through it all or is there more? I'm glad that finally after 3 yrs. we became friends. Hey don't forget the sour tarts, cherry pie, & no I won't hate you because you're beautiful! BABY HUEY- How are you on diapers? Thanks for making me laugh. From beginning to advanced to festival to festival, I'll always love you, eventhough you do get on my nerves. Taco, Taco Taco Bell. DAVID- Well Mr. A.S.B. man, honors student, the list goes on. Show us the true story. I'm gonna miss ya & thanks for all the fun times. Don't tell anyone about the 4th of July . . . BRUTUS/PILAR- Chicken franks all the way! Stay together, please. Quit bouncing on the motorcycle & thanks for all the hugs. Duh! LINDA- Control yourself! Beeeww! Can I have a cig? SAMEER- (Study Sam) No I don't want a cig. You control yourself too. ZZZZUNG- Thanks for saving my butt. I'm sorry. I tease you it's just that I love you- Madonna Wanna. PATTY WATTY- Do you need help? Tell me your frustrations. Can I change my ad one more time? ANGEL- And what are you doing in the darkroom? How come you always seem to be thirsty?RAW-BEE- You owe me a ski trip! Not another note? You ask too many questions. My sex life is fine thank-you! Put yours on hold & dance w/me. ALEX- We've been through too much, glad it's all worked out.
ANNIE- You're my favorite too. STEVE- Am I really your good friend? ELENA- My answer phone wants to talk w/you. Your hair looks fine. Nope no parties this weekend. TANYA- Chorus to drama than back. I'll never forget you. Let's go Put On The Hits. Last but not least to the drama family- Good-bye all. It's ime for us to move on. Don't be sad be happy it will give you more room to grow. What a talented group you are & sensitive too. I'm sorry I yelled at ya. Can't wait to see ya on stage next year. Break many legs. I'm a very lucky person to have so many good friends. Good-bye to everyone! I'll see ya on film. Until then, see ya. M.J.

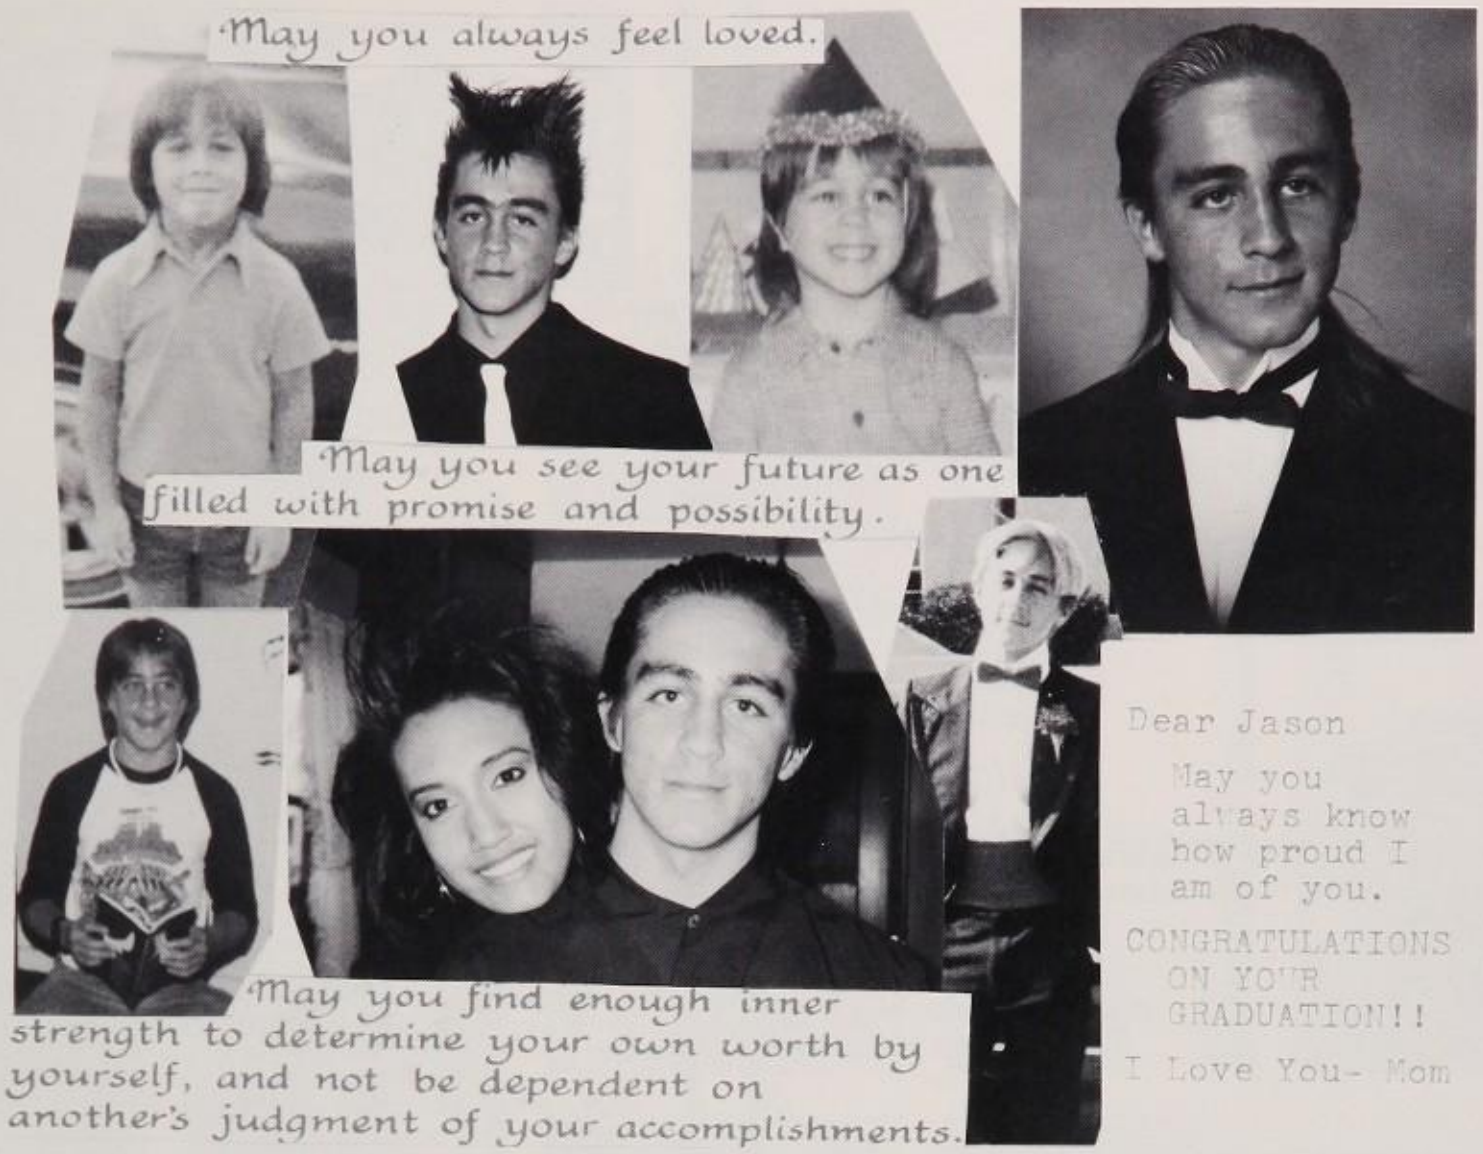
LISA- We've finally made it & we do have some stories to tell our kids! From code names & double dates to sneaking over at 4:00 A.M. . . . we've been thru it all . . . 2-gether! I'm gonna miss you so much, but R hi-school memories will lst 4-ever & I'm sure there R many more 2 come; definitely! I luv you w/all my heart & the china dolls will be kin 4-ever. DAVID- K-1 thru 12th grade w/ your big"Nugget" head! We R the bestest friends & U will B the one I miss the most! It makes me sad to think we won't see each other 24/7 anymore. I'm gonna miss the time we usually share 2gether, Sam Goody crisis & Xmas dance . . . what classics!! U're gonna make it out there & I'll B as proud of U then as I am now. I'll love U always & hey . . . let's do lunch! ROSE-MARIE- Your home is my home & my parents R your parents! R we really sisters or what . . . a nip & an Italian? Couldn't be! I'm gonna miss U so much Boo . . . from Ross (dress for less) & crying out our problems, we've had some krazy times. Lots of laughs & many secrets . . . ssh! Get my seat ready & dinner in May. Tee hee! I LUV U! Bye . . . 4 now! RICHARD-"What do U have this period?" I'll miss those days at Piggies. U R the most talented person I know & U'll B famous 1 day . . . I know it! I'll never 4get the memories . . . LINDA- U R such a bad influence!! U R my sister & I'm gonna miss your skinny butt! Good luck at USC . . . I'm still waiting! I luv U! DUNG- No more late night parties 2 eat Doritos or Mickey D's sundaes . . . We've had so much gun. Thanx 4 everything!! MICHELLE- From Sophies, doing your hair to big time Seniors . . . lots of memories 4 us! No matter what, I'll luv U always! SYLVIA- It's Sentra time! Fun times over the years. I'll miss U. MYRA- Your smile always brighen my days! I luv U & hey, kick back!! TRAVIS- We've gotten so close this yr. Like I always told U, U're special. Dont' ever let things get U down cuz remember,"when U're down, I'm down!" I'll always B here 4 U when U need a friend . . . thanx for caring Hey"T", we're finally getting out of this funky school. TRICIA B- U & Joyce are in trouble . . . will U B OK w/o us? We've grown so close & it's scary sometimes! From double dates, getting lost on the freeway, to hotel rooms . . . what's next?! 2 more yrs. 4 U . . . Good luck! CHRISTOPHER- My ace buddie & my #1 sweetheart. From staring & crying all night or like usual, just cold chillin'-you've always been there 4 me! Thanx, I'm gonna miss U so much & i hope U don't 4get about me! Remember me when U play 'Keith Sweat" I luv U! ZOILA- We'll always B tight, like my eyes cuz we R truly the homies from the way back. I luv U mucho & kiss Adrienne 4 me! BOUCHE- Hi Bootie! What can I say? We're going our separate ways but our friendship will always B the same. U R a unique individual whom I'll never 4get. 3 1/2 yrs. is a long time 2 wait. Tee hee. Lots of fun n memories & hey,"where R U staying 2 nite?" MELANIE- We have that special trust between us & I'm gonna miss U. No more Jam city. I'm in college now! ROBERT & ELOY- U krazy latinos! The 2 biggest sweethearts I know. I luv U guys 86-87 SOPHIES- I hope I left U w/ a jammin squad, just like this yr's. Ha ha LAURA- Stay away fr. Berkley & KIT to tell me the latest dirt, ssh! Secrets! STACY & CAROL-"Salt n Peppa's here!" TASHA- Dang, your booties BIG! JANE- hey, Whitegrl! JIL- hip nips 4ever! CASSANDRA- I haven't seen U in a long time! 4 yrs. of fun & memories . . . homies 2 the heart . . . 4ever! TRINA- Eucalyptians, Hawks, to Cougars, I'll never 4 get the fun! LOAN, MJ, SAMEER, GUTTER GANG- Anymore Kaluha? FUN, GIRLEY, NANCY- Hey lil' sis's! U guys always gave me that smile I needed to make my day. I luv U guys! VICTOR, BYRON, RAH, LEMORY- Cheering 4 U as Sophies then Varsity! U guys R a trip, but I still luv U! FIA- Tongan power!!! Sophies will live 4ever . . . in my heart! RONALD- My buddy 4ever! MOM, DAD, WALT- I wouldn't have made it w/o U! I luv U & thanx for always being there. To all the seniors of 1988 & everybody else we're leaving behind, good luck in the future & it's been fun!!! Later . . .

good. as mine. Continue future success on the football team.

Friendship is a golden chain made stronger with each year.
Each link is forged of memories that make you still more dear.
The thoughtful things you say & do become the links of gold.
That I will treasure through the years & in my heart will hold.



From a mischievous devil to a beautiful Angel. Congratulations Lisa E. & the Class of 1988! Our baby girl, we love you. Mommie & Daddie



May you always feel loved.
May you see your future as one filled with promise and possibility.
May you find enough inner strength to determine your own worth by yourself, and not be dependent on another's judgment of your accomplishments.
Dear Jason
May you always know how proud I am of you.

...to wish. So long so hard I do. This year was...

DAVID-Hey U can stop rubbin' those hands 2-gether cause we made it! It's finally over! Wait, whatta ya haaave this period? (No, cause "Iz ain't neva gonna get outa hea, neva!) 10yrs (not counting the year that 'lil boy kept snickering at me) is a long time to know someone & 2 B BEST FRIENDS at that! We've been through it all it seems. Hey, let's ride on a broken down bus, dig through mail boxes at the beach, & ski into a pile of wood, yeah! Good luck always! Remember Europe, Florida, Squanto, four square (made anyone cry lately? Shriiiiink!) 2 guys & hopefully Hawaii 4-ever? MELISSA-The world's a stage! Uuuuh . . . how about that key? That's okay, I'll just find an eagle! We'd make beautiful U no wats. That's still a proposition but I'll settle for kneeling down & playing. If U like your B's stuck 2 your body . . . (would U get that right!) The memories I'll treasure, Thanx! M.J.-Looks like ECC 4 U & me babe! Wut can I say but we can relate & we've been through the worse! Wuts this thing w/cast parties . . . just friends? I don't know how it would B if I never met U, level! Make sure U call & invite me to your cast parties when you're famous-K, & oh, don't forget to bring the stool on stage. heehee ! LOAN-You've made this a killer year! Piggies? No, Island Snow, heah ! WHAT! Stoopod! El Terasco, ummm! Mexico . . . ? Don't leave me! I don't care where we go. I don't care what we do. I don't care pretty baby, just TAKE ME W/ U! Just don't back into J.N.'s car K? What! The Boucin Bodies! LINDA BABY—Our friendship has come a long way since the "Jay Min" days. U stabbing that chick :)/k No regrets babe! I luv U dearly & I'll miss U! I'll never forget the special moments. Helen-Women's Book! Hey, U hung in there while I got the boot! It's gone fast since the Eucalyptus days. I'm glad we stuck 2gether & our friendship survived. The olden days were GREAT and I won't 4get! PATTY WATTY EVELYNE ALMOND ROCHA-U never call me! U dogged me! J/K I really care 4 U even though Uhaven't taken me to FLTN'S! U don't know how much it means 2 me 2 know how much you care 4 me! U've reached out so many times & I thank you 4 it! Wherever we go U better K.I.T.! Tell Dora I need a haircut. LUV YA ALWAYS! JOANNE-I'll tell U if you tell me! Dark room? Keep me updated-K SAMEER-Mr. 21. I know you idolize me! U must be . . . uh? Looks like ECC 4 U & me 2! Oh well! DUNG-Oh, hello! Hey U're alright! A lil shaky on the BS but U're getting there. When R U gonna put that key to good use? I knew it was U! Ha ha! BRUCE-Duh! Bouncin on cycles isn't good for your health. Never 4-get that one Easter break dude. Wuwuwuwuwu wait! KAREN-Don't think I forgot my favorite Filip obsession!:)/k U sweetheart U. Rainbow Connection, Lil X-Mas tree . . . play it 1 more time! JESSICA-X-Mas dance memories! My dancin Filip Queen. KUMI-How's the community house? Slumber every weekend! Let's play soccer w/a softball. Things have changed since 2nd grade, huh? Well change is the only permanent thing! K.I.T. CYNDRA-Moody! No, Ceeeentia! I couldn've sworn U hated me! Well I'm mentioning U anyway. Thanks 4 covering 4 me & puttin up w/me! R U sure U don't want 2 sit up front w/me? Oh, stop pushing my leg! JOHN-Mr. Drama U.S.A. Tarpits? Graveyard? No way! Remember me when you're famous-K! AMY-Paulina 4-ever! So, when R U gonna B on the cover of Vogue? LESA-Didn't 4-get ya! Encountered any knives lately? Boo! TRINA-Uh . . . I like that Jimmy's outfit! Oh, that denim one too, how much wuz it? 1-2-3, turbo! DOO your fingers hang low! The old Eucalptan gang rules! TINA & STEPHKINS-I hope it all works out! Oh & Tina, wooohl Libaceshibirts! LISA E.-Madam President! R we still tied 4 most infected w/ senioritis? SONIA-B trippin! U R 2 fine! MR. K.-I'll serve it! U're a great person & a good friend, will U adopt me? MR. A.-We made it! It's over at 10:00, don't worry! TWEEETY-Vertical or horizontal? JOSEPH, CHRISTINE, TRICIA BABY STORK, DINAH, RUPAM, HUSHIE, RUTH, JOHN, RICKY, & BRIAN-Make me eat my words & give me a better book! Thanx 4 a great year. H.H.S.-Good-bye & thanx 4 some of the best memories ever! Richard c/o '88

been about 11/2 yrs. But we have so many different memories t look back on. Like for instance: All of those hotel parties especial Flavio's, remember you on the stairs- oh no! never again, huh yeah, I bet! Everyone fell on their face that night. How about th bon fires-BAH! That's dogged, you just had to take me to B-King
'87 prom night, how bunk it was, oops, I burnt my hair! Oh, Ensenada, you just had to kick it all night, while we were all havin fun. "I'm wild" Jason-DUD! You always tried to get things straigh
w/me & him, & he'd still end up doggin'. I'm over him now thoug right? right! There's so many other crazy times, but I just can't writ them all down. You've helped me through so much Paola & wha really want to say is "THANK-YOU" so much for always being ther for me & being the best friend I never had! You might be leaving Sept. but no matter what we'll always be the best of friends
LOVE YOU! P.S.-laydar Mrs. Caveman foot, think she's fine, try t dance, fake ol' smile of a B-head. Dang I dogged huh? Oh we
And you thought I didn't write you an ad! That sucks Paola! Lov always, your best bud, Myra

Volume 36 of Hawthorne High's El Molino, which was Too Good To Forget, was designed, financed, and published by the unforgettable staff of 1988. El Molino was led by Editor Richard San Mateo, with Advisor Richard Allen, and how could we forget the supportive guidance of our Herff Jones wonder-rep Debbie Hcle. The memories were printed on Eurogloss Paper and 80 pound Bordeaux by Herff Jones Yearbooks, Logan, Utah.

Senior class portraits were taken by Sanford Studios, which also assisted with candid photography. Underclassmen portraits were taken by Thompson Photography. Avant Garde in 10 pt. was used for stories and 8 pt. for captions. Garamond Italic in 12 pt. was used for Opening Section and Division pages.
